Europe's Dish for Us.
48 Opinions, No Opinion.
Two Kinds of Conscription.
Man and Animals.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 9.

JUDGE W. W. ANDERSON, of Jacksonville, likes practical jokes. His wife wanted turkey eggs for a setting hen. The humorous Judge brought her two buzzard's eggs, and next day asked:

"Did you put those turkey eggs under your hen?"

"No," said the wife. "Only two eggs would not be worth hatching, so I gave you the eggs scrambled for breakfast this morning."

THAT KIND of breakfast old Mother Europe is preparing for Uncle Sam, financially.

England may offer two billion dollars, or perhaps only one billion and a quarter, in full payment of all Europe's debts. Those gentlemen borrowed ten billions, to pay five per cent interest.

The debt, with interest not compounded, at only four per cent, would amount now to sixteen billions four hundred millions. To settle now for about one billion would be pleasant for Europe.

It will not be pleasant for the Democratic party, if it consents to any such nonsense.

TWO DAYS after his inauguration, President Roosevelt will have a meeting of Governors of all the states in the White House, to discuss "what to do?"

To let the Governors come in, express their opinions, get acquainted with the President and each other, is a good idea. But 48 opinions would mean no opinion. If anything is to be done, it must be done by ONE MAN with the right idea and the power to make others accept it.

You can't run a newspaper with an editorial conference, or run a government with a conference of Governors. There is no substitute for ideas and will power IN THE INDIVIDUAL.

STALIN, IN Russia, drafts tens of thousands from the cities, peasants from farms, sends them into the cold Arctic to cut trees and provide lumber that the second five-year plan calls for. Our "best minds" shake their heavy heads and say:

"How horrible, to force tens of thousands of men to cut down trees in Arctic weather."

They didn't shake their heads when our government forced three million men to go to Europe into a quarrel not our own. To stand around in trenches is less pleasant than cutting wood in cold weather.

STALIN'S MEN cutting wood will produce wealth.

Our men were gassed, some of them shot, and the bill in pensions, bonus insurance and hospitalization, involved in their enforced absence abroad, their heroism and patriotism will cost taxpayers of the United States fifty thousand million dollars before the bill is all paid.

Some countries are more foolish than Russia, and some kinds of stupidity worse than drafting men to cut lumber.

SCIENTISTS HAVE described variously the difference between a human being and an animal.

One says the human being is the only animal that laughs. Another says that man is the only animal that thinks.

It might be more accurate to say that man is the only animal UNABLE TO MIND ITS OWN BUSINESS.

IN NEW YORK, 3,000 march solemnly, in protest against Japan's war in China. How does this concern anybody among the 3,000? How many of them know that those killed by the Japanese are largely Chinese brigands that the Chinese government has been unsuccessfully trying to kill?

What would the 3,000 solemn marchers have said if the same number of Japanese had marched around Tokio in 1917, protesting against our foolish interference in the European war?

MR. O. O. M'INTYRE, who wanders up and down the earth and tells what he sees, describes "Freckles," educated by a girl on an Illinois farm:

"Freckles is a white pig with gilded hooves, and a red ribbon neck bow. It rolls over, squeals, fires off pistols, and shimmies to music."

The pig is well paid. Many ladies on the beaches do for nothing all that "Freckles" does for pay, and the ladies have their toe nails painted many different colors, not merely gilded.

AT MIDNIGHT tonight comes the "zero hour" in our big imitation naval battle, somewhere out in the Pacific. One hundred and thirty-seven floating ships, 34,200 men, 325 aircraft, will operate on two million five hundred thousand square miles of ocean, with Hawaii as the western limit.

The sham battle is useful, and will teach something, if it only teaches some other countries to step on our feet cautiously.

The interesting question is:

"What could those 325 aircraft, that cost altogether much less than one single battleship, do to the 137 floating ships, and 32,400 men, if they were allowed to do their best?"

THE DIFFERENCE between a man and a bird is shown in the plan to reach the top of Mt. Everest. Men, striving to reach the top on foot, have toiled.

NEW LINDY KIDNAP PLOT THWARTED

2 Seized as Writers Of Threatening Notes Demanding $50,000

ROANOKE, Va., Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Police took into custody today Joe Bryant, 19, and Norman Harvey, 26, in what they charge was a crude attempt to extort $50,000 from Col. Charles A. Lindbergh under threat of kidnaping his second son.

The prisoners, both residents of Roanoke, are being held for United States authorities.

A denial that they had any connection with threatening letters or that they engaged in correspondence with a Roanoke policeman who represented himself as representative of Col. Lindbergh, was made by both men.

TRAPPED BY RUSE

Bryant and Harvey were arrested on a ruse, police said, when Bryant took a $17,000 check that had been planted in a stump in a wooded section in the Weaver Heights area some days ago, to the State and City Bank to obtain cash.

Bryant walked into the bank about 11:30 a. m. and went to the window at which W. M. Skelton is teller, police asserted. Bank tellers and cashiers had been tipped off for two or three weeks to be on the alert for this check and Skelton recognized it at once.

The youth, who appears to be of limited education and writes a poor hand, was reported to have said:

"I want to get this cashed."

Skelton, turning about in the cage, handed the check to Leigh Stevens, assistant cashier, and asked him to get the bundle of money ready. He then asked the youth:

"How do you want it?"
"Make it in big bills."

RAILROADS ASK CREDIT BOOST

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—The railroads asked Congress today for more liberal government credit to prevent receiverships which their spokesmen suggested would bring "wreck and ruin" to the financial structure of the nation.

Alfer P. Thom, general counsel for the Association of Railway Executives, testified before a Senate committee that suspension of loans would mean "abandoning" them.

He acknowledged that a "top heavy" financial structure of the roads might force reorganization of some, but urged that credit be extended until that could be achieved.

A. A. Ballantine, undersecretary of the Treasury, testified that "preservation of the railroads and upholding them is an indispensible part of any program for recovery."

Questioned by Senator Couzens as to how far borrowing should go, Ballantine said:

"I don't know. I think we should go ahead. This is like a war. I don't know whether we can lick the enemy or not. But we must expend out last resource."

Thalberg Stricken, Will Take Long Rest

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 9.—(Universal.)—Ill for several weeks, Irving Thalberg will not return to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios as production executive for approximately another two months, and in the meantime may travel to Europe, it was announced today. Louis B. Mayer, vice president of M. G. M., said:

"How soon he will return and how much he will be able to do depends upon his health. Thalberg is a junior partner in the company and he will be with us

PAIR BEING HELD IN KIDNAPING

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—A man and a woman were in technical custody of police today in connection with the kidnaping of Mrs. Mary B. Skeele, 65, wife of Dr. Walter F. Skeele, dean of the college of music of the University of Southern California, and the attempted abduction of Miss Isobel Smith, 29, former University of Southern California student body president.

Police records list the woman as Mrs. Luella Pearl Hammer, 27, and the man as W. D. Howard, 32, employed by the woman as handyman at her home, which is located about two blocks from the spot where Mrs. Skeele's captors had directed her husband to deposit the $10,000 in ransom money they had demanded. Howard said he arrived here from Kansas City six months ago.

Carnegie Biography Given Praise by Schwab

Charles M. Schwab, one of the last of the cycle of great steel leaders, today commented on the life of Andrew Carnegie, by Burton J. Hendrick, which began Tuesday in the Sun-Telegraph—the only serialization of the celebrated work authorized for any newspaper.

Mr. Schwab, who as a boy started to work in the Homestead mills and in later years became a trusted lieutenant of Carnegie, now heads the huge Bethlehem Steel Company. His life almost parallels that of his sponsor.

Herewith is his comment:

"New York, N. Y.

"Burton J. Hendrick's Life of Andrew Carnegie is a splendid presentation. In reading it I again relived those stirring days, the lovable character of Mr. Carnegie, and his vast achievements as set forth in this biography, which is thorough, appropriate and truthful."

CULT LEADER SHUNNED IN KILLING

Members Accused in Death of Woman Ask 'Spirit' Mercy

INEZ, Ky., Feb. 9.—(AP.)—John H. Mills, said by officers to have been leader of a cult that climaxed a fantastic riutal by the "sacrifice" of an aged woman, found himself shunned and abandoned by his followers today.

Cowering in their cold and dimly-lighted cells in the Martin County Jail, the seven others arrested with him repudiated him as one who had "loosed evil spirits among us" as they chanted and prayed for their deliverance.

STRANGLED BY CHAIN

The victim of the cult "sacrifice," Mrs. Lucinda Mills, 72, was found by officers strangled to death in her crude mountain home in the isolated town of Tomahawk. A chain was drawn about her neck and one end of it tied to her right foot. Officers believed her body was being prepared for immolation, upon either an improvised cross or a funeral pyre.

County Attorney Jasper Priest said he would file a charge of murder against John H. Mills for the death of his mother and would charge six others with being accessories. The others are Mrs. John H. Mills, wife of the accused man; Blaine McGinnis and his wife, Fred and Ballard Mills and Mrs. Ora Moore, all related. Tom Boyd, a son-in-law of the victim, is held as a material witness.

THREE ESCAPE DOOM

Priest said he had information that three other persons had previously been selected as "sacrifices" by the cult, but they had escaped.

The county attorney described in detail the grotesque antics of the cult members when they reached the highest point of frenzy. He said:

SENATE HIT ON STOCK PROBE

Evidence Suppressed, Manhattan Board Charges

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—A letter to Senators from the Manhattan Board of Commerce today asked for a Senate inquiry into the conduct by the Senate Banking Committee of its investigation of stock market practices.

The letter was accompanied by a report from the New York Stock Exchange reform committee that had been set up by the Board of Commerce.

The resolution, drawn up by the reform committee, charged that important evidence had been given the banking committee but that "the greatest secrecy has been indulged in to hide these facts from the public and give immunity to those interests that swindled defenseless citizens out of their money and made millions of American people jobless and homeless."

SENATORS SILENT

There was no immediate comment from Senators on the letter and resolutions.

Chairman Norbeck, of the Banking Committee, announced that a meeting that had been called for tomorrow had been postponed and that the next hearing would be on February 21, when Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the board of the National City Bank, of New York, will testify.

The Stock Evchange Committee, in a report which accompanied the letter, contended that the banking committee's investigation of the Stock Exchange "has completely collapsed and is, and has been, doing nothing more than practicing a deception upon the people of the United States."

The Reform Committee resolution said a "whole year's time has been consumed in hearing the testimony of only 30 witnesses," and

6 FIREMEN DIE IN HOTEL FIRE

OMAHA, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Six firemen were killed, one was missing and 17 others were injured in a spectacular fire that destroyed the four-story Millard Hotel, historic downtown landmark, early today, during a 15 below zero temperature. The loss was estimated at $250,000.

After seven hours' work, only the body of Capt. Ed Smith had been recovered from the ruins. He was killed in the collapse of a wall which buried him and at least three others.

Two more were buried under debris in the basement. Senior Capt. George Cogan, brother of Fire Chief Patrick Cogan, and Fire Inspector Clarence Urban were trapped after an explosion brought the roof down on them, carrying them to the cellar. Fireman Walter Hoye, who had entered with them, was rescued.

Rescuers talked with Cogan but were unable to reach him or Urban. Little hope was held that they would be rescued alive.

Oldest Cardinal, 88, Dies in Vatican City

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 9.—(INS.)—Cardinal Fruwirth, chancellor of the church and oldest member of the Sacred College, died today after a long illness. He was 88 years old.

He was appointed papal nuncio in Munich in 1907, which was unprecedented as he was an Austrian. It was said that while at Munich he prevented the interning by Kaiser Wilhelf of Germany of the Belgian Cardinal Mercier.

Mrs. Emma Miller Considered for Capitol Job

By GEORGE E. DURNO
International News Service.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 9.—Smashing all American precedents, it appeared likely today a woman may receive a real diplomatic post under the "new deal" of President-elect Roosevelt's administration.

Ruth Bryan Owen, retiring Congresswoman from Florida, and daughter of William Jennings Bryan, "the great commoner," was being pushed strongly for American minister to Denmark.

Political headquarters here, under direction of Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley, were inclined to Mrs. Owen's appointment.

Frances Perkins, New York State Labor Commissioner, seemed a safe bet as Secretary of Labor—the first of her sex to sit in the Cabinet. Many other women were being considered for other important positions in Washington.

Among them is Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller, of Pittsburgh.

In the list of men being considered for posts as ambassadors the name of M. L. Benedum, also of Pittsburgh, stands high.

The cold wave which struck Pittsburgh may increase in intensity until the mercury dips as low as five degrees below zero tonight, predicts Forecaster W. S. Brotzman.

Preceded by a blizzard which swept out of the Northwest, the frigid weather tightened its grip on Pittsburgh, driving temperatures down to sub-zero marks in many communities in Allegheny County.

The Weather Bureau at Washington forecast a break in the cold wave which was expected to reach the East by tomorrow.

Fires drove a dozen persons from their homes into the bitter cold last night as firemen labored under difficulties to subdue the flames.

Some relief from the cold has been predicted for tomorrow by Brotzman, who promises slowly rising temperatures.

Unofficial recordings at police stations in various sections of Allegheny County showed temperatures ranging from 7 degrees below zero in Dormont to an average of 5 above in many parts of Pittsburgh.

Ten persons, including three smal. children, were being cared

MT. LEBANON SCHOOLS BROKE

Howard M. Johnson, Mt. Lebanon Township School Director, last night warned that Mt. Lebanon schools may be forced to close in March because of depleted funds and narrowing borrowing power.

Speaking at a "get-together" meeting in the Washington School, Johnson declared that less than half of the school taxes are being collected.

Supporters of the recent $275,000 bond issue for the new municipal building were scored by L. C. Clark, president of the Board of Township Commissioners. He promised residents a reduction in the tax millage despite the bond issue, which calls for the assessment of an additional mill each year.

EX-KAISER LONGS TO HOLD THRONE BRIEFLY, THEN ABDICATE

SEEKS TO REGAIN HOHENZOLLERN PRESTIGE

By WILLIAM HILLMAN
Universal Service.

LONDON, Feb. 9. — Ex-Kaiser Wilhelm wants to return to Germany for only a few days to rehabilitate himself in the eyes of the world and then abdicate the throne he fled at the conclusion of the World War in favor of his eldest son, ex-Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm.

This is "the Exile of Doorn's" dream, according to his own alleged hopes, revealed to relatives abroad and reported in important London circles. British and German circles here feel, however, that the former kaiser stands little chance of realizing such a dream immediately.

KAISER'S DREAM

According to the report, he told relatives:

"I am an old man, worn out and tired. I am waiting the call to return to Germany. When it comes, I shall return for a few days only and then abdicate in favor of my eldest son. What he then does is up to him, even if he wishes to abdicate in favor of his eldest son (Prince Wilhelm), but I am opposed to any break in the direct handing down of rights.

"If the crown prince is chosen without my consent or if his eldest son is chosen without the crown prince's formal relinquishment of rights, it would set a dangerous precedent.

FEARS BAVARIA

"I am afraid that the house of Bavaria (the Wittelsbach family) would then want the throne to be elective, in which case the Hohenzollerns might have to yield to the Wittelsbachs.

"But I am not ambitious for myself. I would be frank and state I am too old, but I want to return to Germany to rehabilitate myself."

The ex-Kaiser is said to have intimated to relatives that he fears his second wife, Princess Hermine, would not be acceptable as empress to German royalists.

JAPAN DROPS ALL TRUCE EFFORTS

Rumored Roosevelt Opposition Ignored In Tokio

By JAMES R. YOUNG
International News Service.

TOKIO, Feb. 9.—Scoffing at rumors that President-elect Roosevelt is opposed to Japan's Manchurian policy, the Japanese government today virtually sounded the death-knell of attempts to conciliate the conflict with China.

The government, it was made known, considers further conciliatory talk regarding the Manchurian dispute "hopeless."

RUMORS DISCOUNTED

The foreign office, meanwhile, issued a statement discounting rumors emanating from Geneva that President-elect Roosevelt was attempting to use the League as a whip in breaking the power of Japan in the Far East.

According to the rumors, which have received no confirmation, Roosevelt aims to establish the principle of non-recognition of Manchukuo by means of an unofficial understanding with other powers through commercial channels.

He further favors, according to the rumors, proposals that the United States join the League.

Japanese quarters assert these rumors are baseless and originated from an anti-Japanese source for the purpose of silencing the Japanese delegation in Geneva and hamper Japan during the Sino-Japanese attempts to end the dispute.

JAPAN FIGHTS DECISION

GENEVA, Feb. 9 — (INS.) — Japan, still defying the great powers, insists upon the recognition of Manchukuo, her puppet state in Manchuria.

Battling with decision made by the League of Nations Committee of Nineteen today ruling Japan must make further concessions before conciliation of the Manchurian conflict is possible, Yosuke Matsuoka, chief Japanese delegate, emerged from a long discussion with Sir Eric Drummond, the League's secretary general, still insisting Japan would not give ground on the Manchukuo problem.

ROOSEVELT'S DEBT PLANS FACE FIGHT

London Suggestions Stir Hostility In Congress

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Congressional hostility to the various suggestions and plans seeping out of London for settlement of the British debt indicate a rocky road ahead for President-elect Roosevelt next month when he comes to grips with the problem.

Perhaps some of the obstacles can be cleared away in the preliminary exchanges now in progress. Perhaps not. The provocative speeches of Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, to the general effect that Britain will engage in no swapping and will demand settlement of the $4,500,000 debt on the basis of the Lausanne reparations agreement—that is, about 10 cents on the dollar — have certainly not smoothed matters much.

OFFICIAL SILENCE

The official silence that has been preserved since Sir Ronald Lindsay arrived in London to acquaint the cabinet with Mr. Roosevelt's debt views is ascribed here as perhaps due to the pained surprise which the British cabinet feels over those views.

For, according to reliable authority here, the President-elect talked rather plainly to Sir Ronald in their historic meeting at Warm Springs, just before the Ambassador sailed. He is said to have bluntly told Sir Ronald that while his administration is prepared to meet Britain half-way in striving for an amicable agreement, the British government might as well understand from the outset that 10-cents on the dollar and similar proposals "are out," and that any reduction must be accompanied by definite concessions to American commerce.

It is currently reported in Washington, however, that since his talk with Lindsay, Mr. Roosevelt has reiterated his views to Premier Ramsay MacDonald in person, by trans-Atlantic telephone.

FOUR-POINT APPROACH

As outlined here by those in the the President-elect's confidence, Mr. Roosevelt set down a four-point approach to the debt problem:

1—That the debt is an actual one, contracted as any other debt with the debtors' intention to pay accepted and recognized at the time the cash was advanced.

2—That each debtor will be dealt with separately, and not collectively.

3—That capacity to pay will be considered in each case.

4—That debts which the various nations owe to the United States have no relation whatever to reparations.

If this represents Mr. Roosevelt's views—and his intimates say that it does—then Chamberlain's reported plan for a lump sum settlement for all the debtors based on the Lausanne agreement is out the window before the negotiations start.

There would be some opposition probably, but not a great deal in Congress, to a lump settlement with each debtor—provided the lump sums were big enough.

Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, who may be an opposition leader in the next Congress of considerable influence, takes the view, however, that no lump sum payment can be contemplated that does not at the same time provide for expansion of American foreign trade. Others hold the same view.

BALLOT FRAUD 'PROOF' BARRED

An offer of Attorney E. Lowry Humes, of the Bar Association's Election Fraud Committee, to prove there were more ballots cast than were registered in the Twelfth District, Fourth Ward, was refused today by Judge W. Heber Dithrich, presiding at the recount.

Humes claimed there were only 417 registered voters, of whom 414 were checked as voting. He said 425 votes were cast for congressional candidates and 419 for state Senator.

In denying Humes' offer, Judge Dithrich said the Recount Board was sitting only to pass on validity of ballots in the box or any fraud on the face of the ballots.

Thomas Dolan, judge of election of the Eighth District, Fourth Ward, said the ballot box of that district, opened today, was not in the same condition as when he turned it over to Alderman Louis Wicks.

Judge Dithrich ruled void six of 100 ballots held out for his decision in a recount of the First District, Third Ward. He said there was no evidence of fraud. He said he voided the ballots because of voting two straight party tickets or because the number of the ballot had not been detached. Three ballots were voided in the Second District, Third Ward, because of attached numbers. Forty-four were questioned.

SENATE STOCK QUIZ SCORED

that, although some committee members were ready to investigate fully, other members were "sitting on the lid."

It said the Reform Committee finds that the files of the investigating committee have been deluged with most important evidence but the greatest secrecy has been indulged in to hide these facts from the public and give immunity to those interests that swindled defenseless citizens out of their money and made millions of American people jobless and homeless."

MANIPULATION CHARGED

The Reform Committee reports said the Senatorial investigation of the Stock Exchange "if properly conducted would disclose the manipulations of more money than the human mind can conceive."

The report also said that the committee's lawyer—whom it did not name—"when he began to unravel a few of the ramifications at hand was eliminated from further service," and that another lawyer "was likewise eliminated" and that the Senate Committee had not retained a man highly experienced with Stock Exchange practices.

The Stock Exchange Committee said "the present counsel, Mr. Ferdinand Pecora, an able and experienced criminal lawyer, has publicly announced that he will make the investigation a fact-finding, not a head-hunting, expedition, meaning of course that the highwaymen of high finance need not worry about going to jail, no matter how many millions of dollars worth of blue sky they might have unloaded onto the defenseless public, and no matter how many income tax frauds they might have been guilty of."

INSULL, KREUGER CASES

The Reform Committee said the Senate committee had injected itself into the Samuel Insull and Ivar Kreuger cases "with a loud noise," and that:

"Your committee finds that the Senatorial Investigating Committee apparently does not want to uncover any situation similar to that of Insull or Kreuger, but apparently wants to satisfy the public with a few headlines and with as much lethargy as the public will tolerate."

At about the same time that the letter was circulated, Chairman Norbeck received a letter of resignation from David A. Olson, of New York, who has been a special investigator for the committee's stock market inquiry.

He said that Olson in the letter complained he had not been paid the agreed fee. Norbeck declined comment on a report that Olson had resigned as a protest against what he regarded as an attempt to "whitewash" Wall street, but said he would have a statement later.

BARRY ACTION DROPPED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9—(AP.)—The Senate Judiciary Committee decided today to drop further action against David S. Barry, removed Senate Sergeant-at-Arms, and the magazine, New Outlook, which printed his article saying some members of Congress accept bribes.

The committee was unanimously opposed to recommending libel action against Barry and voted, 9 to 5, against certifying the record of the Senate trial to Federal authorities for possible criminal libel proceedings against the magazine.

Inaugural Guard Bill Before Hoover

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9—(AP.)—Congress has sent to President Hoover a resolution designed to provide police protection for the crowds expected here for President-elect Roosevelt's inauguration.

The Senate agreed to a resolution already adopted by the House to appropriate $25,000 for bringing 200 Baltimore policemen to Washington and 75 detectives from other cities.

stopped in the rear part of the building and telephoned police headquarters, then took his time to tie up several pads of blank receipts that were nearly the size of currency. He tied the pads in a bundle of brown paper and placed it in a sack, and when he returned to the window, he saw plainclothesmen were waiting and turned the bag over to Skelton, who handed it through the cage.

Bryant murmured "Thank you" as he walked away smiling.

Robert C. Johnson, chief of the Police Identification Bureau, and Howard Ferguson, a special officer employed by the department, followed Bryant for some distance.

The boy walked about a block, where he was joined by Harvey. When Harvey sighted Johnson, he started to run, it was said. Bryant went in another direction to a parked automobile occupied by Harvey's wife, Ethel, and a small child, the officers said. Johnson arrested this pair and took them to headquarters. Ferguson waited in the vicinity and soon Harvey returned and was captured.

Roanoke police have been trying to trap the person attempting to extort this money from Col. Lindbergh for more than two months.

It came to their atention from federal authorities after Col. Lindbergh had received two threatening letters and had turned them over to New Jersey state police.

Johnson represented himself as "John J. Jones" at the hotel to begin correspondence with the "crank" by leaving messages for him in the stump designated in the first letters.

This correspondence began early in December. It took many days for the letters to disappear, but through their exchange, plans were laid for "Jon J. Jones" to deposit the extortion money reduced from $50,000 to $25,000 and finally to $17,000 when Jones said that was all the money he could get, in the stump.

Such a package never was deposited, but Johnson and Ferguson, beginning on January 1, watched the stump by shifts for 144 hours in an effort to catch the extortioner on the spot.

Nobody put in an appearance. The watching was discontinued and letters were left again and they disappeared, with answers appearing. The final arrangements were to leave the check and have the "crank" call at the bank for the money.

SHOUSE WARNS WETS OF FIGHT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—The assertion that the fight for prohibition repeal is "far from won" was put before members of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment today by Jouett Shouse, president of the organization, in his annual report. He said:

"The principal danger which now confronts us is the possibility of over-confidence.

"The repeal forces of the nation are confronted with the anomalous situation of having to overcome, alike, the opposition of many honest, good people who believe sincerely in the efficacy and even in the sanctity of the Eighteenth Amendment and the horde of criminal bootleggers who infest the underworld."

Shouse termed the November elections a "voters' mandate" on repeal, and reiterated his opposition to a pending repeal measure in the Senate which he said was a "mere revision of the Eighteenth Amendment."

climbed, fallen and come back down, without success.

An airplane that will presently fly over Mt. Everest, mapping the peak and the whole mountain range, the valleys, foot by foot, with photographic maps, recently made a test flight, thirty-five thousand feet into the air.

It took only 74 minutes to climb 35,000 feet. The fliers found a temperature 76 degrees below zero, but were prepared and did not suffer.

DAVIS DENIES NYE CHARGE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Senator Davis last night denied he had asked Senator Nye (Rep.), of North Dakota, to back a resolution to have the Senate pay the $20,000 fees asked by Davis' counsel for the campaign expense investigation in 1930.

Davis, told of Nye's statement to newspapermen, said:

"That's not correct. When I got my lawyers' bills, I asked Nye whether he thought it proper for the Senate to pay them. The Senate always pays contest expenses. If mine wasn't a contest, I don't know what it was."

Nye said Senator Davis came to him some weeks ago and "asked me informally to support a resolution to have the Senate pay his counsel fees of more than $20,000.

"I couldn't give any encouragement to a plan of that kind. In doing so we would establish a precedent that any witness appearing before such a committee could engage counsel and be reimbursed."

Sandino's Soldiers Gather to Surrender

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Gen. Augusto Sandino, who last week agreed to make peace with the rest of the country, today sent a message to President Sacasa saying he has concentrated 1,000 of his men at San Rafael del Norte, ready to lay down their arms in keeping with the agreement.

Sofonias Salvatierra, Nicaraguan minister of agriculture, who participated in conferences which led to the Liberal general's decision, was expected to arrive at San Rafael del Norte with a delegation today to officiate at the disarming.

Woman Sues Golfer For Breaking Arm

DENVER, Feb. 9.—Frank W. Frewen, Jr., socially prominent architect, hit a golf ball at precisely 2 p. m. last September 4. The ball went in the wrong direction.

Today Mrs. Marion Johnson sued Frewen for $1,500 damages caused by Frewen's drive, which broke her right arm she said. The complaint charges that Frewen was "an inexperienced and unskilled player—unable to drive the ball where it should be driven."

'Money to Burn;' Wooden Scrip Used as Fuel

TENINO, Wash., Feb. 9.—(AP.)—"Money to burn' is no longer an idle saying in Tenino, the home of wooden scrip.

Leona Keithahn, 6, and her sister, Nadine, 4, decided to help their mother by starting a fire in the kitchen range.

They solved the kindling problem with brand new Tenino money, cedar strips backed by securities, brought home by their father, George Keithahn, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. It took $350 worth to start the fire.

Keithahn, however, won't be out any actual cash. The sponsors had announced any money burned or broken will be replaced.

Prince Suggested As Debt 'Payment'

LONDON, Feb. 9.—(AP.)— Sir Thomas Wilford, New Zealand High Commissioner to the United Kingdom, told the New Zealand Society last night the Prince of Wales was "one of our national assets." He believed, he said, "America would forgive us our debts in exchange for him."

The Prince, in his reply, said he was glad New Zealand, like Canada and Australia, now would have its distinctive anniversary on which to "meet and blow its own trumpet in a modest key."

New Alcoholism Cure Found By Scientists

ITHICA, N. Y., Feb. 9.—(AP.)—A new treatment for alcoholic cases, under which a patient with delirium tremens became "normal" overnight, is described by three Ithica scientists in a report just published in proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences.

Dr. Wilder D. Bancroft, whose researches in the field of insanity, epilepsy and narcotic addiction recently won him the William H. Nichols medal of the American Chemical Society, has reached the conclusion that the physical craving for alcohol can be stopped by the use of sodium rhodanate.

Twelve cases of alcoholic intoxication have been successfully dealt with, the report says. As a result, the investigators came to the conclusion that "all chronic alcoholics on whom sodium rhodanate can be used safely can be cured if there is only a physical need for alcohol.

While the physical need for alcohol can be stopped, the experimenters said the psychological and social factors entering into the alcoholic habit are not so easily removed.

There can be no guarantee that a patient will not return to drinking if he has no real desire to be cured, they reported. The general condition of health is another factor considered.

Problems of Roosevelt Held Like 'Father's'

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(Universal.)—When President Roosevelt enters the White House he will face problems amazingly like those George Washington faced, according to Rupert Hughes.

Washington was confronted with depression, unemployment, desperate agricultural conditions, discontent among war veterans, war debts, tariffs, taxes, budget balancing and even the liquor question.

Hughes tells in Cosmopolitan Magazine, out today, what he thinks Washigton would do if he were in Roosevelt's place. As to war debts, which in Washington's time were on the other foot, he writes:

"It is safe to say that Washington would have taken the stand that the foreign nations must meet their obligations somehow, for he was resolved that the new United States should not only pay all its public and private debts, but that it should assume the debts of the separate states. And to this determination he adhered.

"Since he was willing to risk the wrecking of the young republic to establish its commercial solidity, it can be assumed that he would have called on Europe to pay her debts to us at all costs."

Washington, like Roosevelt, was a gentleman farmer, and realized the welfare of the farmer is fundamental to the welfare of the nation, says Hughes. Of preparedness, he writes:

"Washington was all for peace, but believed in safeguarding it by preparedness. His whole public life was one protest against the neglect of the regular army and navy."

BABIES PLAY UNAFRAID AS DEATH FROM POISON HOVERS

ATE MEDICINE BELIEVING IT TO BE CANDY

Mother and Doctor Hopefully Watch For Recovery

ROME, Ga., Feb. 9.—(AP.)—The spectre of slow death hovered over two little boys today. But baby eyes don't see such ill omens, so they played with their toys in gleeful mood.

Jimmy Doss, 3, and his brother, Clayton 2, while playing about the house Tuesday, found a box of poison tablets. They thought them candy.

Some time later their mother, Mrs. James Doss, discovered nine tablets were missing. Panic seized her. Jimmy nonchalantly confirmed her fear that he and Clayton had eaten several.

They were hurried to a hospital and Dr. R. C. Maddox administered rush treatment.

He said today:

"I am hopeful we can save them. There is a possibility they swallowed the tablets not more than an hour before they reached the hospital. In that case, I am very hopeful."

Meanwhile, he is limiting their diet to sweet milk. If the poison has taken effect, there will be indications by tomorrow, he said. Even should it prove fatal, they might linger for a week or longer, Dr. Maddox explained.

SUCCOP GOING TO JAIL SOON

Bertram L. Succop, former Supplies Director, convicted with Mayor Charles H. Kline at Butler, probably will begin serving his year's sentence in Allegheny County Jail Monday.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park today received the jail commitment from Butler County and lodged it at the Allegheny County jail. Park also was to serve notice upon Succop's attorney, Col. Edward L. Kearns, for the former city official to surrender Monday.

Failure of Succop to give himself up on Monday will result in county detectives being sent for the prisoner, Park said.

for by neighbors today after fire late last night destroyed a row of three frame houses in Castle avenue, Oak Hill, North Versailles Township, with an estimated loss of $8,000. The fire was believed to have started in the home of Kasan Uros, at 597 Castle avenue, from an overheated stove. Uros, his wife and a boarder, Stanley Haynosky, fled as the flames spread to the homes of Earl Lightner and George Hlawso, forcing Lightner, his wife and three children, and Hlawso's wife from the burning structures.

Lack of water and the zero temperature hampered firemen, who saved three nearby structures by drenching them with chemicals.

CAR, FIRE TRUCK CRASH

Mrs. Martha Clark and her nephew, Donald Hoskins, 5, suffered slight cuts when the automobile driven by her husband, W. A. Clark, of 1212 Oxford street, West End, collided with a fire truck of Engine Company No. 10 as it was being backed into the engine house after responding to an alarm. Clark said his vision was obscured by swirling snow.

The truck was returning from a fire caused by an overheated stove in the home of Louis Versch, at 301 Attica street.

Kirwan Heights and Oakdale firemen were forced to chop holes in the ice on a pond and lay 1,000 feet of hose when a fire swept through the home of James Tidball, of Rennerdale. Fire Chief A. J. Dickson, of Oakdale, fell through a floor and was injured seriously. He sustained three fractured ribs and probable internal injuries. Tidball, former tax collector of Collier Township, and his family were absent at the time. Firemen estimated the damage at $4,000.

FEARS ALLAYED

Fears for the safety of Sam Bassolini, a shoemaker at 200 Merrimac street, Mt. Washington, and his daughter, Amelia, 20, when they could not be found after fire swept through his shop early today, were quickly allayed. Bassolini, discovering the fire, made his way through the smoke and sought refuge from the chilling winds at the home of a friend. His daughter has been away two weeks, police learned. The damage was estimated at $300.

An uncompleted two-story brick home at 167 Morewood avenue was damaged $2,500 by fire of undetermined origin late yesterday. While the family of Oscar Koenig, of Anderson Run road, Shaler Township, were absent their home was damaged $2,000 by fire said to have been caused by an overheated furnace.

The cold snapped a trolley wire near 1513 West Carson street early today, delaying traffic 15 minutes.

50 Known Dead in Cold, Worse Spell to Come

International News Service.

Death and suffering rode on the icy wings of Polar blasts today as almost the entire country was held in the grip of record smashing sub-zero temperatures.

At least 50 persons were frozen to death and scores were partially frozen or injured as the result of fires, accidents and devastation that followed in the wake of stinging winds. Families were driven into the cold, homeless sought shelter and food by the thousands and animals were frozen in their tracks as the arctic blasts of death took its toll.

Meanwhile government weather forecasters held out little hope for immediate relief and in some places the worst was yet to come. In the Northwest temperatures plunged to new depths of 50 and 60 degrees below while some relief was felt in the Southwest, though the mercury hovered around the zero mark as far south as Arizona.

DUTCH FORCES READY TO FIRE ON MUTINEERS

Bombing Ordered If Captured Ship Shows Fight

International News Service.

SOURABAYA, Java, by telephone to Amsterdam, Feb. 9.—Unless the mutineers who captured the Dutch warship De Zeven Provincien capitulate without resistance, the outlaw vessel will be bombed or torpedoed, Dutch naval authorities here announced this afternoon.

The announcement was made as the punitive squadron, consisting of cruisers, destroyers, submarines and seaplanes, neared the captured vessel off the western coast of Sumatra.

The decisive moment in the dramatic sea chase which began when the mutineers seized the De Zeven Provincien and steamed out of Olehle Harbor, Sumatra, in protest against a pay cut, is expected to occur at 1 a. m. Friday G. M. T. (8 p. m. tonight Pittsburgh time) when the punitive expedition should encounter the fleeing warship.

The encounter is expected to occur somewhere south of Pageh Island and Bencoolen, on the western coast of Sumatra. Local officials fear bloodshed will result, as it is evident the mutineers are determined not to surrender unless assured they will escape punishment.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—With a dinner attended by nearly 2,000 men and women of all political faiths, and speeches in which she was praised for her varied interests and activities, New York City last night bade farewell to the future first lady of the land.

President Mary E. Woolley, of Mount Holyoke College, said the nation was especially fortunate now in having "both a President-elect and a President-electress." Representative Ruth Bryan Owen described Mrs. Roosevelt as a woman approaching a high position "not only with a vision of the responsibility of women in the modern world, but with a burning zeal for service."

James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany; Dr. Henry Goddard Leach, Claude G. Bowers, and Miss Fannie Hurst were the other speakers.

When they had all finished, Mrs. Roosevelt, "troubled," she said, by the realization that a great deal was expected of her, pledged her continued support to "the ideas and ideals which in some ways I have helped to carry through to success."

Mrs. Bailey testified that once, near the Pitt campus, she saw her husband and the woman in his car. The Baileys, married in 1912, have two sons.

SEES DOGS DRIFT TO SEA ON ICE

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—A flight by Pilot Jerry Jones over drifting ice in Norton Sound yesterday showed a team of dogs, whose master had swum to shore safely, marooned on a large cake of ice being carried to sea.

Making the flight on reports that an Eskimo companion of Mitchell Charles, a mail carrier, also had been carried away, Jones messaged here that he had seen no signs of a human being on the ice. Later, on returning to shore, he learned the previous report had been incorrect, his message said.

Charles and his mail team were swept away Monday as the ice broke loose between Unalaklik and Shaktolik. He plunged into the water and swam 200 yards to shore.

WOMAN RULES AS 'EMPRESS' ON TINY ISLE

Amazing Romance of Galapagos Revealed By Travelers

International News Service.

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Feb. 9.—An amazing tale of how a French baroness set herself up as empress of a tiny island in the Galapagos group off the South American coast, ruling her domain with an iron hand and forcefully expelling anyone attempting to intrude upon the privacy of her "court," came to light here today.

The daring adventuress was identified in official government reports as the Baroness de Wagner Bousquet. The island she picked as the setting for her creation of a tropical dynasty is Floreana, one of the numerous dots of land in the Galapagos archipelago.

The baroness' high-handed seizure of the island became known when the government of Ecuador ordered the territorial chief of Galapagos to proceed at once to Floreana with a detachment of troops and dispossess the "empress" from her "castle" and scatter her court to the four winds.

ROMANTIC ISLES

From time immemorial, the Galapagos islands have been the scene of romance and adventure. In the days when pirates roamed the Spanish Main, they found the islands handy places to hide from pursuers and in which to bury their blood-stained loot.

In more recent times, Dr. William Beebe, the noted scientist, has thrilled the world with his discoveries of little known animal life in the Galapagos group. But for sheer romance, ancient or contemporary history has little to compare with the coup d'etat of the Baroness de Wagner Bousquet.

In the middle of December, Paul Franke and Kristian Stampa, foreign born Ecuadorean farmers, set sail for Floreana, where several years ago a German scientist named Ritter took up residence as the climax to a "back to nature" quest.

They were overwhelmed with surprise when they were met at the shore by a group of some 20 men.

GREET 'EMPRESS'

The travelers were greeted cheerfully enough and were immediately escorted to a large and recently built house situated on a hill. There they were ushered into the presence of the "empress."

With three European gentlemen acting as her aides, the "empress" promptly subjected Franke and Stampa to a searching interrogation, demanding to know their nationality, their intentions and—above all—whether they had any matches.

The voyagers did, and after obliging the baroness with a number of packets, were given curt directions to reach Ritter's cabin and bluntly told to pack themselves off.

But their real trouble started when, after visiting with Dr. Ritter, Franke and Stampa began the trek back to their yacht, carrying the carcasses of two animals which they had shot in the forest. Upon reaching the coast, they encountered the baroness' entourage and a dispute ensued.

In the midst of it, the "empress" appeared on the scene with a rifle slung over her shoulder. She announced in imperious tones that the island and all of its flora and fauna were her exclusive property by virtue of an alleged purchase from the Ecuadorean government.

When the hunters refused to drop their prey, the baroness and her retinue opened fire. Franke was wounded, but he and his companions escaped to their yacht and put out to sea.

The men complained of the incident when they returned to San Cristobal, and the federal government took the matter in hand.

King Ice-Skating at 67 Amazes Britains

SANDRINGHAM, Eng., Feb. 9.—(AP.)—England's square-jawed sailor King declines to surrender to age and had thrown down the gauntlet to years by skating on several occasions on a lake on the grounds of Sandringham House, where he is remaining because of the prevalence of influenza in Lodon.

His subjects are amazed for the double reason that most of them did not know he could skate and they never thought he would undertake such a sport at the age of nearly 68, especially in view of the fact that he has guarded his health since his desperate illness several years ago.

On numerous occasions the Queen has watched with keen enjoyment as her royal spouse cuts fancy figures.

The King always has been an outstanding sportsman and, besides being an expert yachtsman has been credited by many with being the best shot in England.

The King's health, according to those close to him, is better now than for years.

Lorenz Sees Americans Speeding to Death

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(Universal.)—Dr. Adolph Lorenz, famous bloodless surgeon of Vienna, in an interview broadcast over Station WINS yesterday declared:

"If you hurry, you shorten the journey of your life."

Asked "Is the pace of American life too fast?" he replied:

"The answer to this question is given by an Italian saying: 'Who walks slowly, walks far.' The Germans say, 'Hasten through leisure.' The English 'Take your time.' But the American forgets all about it. Americans run their steel machinery ruthlessly to death, without taking the trouble to hold it in good repair.

"They do the same with their body machinery, made of flesh and blood. They pay no attention to its first clogging, until it is beyond repair, nervous breakdowns and heart trouble do the rest. If you hurry, you shorten the journey of your life."

Questioned on the progress of science, Dr. Lorenz said if cancer "is not an innate constitutional disease, its causes will be found out." He added:

"Maybe the cause of cancer will be found out by a zoologist, just as it was the case with lues."

SHOW SUCCESS INDICATED

There is every reason to believe that the next Sunday's benefit show for the Jewish Home for Babies and Children will be the most successful of the several the Warner Theaters' management has sponsored for the needy of Pittsburgh.

This Sunday's show will be held at the downtown Warner, starting at 2 and running continuously until 10 p. m. Food only will be required for tickets—no cash will be accepted.

It is going to be a big show with an outstanding talking picture as the feature and the management requests that all persons who attend bring a package of food that will be of equal value to the average downtown box office price of admission. Heretofore many considered that a single can of tomatoes or corn or a single package of cereal was sufficient for admission. It is hoped that those who have been in the habit of "getting by" on a donation of this size will be more liberal next Sunday. Everybody is welcome, but they will be more welcome if they will donate in the spirit of the benefit.

Children will not be admitted unless accompanied by parents. This rule has been made because there are so many men and women interested in the success of this Sunday benefit show that there will not be room for the youngsters.

W. H. Siegfreed, president of the Ingram Welfare, is director, and L. K. Rumbaugh is chairman of the show committee.

CHARGES DRAIN OF TROLLEY EARNINGS

That the Pittsburgh Railways Company has been impoverished by the holding companies which control it was the charge hurled today by Attorney S. C. Pugliese, representing the Liberty Bus Lines in a petition to the Public Service Commission to operate buses from Mt. Washington to the downtown district.

In cross-examination of C. S. Mitchell, controller of the railways company and affiliated companies, Pugliese brought out that the common stock of the railways company is owned by the Philadelphia Company, which is in turn controlled by interests including the Standard Gas and Electric Company, the Standard Power and Light Company and the Byllesby interests of Chicago.

POWER CONTRACT

The Duquesne Light Company, which sells power to the railways company, is controlled by the Philadelphia Company, and, according to Mitchell, the railways company pays the light company the cost of generating the electricity, plus 12½ per cent.

The possibility of a receivership which might eventually break up the Pittsburgh Railways Company into numerous separate underlying companies, bringing to an end Pittsburgh's unified transportation system, was described by Thomas Fitzgerald, vice president and general manager of the railways company.

FEARS 'DESTRUCTION'

Fitzgerald declared that the granting of bus line certificates to all parties in the city with as much right to operate as the petitioners might "open the way to destroy the Pittsburgh Railways system."

Earnings of the railways company decreased approximately $3,411,000 in 1932 and have been steadily declining since 1932, Fitzgerald said. The railways company borrowed $1,750,000 from the Philadelphia Company last year to meet operating expenses, he declared.

The application for the new bus line to operate between the Bailey avenue entrance to Grandview Park and the Pennsylvania Station was made by August Villani and Adelmo Rossi. The hearing is being held before Commissioner S. Ray Shelby.

REVOLT BREWS IN JUGOSLAVIA

LONDON, Feb. 9.—(Universal)—Jugoslavia is on the eve of revolution with all political groups united against King Alexander and the loyalty of the army doubtful, a Belgrade dispatch to the London Daily Herald today states.

The conspirators aim to establish a federal republic consisting of three independent republics of Servia, Croatia and Slovenia, the three chief constituents of the present kingdom, the dispatch adds.

The federation, it is reported, may eventually also include Bulgaria, when all four countries will form a "United States of Southern Slavs."

Montour to Start Work on Tunnel

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Feb. 9.—(INS.)—Grading of a one-mile section of roadbed south of the 1,000-foot tunnel through a Beaver Creek hillside to form part of the Montour Railroad's 13-mile extension from Negley to Smith's Ferry, Pa., will begin Monday, it was learned today.

Announcement of the contract for the construction of the tunnel, estimated to cost $75,000, has been delayed to permit consideration of six bids, four from Pittsburgh and two from Western construction concerns. James S. Rinehart, of East Liverpool, was awarded the contract to grade the mile-long approach to the tunnel.

Service in Abbey Honors Galsworthy

LONDON, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Statesmen, peers, diplomats, novelists, poets and hundreds of the late John Galsworthy's readers paid homage to the memory of the great novelist in a brief and simple memorial service in Westminster Abbey today. The service was conducted by Dean Foxley Norris.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald arrived with Sir James Barrie to find the Abbey so filled with the novelist's admirers that many were forced to stand throughout the service.

Heir to Millions Admits Bad Checks

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Albert Baron Guggenheim heir to millions who once worked as bus boy in a Hollywood restaurant, pleaded guilty yesterday to issuing worthless checks for $577 and then asked for probation upon the representation that trustees of his estate in England had made good the shortage.

Superior Judge William Tell Aggeler set February 23 as the date for hearing the probation plea.

Smuggling Perils Seen in Fund Slash

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—The Customs Bureau notified the Senate today that passage of the Treasury bill as it stands with its drastic economies would necessitate discharge of 1,500 men June 30; would open the Canadian and Mexican borders to wholesale liquor smuggling and perhaps close all of the 40 odd inland customs offices except Chicago.

New Navy Cruiser Ready Next Week

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Uncle Sam's Navy will have another heavy cruiser next week—U. S. S. Portland, the second 10,000-ton cruiser completed under the 1930 London Naval Treaty.

She will be delivered to the Navy Wednesday at Boston, and is to be placed in commission February 23 under the command of Capt. Herbert F. Leary, Jamestown, R. I.

CAPITAL SWANK OUT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9—(AP.)—If the National Capital isn't entering upon an era of social simplicity, all the signs are wrong.

Mrs. Roosevelt, the President-elect's wife, wants the least possible fuss and feathers.

Mrs. Garner, the Vice President's wife, is famed for her simple tastes, and nas a husband with a rigorous "early to bed" rule.

Next in line, to make the formal occasion glittering, would come the wives of the Secretaries of State and Treasury.

And if the talk is correct, these are likely to be Mrs. Cordell Hull and Mrs. Carter Glass, respectively.

Neither welcomes the idea of social parade.

Navy Man Found Dead by Hanging

MANILA, P. I., Feb. 9.—(AP.)—The body of E. B. Barrett, second class torpedoman of the Submarine 36, was found hanging from a rope in a warehouse near the Las Pinas today.

Naval authorities and police investigated the possibility of foul play, although they said they were inclined to believe Barrett had taken his own life.

RICHES JAIL 'NEEDY'

OTTAWA, Ill., Feb. 9.—(AP.)—There was a treasure hunt in Charles Srsnick's back yard yesterday, and Mr. Srsnick and his wife are now boarding in the county jail.

Ever since last June the Srsnicks, ostensibly destitute, have been on the county relief list. Food, clothing and shelter came regularly from the emergency fund.

The Sheriff heard someone whisper the Srsnicks had money. There was a bank account of around $7,000 a year or two back.

Deputies dug around in the frozen back yard. Two feet under ground the spades hit buried tomato cans.

The tomato cans, altogether, held $6,834 in $20 bills.

Mr. and Mrs. Srsnick were locked up on charges of obtaining relief funds by false pretenses.

'Cure' by Gypsy Costs Man $222

It cost Morgan Hayman, 50, of 8367 Bricelyn street, savings of $222 when a gypsy woman promised to cure his wife, Irene, of a year-long illness, East End police learned today.

Hayman reported to police the woman, about 25, came to his home yesterday afternoon. The money was wrapped in a cloth and placed under Mrs. Hayman's pillow. The cloth contained scraps of paper when Hayman opened it after the woman had left.

STATE LUMBER DEARTH CITED

Annual consumption of lumber in the Pittsburgh district exceeds all that is cut in the State, John W. Keller, Deputy Secretary of State Department of Forests and Water, told members of the Retail Lumber Dealers' Association of Western Pennsylvania in annual convention today in Webster Hall.

Lack of soft wood in the State was stressed as one failure in meeting lumber demands. Keller pointed out:

"We have but a fraction of the standing timber that we should have for self-support in Pennsylvania. Penn's Woods once contained areas of pine and hemlock, and three-fourths of the lumber cut was softwoods, the structural timber most in demand. Now our forests are 90 per cent hardwoods. Our lumber markets, our paper mills and our pole users call for hemlock, spurce and pine, and we do not have it. Softwoods are not coming back naturally in our forests."

The importance of correct house design from the dealers' standpoint were outlined by W. D. Sawler, Chicago. Developments in the use of shingles were described by R. T. Titus, Seattle. William E. Best, of the Federal Home Loan Bank [illegible] outlined the value of the Federal Home Loan Bank and its relation to the lumber industry.

The annual banquet will be held tonight followed by dancing. A. M. Haines, Connellsville, will be toastmaster.

Beechview League Calls Tax Rally

A rally of taxpayers will be held tomorrow night by the Beechview Civic League. The meeting will open at 8:30 o'clock in the Boylan building, Berkshire avenue and Broadway. A general discussion on how to reduce taxes, school and city, will be led by a representative of the Real Estate and Taxpayers' Association.

4 Days Air Racing Set for World Fair

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—A four-day international program of air racing today was assured as an added attraction for the 1933 World's Fair. Dates for the races were set for July 1-4. Entry blanks will be mailed at once to prominent pilots. Proceeds from the events will go to charity.

BOROUGH HEADS BACK ROAD BILL

HARRISBURG, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Officials of Pennsylvania boroughs turned back to their home-town affairs today after having settled upon proposed public utility and other legislation affecting their interests.

The State Boroughs Association ended its two-day annual meeting yesterday after an about-face on the Chapman bill, which would authorize the State Highway Department to take over borough streets which connect state roads.

This administration measure previously had come under their fire, along with Gov. Pinchot's plan to add 53,000 miles of second class township roads to the state system.

After the Chapman bill was indorsed yesterday, R. J. Firman, of Erie, explained the convention probably had not realized previously that it would be to the borough's advantage for the Highway Department to be required to make necessary improvements on connecting streets.

Gas Rate Protest Meeting Set Here

Mayor Robert E. Griffith, of Washington, Pa., has issued an invitation to all cities, boroughs, townships and individuals supplied with gas by the Manufacturers' Light and Heat Company to attend a meeting to discuss rates of the company in the William Penn Hotel at 2 p. m., February 17. The group will also discuss "all other subjects concerning the services rendered by said company."

Safety Committee Warns Motorists

Motorists are advised to check brakes, lights and windshield wipers in a communication today by the Governor's Committee on Street and Highway Safety. February and March are two of the worst months from an accident standpoint because of poor visibility and wet roads, the communication emphasized.

Yale Man, Advisor Of Treasury, Dies

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Thosmas S. Adams, 59, professor of political economy at Yale University, author of many of Wisconsin's tax laws and for many years advisor to the Federal Treasury Department, died yesterday at his home of pneumonia. He was 59.

MAKE THIS TEST

Cover the left half of the above picture. Note how old the face looks because the scalp is bare. Then cover the right half and notice how much younger the same face appears because the scalp is covered with hair.

NO SURE method of preventing baldness or re-growing hair was known thirty years ago. Then—men experimented with cure-all remedies which usually did more harm than good. Now—a few old-fashioned men still use their scalps as experimental laboratories for patent remedies and barber-shop treatments. But modern-minded men have learned that baldness can be avoided and hair can be re-grown, when proper specialized treatment is administered to the scalp.

MRS. BELMONT'S DEATH HYMN REVEALED

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor, Universal Service.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 9.—What a marvelous thing to be able to write your own funeral hymn and to express, after you have passed on, your views on life immortal. Only one person, so far as I know, has been able to do this.

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, the first Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, the mother of the Duchess of Marlborough, had such a horror of the trite, hackneyed funeral service that she wrote her own requiem before the final call came.

MUSIC WRITER

Living quietly in Hollywood is the one person who has the words of that funeral hymn. Elsa Maxwell, who had the confidence of Mrs. Belmont, was asked to write the music to Mrs. Belmont's own significant words.

Miss Maxwell, reticent to betray her friend's confidence, has steadfastly refused to give the words of Mrs. Belmont's funeral poem to the press.

Miss Alice Paul, head of the woman's party, speaking for Mrs. Belmont's children, asked Miss Maxwell to send the words and music of the hymn to be sung Sunday in St. Thomas' Church in New York. Miss Maxwell, having been granted permission to speak, said that Mrs. Belmont had a horror of the ordinary funeral service.

HAPPY AT DEATH

Three years ago Mrs. Belmont said to Miss Maxwell:

"If this future life is something more beautiful and peaceful, why all this mourning, this gloom and lugubrious sorrow expressed in the usual hymn? I want to have a hallelujah sung when I die. I want people to be happy as I am happy to be passing on and leaving this life for a more beautiful existence."

Mrs. Belmont's own hymn to the music of Miss Maxwell, to be sung at St. Thomas' Church next Sunday, is as follows:

"Weep, ah weep no more,
All earthly sorrow, pain,
Strife hath gone their way,
A spirit He doth gain.
A soul hath risen—sing!
Hallelujah. Hallelujah!
Hosanna to our King—
No waiting at the gates of Paradise;
No tribunal of petty men to judge.
The watchers of the tower proclaim
A daughter to the King.

A span of joy and strife,
Where is thy victory, oh death;
Hark, the heavenly choir sings
Resurrection and the life
For a soul has risen—sing,
Hallelujah! Hallelujah!
Hosanna to our King!

EVIDENCE ENDS IN BOARD SUIT

Judge Thomas M. Marshall has completed taking testimony in the taxpayers' suit brought against the members of the poor board to have them surcharged with monies alleged illegally spent. The court asked for briefs after hearing two witnesses late yesterday.

R. B. Haverstick, former treasurer of the Carnegie Coal Company, testified he heard Louis P. Schneider say that in negotiating for the coal company lands, he was receiving a commission of $500. He could not say whether the statement was or was not made direct to him by Schneider, as John A. Bell, then president, was arranging the deal.

Schneider, as a witness, denied Haverstick's statement. Schneider has maintained he was not acting as an agent in buying land on which he is said to have made a profit of more than $40,000 by selling it to the poor board.

REDUCE WITHOUT THYROID WITHOUT SALTS WITHOUT DIET

Here's wonderful news for women who want to make their figures slim and lovely. A great physician, who has specialized in research with the Pasteur Institute of Paris and famous clinics of America, has discovered an absolutely harmless tablet that will take off 3 pounds of ugly fat each week.

Now it is absurd for anyone to take dangerous drugs, or a daily dose of laxative salts that rushes food through the system half digested, and incite chronic constipation. The new treatment contains no Thyroid Extract, no laxative drugs at all. It is a safe, natural regulator of the digestive ferments (Lipases) which control the production of fat in all humans bodies.

You don't have to starve yourself or go through painful exercises. You simply take the tablets each day and continue to eat three ample meals. The fat disappears at just the places where you want to lose it. We will donate $100 to charity if anyone can prove that Vannay contains Thyroid, Iodine or any harmful drugs.

Start the treatment at once and all your fondest dreams of health and slim loveliness will come true. Ask your druggist for Vannay and be sure to see that name on the package. If you are not entirely satisfied, money back.

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC is 3 times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics. Hence it goes 3 times as far. And whether you buy the 25c, 50c, or $1 size, you still get 3 times as much for your money.

YOU may be attracted by price-cuts on ordinary antiseptics. But don't be misled. No price-cut can equal the saving Pepsodent Antiseptic brings you. For Pepsodent is three times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics—by adding water you make it go three times as far—get three times as much for your money and greater assurance of escaping stubborn sore throat colds.

Two kinds of antiseptics

In the other group is Pepsodent Antiseptic, utterly safe if used full strength, yet powerful enough to be diluted with two parts of water and still kill germs within 10 seconds.

Use Pepsodent for safety

"Listen! I'm no speed demon —but I want an oil that is!"

"NO SIR, you won't catch me doing 60! I'll take chances in a poker game—but not on the roads!

"Figure it out! A 60-mile-an-hour oil may get by. But the oil that can 'take it' at 100-miles-an-hour is a whale of a sight better, safer oil at ANY speed!"

That's good common sense. For such an oil gives you extra protection . . . extra resistance . . . extra ability to halt wear and lengthen a motor's life!

It has successfully lubricated a test motor running at nearly twice the heat of the normal speeding engine—for 14 solid hours!

WARNING!

. . . OIL that isn't good at high speeds, isn't good enough at ANY speed!

Switch to Gulf Supreme now—Winter or "Regular." Its ability to take super-punishment means less spent on oil. Less spent on repairs. Longer motor life.

GIVES ECONOMY PLAN TO SPEED BOULEVARD

Fred Favo, president of the Home Owners' and Managers' Association of Oakmont, has forwarded a letter to County Commissioners asserting the Allegheny River boulevard, held up two years by the now famous "Nadine bungle," can be completed at a cost of $48,000. Starting now, the work could be finished by July, the letter said.

Plans for completion of the job have been approved by the State Highway Department engineers, Favo said. Already the work has cost the county more than a quarter of a million dollars.

MEETS OFFICIALS

H. S. Glenn, Oakmont engineer, drew up the letter after he had conferred with highway officials and officials of the Pennsylvania Water Company and the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Glenn wrote that his investigation of the bridge at Nadine and the ramp proved the work can be accomplished for $48,000. With this expenditure it would be possible to construct a three-lane traffic roadway 30 feet wide with a five-foot sidewalk of reinforced concrete with solid cement abutments, reinforced columns on solid concrete base for $38,000. The ramp could be completed for less than $10,000.

The plan, he pointed out, would not interfere with the water company or the railroad. He added:

"The bridge plans now in the office of the County Engineer would cost more than five times as much as this plan, and would not be any better for the boulevard or the taxpayers, as the bridge proposed above for a 300-foot three-lane bridge is the same as used by the state."

SEES NO SOLUTION

E. A. Griffith, chief county engineer, today said that as far as he knew the county never had been given blueprints or drawings of the suggested overhead span. He added that no specific way of eliminating the "bottle neck" had been proposed by the Oakmont group.

The completion of the boulevard is being delayed by the Pennsylvania Water Company's demand for damages. Griffith said the proposal submitted by the Oakmont group was merely a suggestion as to physical costs and that it had not submitted any plan to eliminate objections of the water company or to take care of damages.

Whiteman, Branded 'Radical', Scoffs at Critics to Boost 'Buy American' Music

By AIRCASTER

The influence of Paul Whiteman on American music, I imagine, is of importance to the radio audience, since radio eventually becomes the clearing house for all obtainable melody.

It should not be untimely, therefore, to inquire into a few of the Whiteman theories and to discover just what the portly gent who forsook his throne as king of jazz to become the academic dean of modern American music, is seeking to accomplish.

Hitherto, his aims and ambitions have been more or less a puzzle to the music critics. Either they don't savvy the significance of his flair for radical compositions, or they don't care, although they don't hesitate, almost unanimously, to pan him vigorously and regularly, after each of his concerts.

American Music

As far as I can make out, Whiteman is propagating the "Buy American" idea, and has been propagating it some few years, by trying to create an American musical commodity to meet native demands and gratify native tastes.

But that did not deter me from inquiring just why he selects things like "Tabloid," "Night Club," "Rhapsody in Blue," "Grand Canyon Suite," etc., when they send him into the red with concerts such as he will give in Boston Sunday night.

Why does he carry on in the face of critical wails of classical gents who liken him to a piece of ham, sandwiched between senile foreign style and the dizzy rhythm of Tin Pan Alley?

And here's his reply:

"You represent radio. What have you to look forward to?

"A perpetual merry-go-round of cheap dance music; an endless cycle of antiquated classics in European attire? Do you ever dream of an end of such monotony in the form of American music that glorifies, your home, reflects your emotions, typifies your spirit, records your progress; which pictures your every-day life, and mirrors your character?"

Not An Immortal

Whiteman thinks that somebody is needed to smash the barriers that now becloud an all-American vista. I had thought him rather myopic and full of illusions, but I found he cares nothing about being immortalized. He merely likes to experiment. It was once his avocation, but has become his career.

With the Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

An out-of-town buddy needs help. He faced the foe across the seas and escaped unscathed but the perilous no-man's-land in Pittsburgh proved too much for him.

Walking over the Seventh Street Bridge the other night he was slugged and robbed. His precious Army papers were taken from him, along with what money he had. Will his assailant return the papers to the address on the discharge papers or to Veterans' Bureau in the House Building?

And the next time he walks over the Seventh Street Bridge late at night he'll send a scouting party to reconnoiter.

John Dynoske—Duquesne—An electrical transcription is a program that has been recorded for broadcasting purposes.

H.—Write WWSW for information concerning those piano announcements.

T. W. M.—The tree surgery school about which you inquired can be addressed at Kent, O.

L. A. Gallonuf (?)—Thanks for the poem and the nice letter.

After taking game did you ever brag about your bridge ability and then go down thousands and thousands on your next hand? Then you know how I feel today.

Received letters about a group of young married people who solved their depression entertainment problem by forming a little theater movement. Sounds like a good idea.

A returning globe-trotter from New York tips us off that the Jig Saw puzzlers will soon be directing their attention to anagrams.

That earnest conference over there in the corner is about the weather. Some of the boys have just found out that the mercury may sink to 5 below tonight and those dates are probably off, because they don't think their love is strong enough to withstand the temperature. Four more girls who will sigh with Rudy Vallee tonight.

Pattern 2472

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

OLD SORES

Wouldn't you be glad to learn how the pain and itching of old Sores, Ulcers and Itching Rashes can be stopped and the Sores healed in a few days? An amazing ointment is now doing these very things, and here's an instance:

"For 7 years I suffered untold agony with a Varicose Ulcer on my ankle. The first application of PETERSON'S OINTMENT took all pain away. In 4 weeks the ulcer healed up completely. I simply cannot say too much for your ointment."—Mrs. Fred R. Voight, 115 Telford St., Newark, N. J.

No wonder over 500,000 people to date have used PETERSON'S OINTMENT to make their skin gloriously smooth, healthy and free from Sores. You can do the same for only 35c at any drug store in America.

NESBIT LANDS TO BE SOLD

All of the lands and assets of the late Harrison Nesbit in Virginia are to be sold by the Sheriff, it was testified in the suit being heard by Judge James H. Gray, wherein creditors are seeking to have Nesbit's insurance trust set aside. It is alleged that Nesbit was insolvent when he set up the trust, which Mrs. Nesbit and their children deny.

The outcome of this case is regarded as important. Attorney H. Fred Mercer, in presenting the beneficiaries' side of the case to the court, pointed out that if the life insurance trust is not sustained, creditors can take any life insurance trust monies, held in trust, to satisfy the claims of creditors.

Many witnesses have been called who have testified regarding the transactions of Nesbit. There is more than $800,000 in the insurance trust fund.

Autoists Warned Against Ice, Drifts

Automobile drivers were warned last night by the touring bureau of the Pittsburgh Motor Club to postpone all inter-city trips at least 24 hours, in order to give State Highway Department crews opportunity to clear snowdrifts and to place cinders on slippery places. The club warned drivers against the possibility of drifts in mountain sections.

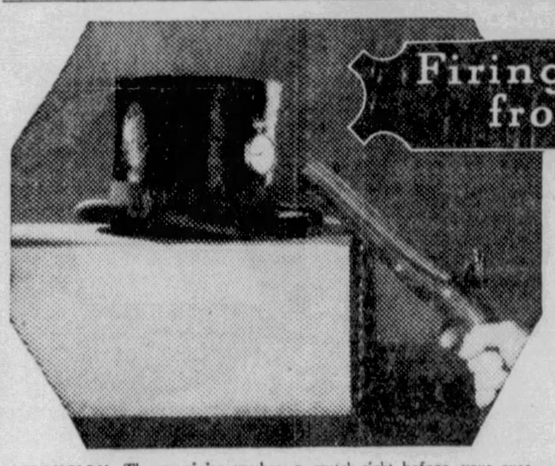
Firing a watch from a pistol..



ILLUSION: The magician smashes a watch right before your eyes ...loads the pieces into a pistol...fires at a silk hat...and the watch suddenly appears...intact...on the side of the hat!

EXPLANATION: Another watch was smashed...The first watch was attached to the back of the hat when you weren't looking. The hat was on a turntable which was arranged to make a semi-revolution when the shot was fired.

IT'S FUN TO BE FOOLED...
IT'S MORE FUN TO KNOW!

Here's a magic trick from cigarette advertising called "Cigarettes and Your Throat."

EXPLANATION: A cigarette has to use choice, ripe tobaccos to be easy on your throat.

Cheap, raw tobaccos are harsh and irritating. No "treatment" can do more than mask their rasping effect.

And there is an irritating dust, naturally present to some degree in all tobaccos. Camel removes this peppery dust by a special vacuum cleaning process.

And even more important is Camel's matchless blending and its more costly tobacco.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, more expensive tobaccos than any other popular brand.

PLAN ADOPTION OF SNIPES BABY

COLUMBIA, S. C., Feb. 9.—(INS.)—The infant daughter who saved Mrs. Beatrice Ferguson Snipes from the electric chair may grow to young womanhood on the Pacific Coast far from the South Carolina Penitentiary where her mother must spend the remainder of her life.

Mrs. Snipes told International News Service today that arrangements are being completed for a relative to come from the Pacific Coast when the child is six months old and legally adopt the baby.

She did not reveal the name or address of her relative and the court may withhold this information so the girl can live free of the shadow of life imprisonment that hangs over her mother.

Mrs. Snipes' death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment by Gov. Blackwood a month ago and a week later she gave birth to the baby girl.

Your Income Tax

Interest On Loans May Be Deducted

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

This is the sixteenth of a series of articles analyzing the Revenue Act of 1932 and discussing the problems of income taxpayers.

Interest paid on loans forms an important deduction for many income taxpayers. With certain exceptions interest paid may be subtracted from income before computing taxes, even though the loans were contracted to meet personal expenses.

Interest paid on mortgages is an allowable deduction regardless of whether the property is used for business purposes or for a home. Interest on loans on life insurance policies also is included among the legal deductions.

Among the exceptions to the allowable deductions is interest paid on indebtedness incurred in the purchase of securities or on indebtedness incurred in connection with the purchase of or carrying of an annuity. Interest paid on loans to carry obligations of the United States government issued after September 24, 1917, and originally subscribed for by the taxpayer may be deducted.

Just as interest paid is deductible, interest received must be reported as income for tax purposes. Interest received on bank deposits is the most commonly reported income of this kind.

Interest paid on behalf of a friend where there is no legal obligation on the part of the payer is not deductible. In such cases the amount is the same as a gift.

HOMESTEAD TAX BURDEN HIT

Before 200 members of the Homestead Property Owners' Association in Homestead, last night, John Brogan, of 216 Amity street, charged that taxpayers had "to keep 15 councilmen, their families, relatives and friends for four years and then when election time comes around, pay for more men that are on the borough payroll to get votes."

Brogan said that a third man is paid by the hour to keep the borough records straight, despite a duly appointed borough clerk and assistant. He also charged that building inspectors were maintained on the payroll even when there was no building. Despite the 21 paid firemen, insurance rates are as high as in Munhall and West Homestead, which have volunteer companies, Brogan charged.

The resolution of C. W. Jacobs, former Homestead councilman, demanding a 2-mill decrease in taxes was tabled by the meeting pending Burgess John J. Cavanaugh's promise to confer with a taxpayers' committee before setting the 1933 levy.

Marksmanship Flag Presented Troop A

GREENSBURG, Feb. 9.—Maj. Lynn G. Adams, superintendent of Pennsylvania State Police, presented Troop A, at its headquarters here, with the rifle championship guidon for 1932.

The team, which won the championship in competition with all the troops in the state, was composed of Corp. John E. Eshleman and Privates Charles Haxton, Walter B. Kunkle, Charles J. Hanan and Anthony Sanute. Capt. Jacob Mauk, commander of Troop A, made the acceptance address.

Freed of Slaying Despite Children

WILKES-BARRE, Feb. 9—(AP.)—Defended by only one of his children while four others testified against him, Michael Rokus, of Edwardsville, is clear today of murder charges in his wife's death.

The only daughter who stood by him during his trial was with him last night as a jury returned its verdict of acquittal. Two other daughters and two sons testified their father pushed their mother from a porch, breaking her neck.

Widow Kills Baby, Self; Blames Cheat

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—The bodies of Mrs. Fern Goldberg, a 41-year-old widow, and Arthur, Jr., her 22-month-old son, were found in their home yesterday. She had killed the child, apparently by administering an anaesthetic, then had shot herself. She left a note complaining a salesman had cheated her in an automobile trade.

PAIN DEADENED CHEST COLDS LOOSENED WITHOUT DRUGS

Get quick relief from neuralgia pain, sciatica pain, neuritis pain, rheumatic pain, lame back, stiff neck, headache, strains and chest colds by rubbing plenty of Baume Bengue (pronounced Ben-Gay) on the spot. It doesn't blister or stain. Rub it in till it sinks down and soothes the pain or breaks up the chest cold. Take no drugs, for any drug that is powerful enough to "deaden" pain or loosen a chest cold may not be good for you.

But beware of imitations. Ask your druggist for Baume Bengué by name (called "Ben-Gay" in English). There are many analgesic balms, mostly cheap imitations of Ben-Gay made out of synthetic drugs. That is why they are cheap. That is also why they are ineffective. Insist on Ben-Gay and you will get real results.

MONESSEN ASKS UTILITY TAX

MONESSEN, Pa., Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Monessen's City Council has struck another blow in its fight for reduced utility rates.

A resolution was passed yesterday calling upon the State Legislature to investigate real estate holdings of utilities companies operating in this section, and to pass laws requiring the companies to pay additional taxes.

The resolution, introduced by John G. Check, a Councilman, charges that "public utilities have extensive real estate holdings which are exempt from taxes," and that "they are conducting retail business in buildings exempt from taxation."

SPINACH FOR BEAUTY

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 9—(AP.) Any woman can be beautiful, Dr. J. Howard Crum, plastic surgeon of New York, said today—but she must be willing to eat spinach. He added:

"What you eat is the answer to how fast you age."

Addressing delegates to the trade display and fashion show, Dr. Crum then promised a beautiful complexion to any woman who each day would eat a generous portion of a thin-leafed vegetable, follow it with a goodly dose of spinach or carrots, and top them off with a quart of milk. He advised:

"Worry and fear are to be avoided at all times. Nothing detracts so much from young looks."

He said most stage and screen beauties have "acquired their attractiveness."

BLUE, DRY LAW FOES TO PUSH WAR TUESDAY

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS
International News Service

HARRISBURG, Feb. 9.—Cautious planning for new conflicts today succeeded the dizzy whirl of battle to lay waste Pennsylvania's prohibition and Sunday observance laws.

Next Tuesday appeared to be the popular selection for another Legislative field day, with both the dry repealer and the Sunday modifier scheduled for the main events. Though the Assembly quit the Capitol for the week, leaders of both sides of the liberal issues remained in training for the thick of the fight.

Clear of its hurdle in the House, the Schwartz bill legalizing Sunday sports lay in Senate Committee to await a public hearing Tuesday afternoon.

PLAN TO PUSH REPEALER

On the same day, if wet leaders successfully press their demands for swift action, the Conner-Sowers bill repealing the state prohibition act will be thrust before the House for a final vote.

Plans to list the dry repealer for a special order of business Tuesday at noon, as was done with the Schwartz bill this week, were subject to slight revision. If Gov. Gifford Pinchot makes a definite request for that day and hour to deliver his message on unemployment relief to the assembly, House leaders will be expected to revamp their schedule. A fight to recommit the bill when it arises for second reading Monday night might further upset the program.

Granted even the swiftest possible action, the two pieces of legislation will require the remainder of February before both can get the assembly stamp of finality—if they are to get it at all.

LONG DELAY POSSIBLE

The necessity of three readings on separate days in each branch and the apparent unwillingness of the Senate to proceed on the measures without hearings will delay final passage.

Although legislative leaders concede that the Sunday sports bill by far has the better chance of the two of reaching the commonwealth's statute books, even that measure could not survive a veto. Proponents of the Sabbath modifier exhibited their inability to muster the strength necessary to override executive disapproval.

The House, more friendly to the liberal bill than is the Senate, passed it by a vote of 127 to 75, giving it 22 more than the constitutional majority, fixed at 105. Though the victory was decisive, the vote fell 12 short of the amount which would be necessary to override a veto. The two-thirds rule prevails on veto-hurdling attempts.

Liberals, however, are basing their optimism on a belief that Gov. Pinchot will sign the Schwartz bill. The same hope obviously is not held out for the dry repealer.

Evidence that the House is the more friendly of the two branches toward liberal legislation was given two years ago. The Sunday home rule measure squeezed through that branch then, 106 to 98, but the Senate committee never gave it a chance on the floor.

COLLEGE POLICE HIT

The Social Problems Club of Penn State College is opposed to a bill in the Legislature providing for employment of private police by the college, Judge M. A. Musmanno, of the County Court, was informed today.

The judge himself is opposed to the measure as an "opening wedge" for return of the coal and iron police system and a hindrance to freedom of expression in educational institutions. The bill was passed by the Senate and sent to committee when it came up for second reading in the House.

Judge Musmanno said Representative James H. McClure, chairman of the House Judiciary General Committee, told him that if sponsors of the bill insist on having it reported from the committee, a public hearing will be permitted and opponents may voice their objections. Musmanno said he would attend such a hearing and believed the president of the Penn State Social Club and the burgess of State College, Pa., also would appear against the bill.

The Social Club sent Musmanno a telegram saying it will co-operate with him against the measure in any possible way. It was signed by Lionel Mann, president.

WOMEN TO PUSH MANAGER DRIVE

Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, chairman of the Allegheny County League of Women Voters, announced today her organization would head the activities of the women's division of the Municipal Charter Committee of Pittsburgh in behalf of city manager plan legislation for Pittsburgh, now before the Legislature. This system of government has been part of the league's program for many years.

As part of the city manager campaign, Mrs. Smith will speak tomorrow before the College Club, and on Monday at 2 p. m., Daniel E. Morgan, former city manager of Cleveland, O., will address the Fourteenth Ward League of Women Voters in Colonial School, 1620 Murra, avenue. Miss Ruth Fugh and Mrs. David Alter also will speak at that meeting.

PINCHOT BACKED ON SCHOOLS

HARRISBURG, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—The State Council of Education today had pledged its support to the Governor and the Superintendent of Public Instruction to obtain the full amount of appropriations for the 1933-35 biennium.

This pledge was made, however, on the condition that "so far as this is possible within the revenues made available by the General Assembly."

The council said it is taking this step in view of the "critical situation due to increased demands on all classes of secondary schools in the public school system."

I Never Gargle for Sore Throat

"I just take a swallow of Thoxine and in less than an hour the soreness is all gone—it stops a cough, too, in no time—and when I have a cold it fixes me up in less than a day. It sure is wonderful."

Thoxine is an entirely different medicine—it neutralizes the toxins and poisons that cause sore throats, coughs, and colds—something that gargles, salves and cough syrups do not do—it's real prescription medicine—safe even for children—35c all drug stores.

Educator To Talk On Bank Failures

"Behind the Bank Failures" will be the subject of the next lecture in the series, conducted by the League for Social Justice every Monday evening at the Irene Kaufmann Settlement theater. Dr. John Gray, professor of economics at the American University, Washington, and formerly chief analyst and examiner of the Bureau of Valuation of the Interstate Commerce Commission, will be the speaker.

CHILD HEALTH PROGRAM LAUNCHED

HARRISBURG, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Led by the State Medical Society, Pennsylvania has launched a child health program to care for undernourishd children.

Gov. Pinchot today announced that at the request of the society he has appointed Dr. Samuel McC. Hamill, Philadlephia, as chairman of the State Emergency Child Health Committee, to carry on this relief work.

Dr. Hamill is president of the American Child Health Association. He was chairman of the medical section of the White House conference on child health and protection.

The conference recommended appointment of a committee to devise a program.

Gov. Pinchot said he believes this relief work will be the "greatest program of its kind" in the country. At the present time, he said, there are 2,000,000 residents receiving food through the State Emergency Relief Board and 1,000,000 of them are children. Pinchot said:

"This is an epoch-making development. As Governor of Pennsylvania I have never had a more important announcement to make than of this unique movement to maintain and improve the health of the children of Pennsylvania."

The program is to be under the immediate guidance of the mecical profession. Dr. Charles Falkowsky, Jr., Scranton, president of the State Medical Society; Dr. Donald Guthrie Sayre, president-elect; Dr. Walter F. Donaldson, Pittsburgh, secretary, and trustees of the society were commended by the Governor for their initiative in launching this project.

Now that we are having a taste of ideal weather, the snowy-Christmas-card-kind, we're all less impatient for spring.

But, nevertheless, everyone will be glad to hear of plans for an early spring wedding, just a little more than two months off.

Ruth Christine Kohne, the Charles C. Kohnes' tall, slender brunette daughter, has named her wedding day. She'll marry Charles Gilman Cole, son of the George Louis Franklins, of Bartlett street, on April 22.

The ceremony will take place in the vine-clad Church of the Ascension that afternoon at 5:30 o'clock.

Church Wedding

Ruth attended Miss Ellis' School and the King Smith Studio School in Washington. Her fiance attended Shady Side Academy and the University of Pennsylvania.

Her engagement was announced, I remember, at a dinner Mrs. Harry Rafferty, the former Mary Margaret Marshall, gave in the Fox Chapel Golf Club in late August.

Gossipy Chat With Nancy Jane

There's one thing in America that Oliver St. John Gogarty, the Irish poet, who addressed the Sewickley Valley Woman's Club recently and who will talk to the Twentieth Century Club next month, doesn't like.

It's our overheated Pullman cars! He confided to a Sewickleyite that one car was so hot that before the night was over he had to stick his feet out the window to get cooled off.

Charming Mrs. Frank Lewis, whose stories under the name of Sandra Alexander, you've often read in the better magazines, related an amusing incident in a recent talk at the Women's Press Club.

While writing, she found much to her delight that there was a word for the smell of baking bread, a detail she felt was important in her story. The word is "barmy."

When she received her proofs, the word had been changed to "balmy."

She wired to her publisher, "It's 'barmy,' not balmy."

He wired back, "It's not in my dictionary."

And she wired again, "It's in the Oxford."

And so the publisher found it was, and just had time to correct the word.

Mrs. Lewis added that she was so pleased the day she found the right word to describe that delicious smell of baking bread, she felt she had done enough for one day. So she closed up her typewriter and went to the symphony.

STRAIGHT-LINE COATS LIKED FOR TOWN OR COUNTRY WEAR

THE TENDENCY toward coats built on straight lines is of growing importance. Smart women, accustomed to formal town fashions, regarded this type of coat, a first, as a distinctly sports and country fashion. But with the growing simplicity of town life—even in the biggest cities—women have gradually come to like to wear a coat of this type in town, to replace the classic jacket-and-skirt combination.

ONE DESIGNER'S straight coat is most popular at this time. In spite of the fact that it is made of heavy jersey, and designed to be worn in the most casual manner, it appears everywhere, in the midst of silk afternoon dresses and broadcloth coats, and is not out of place.

AS THE sketch shows, it is in the new seven-eighths length, and is a part of a three-piece outfit, done entirely in dark blues. The blouse, of silk crepe, is in the [illegible] navy blue; the coat and skirt of a heavy ribbed jersey that looks as if it were woven, not knitted, is in a dark blue slightly lighter than navy.

THE SKIRT is in a wrap-around cut, fastened at the front with two leather and bronze gadgets, and finishes at the hem with three lines of visible stitching.

THE COAT is single-breasted and has extremely wide shoulders. The seam which joins sleeve and shoulder is accented by three cordings of the coat fabric. The same leather and bronze closing device as appears on the skirt, holds the coat fastened.

BUSINESS MEN HERE ADOPTING BARTER

Organization of retail merchants, wholesalers and jobbers to support the newly formed Exchange Association of Pennsylvania for operation of a barter exchange and use of scrip in the Chartiers Valley will be started Monday night at a public meeting in the Langley High School, Sheridan.

Business interests from the district are being invited to attend the session. The method of obtaining employment relief through scrip and barter of goods or services will be explained. The initial district for operating the exchange includes West End, McKees Rocks, Sheridan, Ingram, Crafton, Elliott, Mt. Washington, Mt. Oliver and Greentree.

Many merchants in the district already have promised to support the project, according to Attorney Max Applebaum, vice-president of the exchange. Howard W. Miller is president of the group, and Carl Koch, secretary-treasurer. Temporary headquarters have been established at 20 Wabash avenue, West End.

While United States currency is backed by gold, the scrip issued by the exchange will be backed by the liquid assets or stocks of merchants supporting the plan, according to Applebaum. The scrip will be issued in denominations of one cent, five, 10, 25 and 50 cents and one dollar.

Business houses needing an exchange medium for services will borrow from the exchange, paying one-half per cent interest monthly. They in turn will pay for labor services and goods bought by associate merchants in scrip when it is acceptable, Applebaum said. Likewise, the merchants supporting the exchange will accept the scrip as payment for purchases in their establishments.

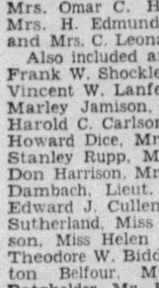
Edward Dunbar, Pittsburgh tenor, gave an ambitious program of excellent music in the auditorium of the Young Men's and Women's Hebrew Association last night. It must be encouraging to these young local artists to have such large audiences when they are first trying their wings, a good sign that the times have not hurt us too deeply.



Mr. Lissfelt

Dunbar's voice has fine possibilities which have not yet been fully put to test. There is a beautiful ring to the top, there are qualities to his soft voice that one remembers with great pleasure, but there is a monotony of declamation in his singing which a vocabulary from six or seven languages cannot alter. His music wants breadth and variety.

The program was chosen from the music of many lands. Of unusual interest were the Polish songs including the lovely folk song, given as encore. Rich in melody and pulsating with emotion, these songs spoke directly, although the language must have been strange to many of us. Dunbar has the style for songs rather than for operatic airs, but with more technical freedom he may rise to demands of that splendid music.

Aneurin Bodycombe played accompaniments.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

CHILDREN OF HIS PARISH GATHERED AT ST. PATRICK'S TO WELCOME FATHER COX HOME

THE REV. JAMES R. COX BACK AT HIS PARISH HOUSE DESK

New Yorker Sees Good Times Ahead

Prosperity was predicted by Charles A. Watts, president of the Beneficial Management Corporation, of New York, toastmaster at the dinner dance of the Pennsylvania Association of Personal Finance Companies last night in the William Penn Hotel.

Revival of Realty Buying Predicted

An early revival of real estate buying was indicated by John H. Scott, president of the Scott Realty Company, Inc., at a dinner last night, attended by 120 real estate brokers in the Schenley Hotel. Prices that have been dropping since 1929 are now beginning to flatten out, R. T. Mackintosh, president of the Real Estate Board, presided.

COX NEEDY HAIL HIS RETURN

In the face of the raging blizzard yesterday afternoon, Father Cox returned home, after nearly a month in Mercy Hospital, to cope with more suffering and destitution than he has ever before known. The storm had accentuated the need of food, clothing, shelter and fuel for the hundreds who thought it imprudent to go aid.

In returning home Father Cox defied the orders of his doctors, who come to Old St. Patrick's for out in yesterday's storm. Father Cox, however, heard the call of his poor and needy—he had to go back to Old St. Patrick's.

He was given a warm welcome home. All of "Shantytown," many of the men from the bread line, scores of women and children, despite the driving snow, were waiting for him to arrive at the Parish House and they gave a cheer when he alighted from the automobile. There was also a large delegation of children from St. Patrick's Parochial School.

Through the Sun-Telegraph-Father Cox fends heartfelt appreciation to the many who helped to keep his work gong while he was in the hospital. The coming of the biggest storm of the year makes it urgent that his friends continue their assistance. He needs food and clothing, particularly shoes, or the money to buy them. And he needs these urgently.

The Sun-Telegraph-Father Cox subscription drive is doing its share along these lines. Every subscription that comes in on the blank on this page brings a liberal cash commission to his unemployment relief fund.

OPERATION AIDS SCHIPA'S VOICE

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Tito Schipa, Metropolitan Opera tenor, today tentatively loosed a series of golden notes which a small gathering of music critics found "as true and velvety" as any he sang before his recent tonsillotomy.

The informal audition was staged in the offices of Dr. Edward Kellogg, specialist who performed the operation.

Dr. Kellogg joined Schipa in affirming the operation, while it may increase the singer's resonance and volume in the upper register, was performed in the interest of his health and voice but not with increased range as its aim.

URGE LARGER LEAGUE STAFF

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—The advisory welfare committee of the Junior Leagues of America suggested yesterday at the spring meeting an increase in the field staff to supply the demand made upon leagues in various cities.

These demands, the committee said, include advice and aid on volunteer programs, training courses and carrying out of welfare projects.

Yesterday's session was devoted to routine consideration of committee reports.

The need was stressed for furtherance of the projects to raise funds which has assumed increased importance with the leagues' abandonment, temporarily, of public appeals for money to carry on their day nurseries, therapy classes and other philanthropic work.

Two men entered the hall where the meeting was under way. One stood guard at the door, while the other advanced and menaced Miss Frances Colombo, treasurer, with a revolver. He scooped the money which had just been collected, into his pocket, and rejoined his accomplice.

Carnegie's Love For Books Dated From His Boyhood

By BURTON J. HENDRICK

Abridged for exclusive publication in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, by special permission of Mrs. Andrew Carnegie.

How Andrew Carnegie, the messenger boy, became a telegrapher, is told in today's installment. Some of his early intellectual activities are also described. We are given a premonition of the philanthropic and humanitarian interests that were to become so important in his later life in boyish writings in denunciation of war and in advocacy of free public libraries. He sought to become a journalist, but no Pittsburgh newspaper in those days would give him a job.

Andrew's career as a messenger, which lasted somewhat more than a year, has a familiar ring. Not an item in the life of the industrious apprentice was absent—except that of marrying his employer's daughter. He even arrived at work before office hours and swept out the office, a fact that facilitated his advancement, for on such mornings Andrew was alone with the telegraph key, and the constant clicking proved an irresistible temptation to try his hand. In a twinkling the boy had learned the Morse alphabet, and now and then he would call up one of his associates in nearby towns.

These first efforts were a little awkward, but Andrew soon found that he could transmit a few simple ideas. Early one morning an urgent call came from Philadelphia; it was a "death message"—an emergency that demanded immediate attention. Could anyone receive it? Carnegie replied that he could take the telegram if sent slowly. After accomplishing the task and delivering the bad news, he was rather frightened at his presumption; how would his employer regard it? Mr. Brooks, however, was delighted, increased his pay, and began to delegate a part of his duties. Andrew was now occasionally left in charge of the office, receiving telegrams at the counter and taking the operator's place when he was out for lunch or ill. The receiving instrument in those days was a complicated engine, with a great length of tape, rolled on a wheel; as this thin strip of paper unwound, the dots and dashes were printed, and the painstakingly translated by the office copyist. This latter functionary resented Andrew's new importance, and transcribed the incoming messages with bad grace. One day he flatly refused to co-operate. Andrew quietly stopped the reel, seized a pencil and began taking the message by ear. The sensation caused by this performance was profound. Andrew had heard of one solitary genius, in a Western town, who had dispensed with the tape and translatetd instantaneously the Morse code as it clicked on the instrument. Emulating this example, he had taught himself the trick. It is now the general method, but, according to authentic history, Andrew Carnegie was the third operator in the United States to take messages "by sound." The old curmudgeon of a copyist became his admiring friend from that day forward. Business was rapidly increasing, another telegrapher was needed, and Andrew was thus promoted to the key, at a salary of $25 a month. He was 16 years old. His fame spread over the town, so that citizens and visitors dropped in to watch the new performer take down the messages hot from the wire, without the cumbersome machinery in use elsewhere.

Church Activities

On the spiritual side the little Swedenborgian church was Andrew's only activity. It formed his religious as well as his social background . . . It does not appear that he ever joined the Swedenborgian body, yet the records show that he was a fairly active attendant for several years. He sang in the choir—not well, for he himself recalled that the leader, offended by his discords, used occasionally to rap his knuckles with the baton; he becamme a member of the Sunday school, and ultimately a teacher; he made modest financial contributions; he acted as teller at business meetings, and once was appointed on a committee to obtain a permanent preacher. The little congregation also stimulated Andrew's literary bent. One of its chief activities was a library consisting almost exclusively of Swedenborgian books. It is significant, in view of Carnegie's subsequent interests, that he acted as librarian for several years. The Sabbath school published a paper shrinkingly entitled the Dewdrop. Andrew wrote occasionally for this publication, and the one fragment that survives is valuable in that it contains a juvenile denunciation of war.

Carnegie's article in the Dewdrop was written when he was 18—the year (1854) is fixed by the reference to the Battle of Alma. "Let me ask," says the young man, addressing the editor, 'if in this campaign against war you do not consider that one of the most important points to be gained is to render war and its instruments abhor-

Erk Hopes to Return To Congress

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Feb. 9.—Congressman Edmund F. Erk, of the Thirtieth District, by accepting appointment as secretary to Congressman-elect M. J. Muldowney, of the Thirty-second District when his (Erk's) term expires March 4, indicates he has not abandoned active participation in public affairs, and hopes to go back to Congress in his own right two years hence.

Mr. Shields

Before becoming a Congressman Erk was a secretary, serving for years as aide to the late Steve Porter. In that way he learned thoroughly about the people of his own district, and broadened his acquaintance. Transferring to another district as secretary, he can continue to do favors for people of the North Side and the territory outside the city, thus endeavoring to keep his political fences built up in preparation for the next campaign.

Erk Lost by Only Few Hundred Votes

The Thirtieth District is normally Republican by a preponderant majority. In the Roosevelt sweep of last November Mr. Erk lost by only a few hundred votes, and the balance was swung against him in most conservative circles. Twing Brooks, the successful Democratic candidate, was given aid in the Sewickley section, which does not usually come to a Democrat.

In contrast to the situation in most sections, Brooks got votes from those who voted for President Hoover.

One aspect of the Erk-Muldowney association may have some political significance. Mr. Muldowney is a follower of Senator James J. Coyne, and it was through the influence of Coyne that Muldowney progressed through the Legislature to City Council and then to Congress. Muldowney naturally is seeking a secretary who knows the ropes of Washington.

But he is giving Erk some assistance, also, and this may be an indication that in the next congressional primary the Coyne forces on the North Side may be in Erk's corner.

Pinchot Asks Gitt to Supervise Commissary

Centering direct relief activities on the commissary method of providing food for the needy, Gov. Pinchot has asked Jess Gitt, York, publisher, to supervise this phase of unemployment assistance. The proffer, it is understood, is not in a form satisfactory to Mr. Gitt, and further discussion of the subject will be in order when the York citizen returns from a trip to Florida.

As suggested by the Governor, Gitt would shupervise commissaries, their installation and operation, but as a subordinate to William B. Rodgers, of Pittsburgh, who is director of the state emergency relief board. The matter of jurisdiction, however, would be largely a question of title, as Gitt would actually be free of any control except that exerted directly by the Governor.

Rodgers Has No Thought of Resigning

However, he is understood to have declined to serve under any such indirect arrangement. One report is that he has made a condition of his service the resigna-

CARNEGIE MEMORIAL TO COLONEL JAMES ANDERSON

The monument standing at the North Side Carnegie Library and dedicated to Col. Anderson, an early benefactor of Andrew Carnegie. The inscription on the monument: "To Colonel James Anderson, founder of free libraries in Western Pennsylvania. He opened his library to "working boys" and upon Saturday afternoons acted as librarian, thus dedicating not only his books but himself to the noble work. This monument is erected in grateful remembrance by Andrew Carnegie, one of the working boys to whom were thus opened the precious treasures of knowledge and imagination through which youth may ascend." BETTER THAN COMMISSARY, SAYS CASEY

Attitude of Pincho May Later Result In Change

That the store order metho of relief rather than the commissary system will continue i Allegheny County, at least fo the present, has been indicate by John F. Casey, chairman o the Allegheny Emergency A sociation.

Casey declared the studies ma of the commissary and order sy tems have shown the latter met od produces the best results this district.

CHANGE POSSIBLE

The definite attitude of commissary plan taken by Go ernor Pinchot and his cabi may, however, bring about change later, Casey told soc workers at the Allegheny Cour Welfare conference yesterday.

Arthur Dunham, of Lansdow Pa., secretary of the Child W fare Division of the Public Cha ties Association, declared the r lief needs in Pennsylvania ha reached a point where it may necessary to install a commis system.

Dunham expressed reluctance use the system under which th on relief work would receive f orders from warehouses, but d clared lack of funds may force He pointed out that there 400,000 families on relief in Pe sylvania this month.

LARGER RATION SEEN

The possibility of a more ad quate ration for those on rel under the commissary was point out by Dunham. He declared th if such a system is installed, much choice of food as possib should be given and advisory com mittees of the unemployed be a pointed to help administer the r lief.

Legislation seeking to take t administration of relief away fro the Pennsylvania Emergency R lief Board and give it back to t poor boards was characterized vicious" by Dunham. Poor boar throughout the state are general inefficient, he said.

Members of the Unemploy Citizens' League addressed the s cial workers, one demanding r lief on a basis of $20 a week.

A dinner in the Schenley Hot last night closed the session the welfare conference.

Speakers at the business se sions were Casey, Dunham, Sam uel E. Claney, director of th Emergency Association and Count Relief Board; David Terry, fiel investigator for the State Relie Board; Elmer Cope and Joh Weaver, representing the Unem ployed Citizens' League, an others.

At a round table conference the afternoon speakers were Stan ley Bright, of Reading; Dr. John A. Lapp, of Chicago; Mrs. Richard Meade, Jr., of Swarthmore Pa.; Dr. LeRoy M. A. Meader, of Philadelphia; Miss Alice Butt, Washington, and Miss Mary S Larabee, of Harrisburg.

BANDITS LEAVE VICTIM'S FARE

South Side police today sought two Negro bandits who obtained $92 in the holdup of the H. Hadas clothing store at 1301 Carson street last night, leaving 20 cents carfare for the victim.

Hadas, who lives at 5437 Hobart street, said the pair entered and asked for a pair of socks. When Hadas reached for them the two "customers" pointed revolvers at him, rifled the cash register of $12, forced Hadas to open a safe and took $80 that it contained. Before they left one of the pair, pointing to the cash register, said:

"You'll find your carfare there."

They escaped in an auto.

William Sill, of 2552 Charles street, reported to police yesterday that a man struck him on the head and robbed him when he entered his room Tuesday night. He told police the thug robbed him of jewelry valued at $450 and $18 in cash.

A watch valued at $125, a revolver and $50 in cash comprised the loot of thieves who yesterday ransacked the home of Tony Rovak, 1480 High street, North Side, according to police.

JOSEPH VOLPE AGAIN INDICTED

Joseph Volpe, younger brother of the three racket-slain Wilmerding Volpes, today stood indicted on two additional charges, with his name already on this week's Criminal Court trial list on another indictment.

He was indicted late yesterday on charges of aggravated assault and battery and of violating the firearms act. It was charged by Lewis Lucarelli, a tinner, of Kline avenue, West Wilmerding, that Volpe dragged him into a coal cellar January 10 and beat him. State Patrolman E. W. Morrison added the firearms charge, saying Volpe had a loaded revolver on his person at 2 a. m., January 11.

Volpe's trial, listed for today, on a charge of enticing a minor to New York for marriage was postponed because of the absence of state witnesses, reported ill.

THEATER FIRMS SEEK CHARTERS

Applications for 41 charters from theater companies, including 12 from the Pittsburgh district, have been filed with Richard J. Beamish, secretary of the commonwealth, he announced today. The 12 were the Harris Theater Company and the Peoples Theater Company, of Tarentum; Prince Theater Company, of Ambridge; Victor Theater Company, of McKeesport; Ritz Theater Company, of New Kensington; Ambridge Theater Company, of Ambridge, and the Cameraphone Theater Company, the Building Theater Company, the William Penn Theater Company, the Palace Theater Company, the Model Theater Company, and the Harris Theater Company, all of Pittsburgh.

The applicants were Philip J. Raff and Louis S. Aldrich, both of New York, and William J. McGowan, of Philadelphia. A check for $1,640 covering bonuses and letters patent was received by Beamish from Warner Brothers' Picture Company, Inc.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Feb. 9.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Glad to see the old U. S. Senate come clear like it did. We all felt that in a good fair trial with all the evidence brought out on both sides that she would clear her fair name. And sho nuff she did it. She just got right up and said, "I am not guilty," and said it so convincingly that she made her own members (which was the jury) believe it. Mr. Barry takes up journalism exclusively now, and the next sergeant-at-arms engaged will be a blind man, then there will be no writing about what he sees.

Will Rogers

Yours, WILL.

JUNIOR PATROL BUTTONS SENT

Cards Being Mailed Boys and Girls Who Signed Pledge

"Junior Patrol" membership cards and buttons were being sent today to the hundreds of boys and girls desiring to join the new club. All boys and girls who have sent pledge cards to the Sun-Telegraph signifying that they will follow the five promises of a good "Junior Patrol" member, will receive buttons and cards. The buttons have an eagle, the name Junior Patrol and a number on them, while the membership cards have a picture of Junior on the front and the pledge on the back.

JUNIOR'S BADGE

Boys and girls who have not heard of the new club may learn all about it by turning to the comic page and looking at the comic strip "Junior" by Quin Hall, which appears daily in the Sun-Telegraph.

Those who have not sent in pledge cards will find one opposite the comic strip. To reduce mailing expense the sender can paste it on a penny postcard, or boys and girls living in the same neighborhood may send their pledges in one envelope.

So far hundreds of pledge cards have poured into the Sun-Telegraph office from points as far away as Philadelphia and Hagerstown, Md. Mr. Hall, while sitting in his art desk today drawing Junior" said:

"I'm going to put a big map up on the wall and see how many towns and cities will be represented by the 'Junior Patrol.' For every point on the map where there is at least one member of the club, I'l stick a little marker."

Darrow Didn't Take His Own Sour Medicine

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Like any good doctor, Mr. Darrow doesn't take his own medicine.

In advising young men to jump out of windows Clarence forgets they had windows when he was a young man.

The only time we met Clarence was when he was western sales manager for the monkeys at the Scopes trial. Even then he liked his clients aged in the woods.

Our distinguished contemporary says there ain't a chance in this world for a boy with a bicycle. The oldtimers are running the works and aren't letting any younkers muscle into their territory.

Clarence's gloomy solo won't stop fifty thousand college graduates from busting forth next June and playing house on fire on the ladder of success.

Freed in Killing, Widow Happy Among Friends

NEW CASTLE, Feb. 9.—Back in her home, surrounded by friends rejoicing with her and her parents and two children, Mrs. Anna Mae McNeil, freed of a charge of murder in the shooting of her husband, Harold McNeil, last Sunday morning, expressed her joy today and her relief over the outcome.

Mrs. McNeil said:

"I am deeply grateful for being freed. It all seems like a nightmare from which I have just awakened. I am home again, and free, thanks to the action of Alderman L. C. Mantz and District Attorney John S. Powers. There never was any doubt in my mind that I would be freed, eventually.

"I hope my friends and the people of Lawrence County will believe me implicitly. I killed Harold, but only in a moment of desperation, when it seemed as though he might kill me.

"All that I ask now is that I be permitted to live my life in peace so that my boy and girl can be brought up in the way they should be."

Funeral services for Harold McNeil, the husband, were held at the residence yesterday, attended only by Mrs McNeil and her children, her parents and his father and sisters.

M'GOVERN, BARR ENRAGED AS OFFICIALS ASK PAY MEET

DEMAND PARK, WOODSIDE FACE OPEN HEARING

Today's zero weather didn't bother County Commissioners C. C. McGovern and C. M. Barr. On the contrary, they seemed hot under the collar.

The cause was a letter from District Attorney Andrew T. Park, Clerk of Corts S. J. Topley and Controller Robert G. Woodside, representing the county's elected officials.

They suggested a conference with the Commissioners in the office of Woodside, who is not their best friend, to discuss salary retrenchments.

UNFAIR, SAYS M'GOVERN

McGovern and Barr became indignant. They refused Commissioner Mansfield's motion to accept the invitation. If, declared McGovern and Barr, the elected officials want to discuss anything they'll discuss it before the Commissioners—in the open.

Said McGovern:

"There's nothing fair about this group of men. We're going to standardize the salaries in their offices whether they like it or not. Let them bring their mob in—with guns or anything else."

The Commissioners today expected to take up the last of the 1933 budget estimates, clearing the way for the adjustment of salaries and setting the millage.

MORE PICNIC FACILITIES

The Commissioners yesterday heard reports from Director A. M. Marion of the Department of Parks, and agreed that most of the money to be spent on the parks this year will go toward providing more facilities for picnickers rather than to improve the golf course.

Marion said he believed the swimming pool, the golf course and the tennis courts should pay their own way.

The matter of increasing the golf fees may be taken up later. Marion is also considering a fee for the use of the tennis courts.

GOLFERS RAPPED

Discussing the increase in golf fees, McGovern said:

"I believe the question of eating is more important than that of golf. Hundreds of picnickers would be benefited by more tables, shelters and ovens. Those boys in short pants who carry the sticks want the taxpayers to pay for their enjoyment which they cannot afford to pay themselves.

"Many golfers have dropped out of their clubs and are using the county courses at great saving. Of course I am not old enough to play golf myself, but I believe we should give more consideration to the picnickers."

G. O. P. FIGHTS 'DICTATORSHIP'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—The extraordinary powers for reorganization of the government voted Franklin D Roosvelt by the Senate, with which President Hoover was said yesterday to be "delighted," today ran afoul of strenuous Republican opposition in the House.

The G. O. P leader, Snell, of New York, said the grant of power was not reasonable and would make Roosevelt an absolute dictator. The entire question still must be agreed to by the House as the Senate attached it as an amendment to the Treasury-post-office appropriation bill, now ready to be sent to conference between the branches.

Th position of Snell forecast a struggle on party lines before the proposition can get through.

The Democrats, however, went ahead with their plans to put through the program so President Roosevelt may submit a complete revision of the government to the special session slated to convene in April.

Under the terms of the Byrnes proposal, Mr. Roosevelt may abolish any bureaus and agencies and their functions and impound appropriations made for their operation.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache, torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one of two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

PHILA. DOCTOR GETS BOK GIFT

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Dr. Earl D. Bond, psychiatrist and leader in mental welfare work, last night received the Philadelphia award of $10,000, which was founded in 1921 by Edward W. Bok in recognition of distinguished service tendered to the city by one of its citizens.

ORDER SYSTEM FOR RELIEF KEPT HERE

ployment relief program in Pittsburgh to stimulate and encourage the return to self-support of families on relief, the Welfare Fund today issued an announcement saying it is "in complete sympathy with any sound plan whereby unemployed citizens can occupy their time in a healthy and constructive way."

The statement was issued following receipt of a letter from the McKeesport Barter and Exchange Bureau asking for an explanation of the fund officials' attitude. The bureau's letter pointed out that some of the needy were afraid to seek work lest they be cut from relief.

The Welfare Fund statement said:

"If a family is able to provide itself with food and the necessities of life, naturally relief would be discontinued. The whole purpose of the work of our welfare agencies is to return families to a basis of self-support as soon as possible.

"Within the past month, the Emergency Association took action placing relief in a slightly broader basis and making allowance for outside income up to a certain point.

"Heretofore, any outside income, however small, has been deducted from the amount of relief given. Under the new plan of relief administration the development of outside income will be encouraged and the family will be helped to become self-supporting again."

ASSURES FOOD FOR PUPILS

The city of Pittsburgh will furnish the necessary funds for feeding the undernourished school children, Councilman Robert Garland said after being informed Federal funds cannot be used for this purpose.

Councilman Garland is chairman of a committee of nine appointed by City Council to solve the school children feeding problem. The committee had appealed to the State Emergency Relief Board at Harrisburg for $100,000. The request was refused on a ruling of Attorney General William A. Schnader.

Two means of providing the money are open to council, Garland said. One is to enact an ordinance, already prepared, for appropriating the funds out of a bond account. The other is to appropriate monthly sums out of revenue funds.

He declared the bill providing a $100,000 appropriation and now in finance committee was the best method. He promised the bill would be taken up for discussion at the committee meeting Tuesday. The monthly plan does not meet his approval.

GIRL 'BRANDED,' YOUTH HELD

A youth was held in the Fayette County Jail today after Catherine Orris, 14, described a whoopee party she attended in Uniontown several days ago while she was sought in Pittsburgh as a "missing person."

The searing into the girl's flesh of the initials of her boy friend climaxed the party, according to police, who said a serious charge had been preferred against the youth, Michael Galadi, 24, usher in a Uniontown theater. The "branding" is reported to have been done with a heated "bobby pin."

The branding was described by Miss Orris when she was arraigned before Judge Thomas H. Hudson on a charge of incorrigibility. Judge Hudson has ordered an investigation.

OAKLAND BOARD BACKS COYNE

Officers and directors of the Oakland Board of Trade yesterday voted approval of the action of Senator James J. Coyne "in endeavoring to get a reduction in school taxes."

The resolution further commended the Senator and urged him to do his duty to his constituents and taxpayers of Pittsburgh generally, and suggested that he ignore the "dictatorial and un-American" demands of a small group.

Coyne recently was subjected to a broadside by the Citizens' Committee which accused him of "boss" tactics and demanded he change his stand on legislation affecting Pittsburgh and Allegheny County.

ROAD FUNDS USE TO AID NEEDY OPPOSED

The plan to divert money from the state highway fund to unemployment relief was sharply criticized today by President Fred A. Fichtel, of the Pittsburgh Motor Club.

Pointing out that 90 per cent of funds used for highway work goes for employment of labor, Fichtel asserted that scrapping of the highway program would merely be throwing thousands out of work to supply work for others.

WE MAKE no extravagant claims for Vicks Voratone Antiseptic. It is simply the best oral antiseptic Vicks Chemists could produce. And they were aided by the chemists and bacteriologists of our 16 allied organizations, in America, England, and Germany.

They examined the whole field of oral antiseptics. Some they found were too weak . . . a few far too strong for regular use in the mouth. Most were very good . . . but all were much too expensive.

So they produced a balanced antiseptic . . . mild enough to be used day in and day out without risk to delicate membranes . . . strong enough to do everything an oral antiseptic can safely do.

You can use Vicks Antiseptic in the usual way for all your customary uses. . . . Undiluted, it is pleasant and safe, yet conforms to approved standards of antiseptic strength . . . Diluted, even 3 times, it is still an efficient mouth-wash.

And Vicks Antiseptic has this additional unique advantage . . . Born in a depression year, it is priced accordingly. The regular size is a large ten-ounce bottle . . . a usual 75 cent value . . . costs only 35¢.

BEAUTY FINDS CLOTHES MADE IN U. S. BEST

Universal Service.

Peggy Hopkins Joyce, famous international beauty, is known as one of the world's best-dressed women. Her views on the "Buy American" campaign are therefore of keen interest to the women of America. They are presented herewith.

By PEGGY HOPKINS JOYCE

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 9.—I have searched the earth for clothing which will glorify the feminine figure to the ultimate degree; for garments which will clothe woman in her most attractive raiment. And what have I found?

This: That we have here in America the most exquisite, the most glamorous and the most becoming gowns and cloaks and footwear and millinery and hosiery that there are to offer.

For too long a time, we American women have built up an illusion about Paris as the fashion center of the world. It is astonishing how wrong we have been. I have come to realize, in my studies of style and the woman who make the styles, that the real centers of fashion are—

HOLLYWOOD and NEW YORK!

All the most prized possessions in my wardrobe have originated in those two places. And I do not hesitate to compare them whether it be in material, in design or in charm, with the foremost creations of European couturiers.

I will make this admission: In the past, I have been able to buy COPIES of American gowns in Paris at a cheaper price (but the duty on bringing them back even then made them more expensive.) But now, when prices have dropped to a scale far below that of Paris or London or Berlin, it would be rank foolishness not to buy American!

And, I may add, that I am so impressed with the 'Buy American,' Naturally, my trousseau will some from American shops, preferably Hollywood's.

'Buy American' Given Support in Castle Shannon

Castle Shannon's business men have indorsed "Buy American" and through their organization plan to help crush unemployment and get orders into American factories. A resolution unanimously pledging help to the campaign was passed at a meeting of the Castle Shannon's Business Men's Association.

The action was taken as the Department of Commerce announced the appearance of a new rival for American products, particularly Pittsburgh products.

In a report issued yesterday, Attache W. S. Dowd, of Tokio, stated Japanese plants are now able to produce pig iron at the lowest cost in the world, and have been assured of orders from the Pacific Coast of the United States.

The report said:

"Because of this fact and the depreciation in exchange value of the yen, the Anshan plant is now able to export to Europe, America, Africa and various countries in Asia.

"It is reported that the Anshan plant has received orders from the South Sea area, the American Pacific Coast and South America, and producers feel encouraged by prospects for outlets on the United States Atlantic Coast and in South Africa.

"Production in all iron and steel categories showed greatly increased schedules in October, 1932, latest month for which figures are available, compared with the same month in 1931. Ingot steel in October, 1932, rose to 209,745 tons from a total of 37,934 tons in October, 1931. Rolled steel in October, 1932, amounted to 172,994 tons compared with 34,713 tons in October, 1931."

GERMAN TARIFF RATES BOOSTED

BERLIN, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Increases in tariff charges drastically curtailing if not prohibiting livestock and lard imports, were issued today by Alfred Hugenberg, the minister of economics and agriculture, effective February 15.

The new tariffs represent increases ranging up to 500 per cent, particularly affecting North and South American exporters. The following items were affected, the figures for the new and old rates being shown in marks: Livestock, 50, against 24.5; sheep, 45, against 22.5; swine, 50, against 40; fresh meats, 100, against 45; ordinary cuts, 150, against 60; choice cuts, 280, against 120; lard, 50, against 10.

Roughly, two-thirds of Germany's lard requirements are furnished by the United States. The government in a statement said that the tariffs were to protect German livestock prices, which generally were 60 per cent of pre-war prices.

Quick! Stop That COLD!

Don't Let It Run Beyond the First Stage!

A cold ordinarily goes through three stages: the Dry Stage, the first 24 hours; the Watery Secretion Stage, from 1 to 3 days; and the Mucous Secretion Stage. To let a cold run beyond the first stage is inviting danger.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine taken at the first sign of a cold will usually stop it in one day. This famous tablet is effective because it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels, kills the cold germs and fever in the system, relieves the headache and tones the entire system. Anything less than that is toying with a cold. Get Grove's Laxative BROMO QUININE today and accept nothing else. Now two sizes—30c and 50c—at all druggists.

tion of Mr. Rodgers, but to this the Governor has so far been unwilling to agree. Rodgers has been in charge of relief operation for months, his burden lately being shared by Eric Biddle, of Philadelphia, who came to the capital as a volunteer worker, but shortly was put on the payroll at $8,000 a year.

About the Governor's office it is said that in recent weeks the Governor has been leaning principally on Biddle, and now he has taken up Gitt, who has been in charge of the York commissary, regarded by the Governor as an efficient illustration of the worth of this plan of furnishing relief. Mr. Rodgers, however, has no thought of resigning at this time, and he has the support of County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern.

In York the commissary charge per person per day is more than the six cents for which it is claimed adequate diet can be furnished. Gitt, however, has been furnishing liquid milk rather than powdered milk, but through an arrangement with dairies has been getting milke at five cents a quart.

Real Battle of Session Yet to Come

House leaders next week will have out of the way the subject of repeal of the state dry enforcement act. This week the blue law repealer was run through.

The desire is to have these controversial pieces of liberal legislation disposed of as soon as possible so the House can get to work on an economy program and measures of relief. There are open fireworks surrounding the Blue Laws and dry repeal, but they are not the sticking points in this session.

The real battle of the session will come over the dovetail financial and relief programs.

Because of this desire to have the decks cleared there is a possibility that the Senate within two weeks will act on Blue Laws. The goal now aimed at is to dispose of these subjects by the first of March, so the remaining weeks can be free of such issues.

For your health's sake ask for and get Kruschen at any drug store—the cost for a bottle that lasts 4 weeks is but a trifle, and if after the first bottle you are not joyfully satisfied with results—money back.

CITY LOSES SUIT TO RECOVER ON BOND

Federal Judge R. M. Gibson yesterday directed a verdict in favor of the United States Casualty Company, a New York corporation, in the suit of the City of Pittsburgh to recover on a depository bond given by the corporation covering city deposits of $100,000 in the Pennsylvania Bank and Trust Company, which closed September 26, 1931.

In face of the adverse decision the city funds, according to its counsel, are amply protected by corporate bonds, with a market value of $120,000, delivered to the city by the bank the day before it closed, when the municipal authorities were ready to withdraw the public funds. The court held that the bonds were substituted as surety instead of the depository bond of the corporation, and therefore the latter concern was not liable.

DESERTED WIFE FAILS TO WIN DIVORCE

Although she charged she was deserted the day following her marriage, Judge Elder W. Marshall has refused a divorce to Mrs. Winnie Davage, Mission street, from Gilbert Davage, Montezuma street.

Mrs. Davage charged cruel and barbarous treatment and indignities in her suit. The court decided the testimony presented showed desertion, but that the charges did not justify a decree.

The Davages were married December 7, 1931. Mrs. Davage testified that after the wedding they registered at a downtown hotel, where, she said, her husband drank a pint of whisky and then told her that he was sorry he had married and wished he could get out of it.

She began to cry, she related, and he slapped her. The next day he sent her home, she testified, and has since refused to make a home for her.

Then I was wrong—for I thought love would be Thunder and storm and lightning in the sky;
Is it not strange? Love came to you and me
Treading as softly as the night winds sigh;
We need no words the slow turn of your head,
Your finger's clasp your mouth against my own
Says in a moment all that should be said,
Sweetly as any music Pan has blown.

Then I was wrong—for all that I called love

(How strange it is to pillow at your breast—

No Wonder!

Walter Thornton tells it on Russ Patterson, the illustrator, who had a pretty but numb model sitting for him one day.

"Here's the idea," said Russ, "you have just read a letter informing you that your dear mother is dying. You are grief-stricken, miserable, sad."

The gal assumed the pose, but couldn't resist smiling.

"My heavens!" cried the artist, "your mother is supposed to be dying, how can you laugh?"

"Tee-hee," tittered the model, "she's my stepmother and I hate her!"

By GEORGE SEIBEL

David Belasco's collection of stage relics and curios, including a lot of Napoleana, has been going at auction very slowly—and has produced only a single sensation. An oil painting of Lenore Ulric was offered, and nobody would bid $1 to start the auction. Now the question is: Was the oil painting so poor, or has the siren Lenore lost her allure, or has the depression reached its highest point? There could be only one worse drop in values—if Peggy Hopkins Joyce's Greek Testament couldn't be sold for a quarter of an obole.

There have been low prices for theatrical art in the past. Twenty years ago an oil painting by Joe Jefferson sold at $4.35 in a Pittsburgh auction. Rip must have spent three days painting that Louisiana bayou!

George Seibel

How much would a spoke from a wheel of the original cart of Thespis bring? Or a button off Burbage's vest? Or one of Lily Langtry's powder puffs? Or that famous asp used by Sarah Bernhardt or somebody in "Cleopatra" an asp which could be heard hissing? A critic next day wrote:

"I am of the asp's opinion!"

CRITICAL DIFFERENCES

Critics often differ, being only human and subject to indigestion, myopia and other afflictions of ordinary humanity. But the prize for a critical grouch must be awarded to Gilbert Seldes. He is praising Noel Coward in his own way after seeing "Design for Living," and he says:

"No playwright except Mr. Coward could carry off a play with such a sagging, sad and tiresome drunken scene as he has given it; no director would let it play that way. But Mr. Coward is his own director."

SHAW IN SIAM

All drinking scene comment must be regarded as a matter of taste, modified by thirst. Other variant opinions may be ascribed to insularity tempered by ignorance. That accounts for the treatment the Siamese have just accorded to the illustrious G. Bernard Shaw, now on a tour around the world.

When Shaw arrived at Baknam, the port of Bangkok, the Siamese paid no attention to him, but wildly cheered Prince Curbhatra, the king's brother, who was on the same ship.

Shaw punished them by not leaving the ship. If the Siamese ever find it out, a national day of mourning ought to be proclaimed.

Meantime it is good to know that Prince Curbhatra is more famous than Bernard Shaw — in Siam.

"Study in Scarlet" Cast Includes Adapter

A long list of players has been lined up for the new World Wide Production "Study in Scarlet," which goes into production under the direction of Edwin L. Marin, who directed "The Death Kiss." "Study in Scarlet," one of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's most famous Sherlock Holmes stories, was adapted to the screen by Reginald Owen and Robert Florey. Owen will also play Sherlock Holmes, while Warburton Gamble will essay the famous role of Dr. Watson. June Clyde, Anna May Wong, Alan Dinehart, Alan Mowbray, Billy Bevan, Doris Lloyd, Wyndham Standing, Halliwell Hobbes, Leila Bennett and a number of others have all been signed for important parts in the screen mystery.

Movie of O'Neill Play Is Completed

Production has been completed on "Auction in Souls," a new World Wide picture, based on the play, "Recklessness," by Eugene O'Neill. Conrad Nagel, Leila Hyams, Claire Windsor and Tommy Conlon essay the principal roles in "Auction in Souls," dramatic story revolving around a tent show troupe.

Lionel Wins Honors for Etching

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 9.

Between acting and etching, Lionel Barrymore undoubtedly would choose the latter, yet he will tear himself away from his hobby to answer an important studio summons.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has chosen him for one of the leads in "Service," a big department store picture which Clarence Brown will film soon in the Culver City studio. Other players whom you will see in this film include Lewis Stone, and MGM's two new English actresses, Elizabeth Allen and Benita Hume.

Always interested in etchings, Barrymore has improved his technique in the last two years. His dressing-room is a complete studio and he spends hours working on the copper plates. Exhibiting here a short while ago, the actor found a brisk demand for his etchings. Now he will be an exhibitor at the New York Etching Society.

These honors seem to mean more to him than the critical and box-office plaudits of his acting. But, being a Barrymore, he can't get away from the old calling.

All the studios are humming with plans for the new year's program. Universal has made so much money out of the Zasu Pitts-Slim Summerville comedies that Carl Laemmle, Jr., has set Tom Reed to work on "Chicken Rancho," another vehicle for the popular pair. It's an original story by Dale Van Every and will have a California setting.

Junior also has assigned Kathleen Shepherd, former newspaper woman, to do a screen treatment on Mary Synon's novel, "The Good Red Bricks."

Five one-act plays are being rehearsed for early presentation by the Irene Kaufmann Settlement Players, under the direction of Louis Isaacs. Later the Players will present the three one-act plays that win awards in the local play-writing contest, just closed. They too, will be given under the direction of Mr. Isaacs. "Applesauce," three-act comedy, is being rehearsed by the Young Players' group of the Settlement, under the direction of Josh Kane. Groups made up of children will present plays February 16 and 25.

Harry Ziff, veteran performer of the adult group at the Irene Kaufmann Settlement, has become a professional, having joined the ranks of the Grant Players, stock organization, and will make his debut with that organization in Wilkes-Barre tonight.

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

HOTEL DUNAPALOTA, BUDAPEST, Hungary.—Oh, this weather! It drove me out of Vienna yesterday. If it doesn't improve, it's going to drive me out of Budapest on the fastest train tomorrow night. I'm hitting south for Athens—and a warmer climate. It's a tough trip; something like 40 hours through three different countries. But as long as I find a little sunshine in Greece, it's okay with me.

You can't do anything in weather like this. It's more than unpleasant; it's completely rotten. From the time I left North Africa until the present day, I don't think I've seen the sunshine more than two or three times.

It's snowing out now. And it's not the kind of snow a man might possibly enjoy either. It's a soft, mushy, nasty kind of snow that turns into a muddy slush as soon as it hits the ground.

I suppose I should be out right now, gathering material on government buildings and reporting on people in general. But I'll be doggoned if I can get myself to do it. I'm not in the mood. From my room, as I write this, I can see the Blue Danube—and it looks to me to be as dirty a river as ever I gazed upon. And if the celebrated and romantic Danube doesn't look half as good as the Hudson River back home, it's no time for me to make further investigations into the romantic lure of old Hungary.

Tomorrow, if the weather gets any better, I'll be able to tell you more. But, meanwhile, here's a little story that I was going to save for a Sunday. The weather being what it is, however, it will have to go now. So!

In Berlin, I met a couple whom I will refer to as Mr. and Mrs. Jones. We were introduced by mutual friends in the lobby of the Esplanade Hotel, and it wasn't long before we were dining together.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones were both from California, and they knew a number of film people with whom I was also acquainted. Both the woman and her husband talked extremely well and I enjoyed my meal immensely. She seemed very much in love with her husband; he was unquestionably in love with her. Their affection for each other made me slightly nervous.

Around 11:30 or so, we returned to the hotel. I was going out to visit a few cabarets and I prepared to say goodnight to my friends. But no sooner were we in the lobby that Mrs. Jones turned to me.

"I suppose you're going out," she said. "If you are and you'd like to take my husband along, I'd be only too happy to see him go. I'm sure that Frank would enjoy being with you."

I was surprised. Here was a woman who wanted her husband to go out in a foreign town while she remained at home.

"Tickled to death if Frank joins me," I asserted, "but how about you? Like to have you along, too, if you'd care to go."

I wasn't really honest about that invitation because a woman would have been something of a nuisance on that type of cafe hour. But I had no occasion to worry.

"No," smiled Mrs. Jones, "I don't think so. Not tonight, at any rate. I want Frank to enjoy himself, and you never really can when there's a woman along. So you boys go right along. Good night, dearest. And don't stay out too late.

The 'dearest,' I hasten to state, was addressed to Mr. Jones and not to me. As we left the elobby, I slapped Jones on the back.

"Let me tell you something, brother," I said, "and you probably know it better than anyone else in the world. Your wife is a damned clever woman. That was a swell thing she just did—and it took plenty of common sense on her part. Is she always like that?"

"Exactly like that," he returned. "Dolly and I have been married eight years—and she has never been any different. She allows me my freedom because she knows there are times when men honestly want to be alone. And she knows, too, that, so long as I can be free when I wish to be, I would never do anything in this world that might hurt her."

"Mind if I talk to your wife along these lines?" I asked. "I don't want you to think me fresh—but as a semi-conscious writer, this all seems too good to be true. May I?"

"By all means," he retorted. . .

Thus, on the following night we all had dinner together again. This time there were about eight of us. And while the others were talking about Mr. Roosevelt's chances in 1936, I spoke to Mrs. Jones.

I was quite frank in my admiration for her. I told her very honestly that the thing she had done the previous night had impressed me a very great deal. I congratulated her on her common sense.

"Thank you," she replied, "but my actions don't really call for congratulations. I worked the whole thing out in my mind while Frank and I were still engaged. And I've just been living up to a formula, that's all.

"You see, Mr. Hellinger, I don't believe that any two people in this world can look at each other for too long a time without growing a little sick of the situation. The greatest enemy of love is boredom. So I set out to make certain that my husband wouldn't be bored.

"Whenever he feels that he wants to get away, I encourage him to go. And I mean—whether it's to visit a few cafes with you or to spend a month in Miami with a number of his California friends. He loves me dearly, and I know it. I love him dearly, and he knows it. I want to keep it that way—always.

"I tell you all this because you, yourself, spoke to me about it. I would never undertake to explain my beliefs to another woman because I don't think that many women would understand. I give Frank his freedom—and we are always happy to be together again.

"But, meanwhile, our sense of personal liberty is not destroyed. Do you understand, Mr. Hellinger?" Have I made myself clear?"

I placed my hand on hers in honest admiration.

"Lady,' was all I could say. "And how I understand!" . . .

The following morning, at an early hour, Mr. Jones had me on the phone. He seemed highly agitated and said he wanted to see me. I told him to come right up.

A moment later he was pacing the floor of my room. I waited for him to speak but he did nothing but mutter.

"What's the matter, Frank?" I finally asked. "Something happen."

He glared at me.

"It's my wife," he cried. "She's crazy."

I swallowed hard. What sort of perfect understanding had this turned out to be?

"If you'd care to tell me," I muttered, "I'd like to know what happened."

Mr. Jones pounded his fist on the table.

"She's crazy, I tell you," he roared. "Positively crazy. No sooner did we leave you last night than she accused me of flirting with the cigaret girl in that restaurant. And I never even noticed the woman. She nagged me all night and I just had to run out of the room before I took a poke at her.

"My heavens, Mark, what I'd give to enjoy a little liberty every now and then!"

President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt is presented in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News. He is shown leaving Jacksonville, Fla., aboard Vincent Astor's yacht Nourmahal on his last vacation before his inauguration on March 4. The pictures show the President-elect chatting with Kermit Roosevelt and Mr. Astor. The Globe Trotter tells all about the trip.

Thrilling pictures show the Millrose games at Madison Square Garden, New York, before a crowd of 17,000, which were marked by many upsets, winners including Joe Horter, of Newark; Emmett Toppino, of New Orleans, and Keith Brown, of Yale. Talks by the victors follow each event.

Daring bobsledders on the Lake Place (N. Y.) slide show the contestants reaching speeds of 70 miles an hour. The crew of J. Hubert Stevens sets a new world mark.

Five hundred automobiles are shown stalled in great snowbanks at Lake Arrowhead, Cal., high in the Sierras, where 2,000 motorists were trapped by a blizzard. Hundreds of men and girls, unable to reach the village, 10 miles away, begin a long trek.

Mannish modes for girls, started as a fad in Hollywood, have been indorsed by the New York Fashion Center. Pretty models display the latest in trousers and other masculine garments for spring wear.

Art to Be Displayed After Show Tonight

Enoch Arden Case Reversed in West

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 9. — An Enoch Arden case reversed puzzled District Court officials today. Coy Stone asked annulment of his marriage in 1932 to Della Mae Stone because his first wife, Opal Williams, whom he married in 1927 and had believed dead, has reappeared after "a long and mysterious" absence.

School Children First to Get Shoes

FRANKLIN, Pa., Feb. 9.—When several hundred pairs of shoes are received from the state in Franklin and vicinity the next few weeks, it will not be a case of "women and children first." Instead, it will be "school children first, working men next and the housewife last."

Life of Andrew Carnegie

rent to the young? If each one was educated to look upon these machines made expressly for the destruction of their fellow men with the same horror that they behold the scaffold and the guillotine; if they could be seen only in the museum, as relics of a barbarous age, instead of their likeness being paraded in our religious newspapers; how long would such scenes as that recently enacted at the 'Heights of Alma' take place to shake our belief in man's possessing anything in common with his God? Let war be shown to the young men in its true light, and all will be well.

"'Vice is a monster of so frightful mien,
As to be hated, needs but to be seen.'"

The Anderson Books

Each year was increasing the young man's fondness for books. His absorption in Shakespeare, for it presently amounted to nothing less, aroused an interest in other writers, and the time soon came when the little Swedenborgian library failed to meet his needs. An event now took place which not only supplied this yearning but had a decisive influence upon his subsequent career. As the story of Carnegie's life progresses, his public work will appear more and more as the natural outcome of his personal experiences; and no happening left a greater impression on the mature man than his boyhood association with one of the most public-spirited citizens of Allegheny, Col. James Anderson. At the time Andrew came under his tutelage, Col. Anderson was a retired manufacturer, who had made a comfortable fortune in several enterprises and was spending his last year cultivating his mind. In a lifetime he had assembled a library of three or four hundred volumes, amid which he passed the larger part of his days. At that time anything resembling a free public library was unknown in the Pittsburgh region, nor had the conception of libraries as adjuncts of the public school gained a footing anywhere.

Colonel Anderson's conscience was disturbed because boys, especially working boys, had little access to good reading. That he should dwell in abundance while so many adolescent minds had little upon which to feed, finally prompted him to action. Colonel Anderson let it be known that he would gladly share his books with the boys of Allegheny. At certain hours on Saturday he personally received these eager aspirants for knowledge and gave out his beloved volumes. Any boy could borrow one for a week, returning it on the next Saturday, when, his worthiness proved, he could take home another treasure. Andrew Carnegie immediately became one of the most active beneficiaries of this great kindness.

Thus Colonel Anderson's collection formed Carnegie's introduction to general literature and gave him that respect for books and their makers that remained with him for life. "Colonel Anderson," he said, "opened to me the intellectual wealth of the world. I became fond of reading. I revelled week after week in the books. My toil was light, for I got up at six o'clock in the morning, contented to work until six in the evening if there was then a book for me to read. Can you wonder that I have thought that when I have made wealth, the noblest use to which that wealth can be placed is to imitate Colonel Anderson and establish free libraries?" Many of the Anderson treasures survive; they are a part of the Allegheny Library which Carnegie presented to the city, erecting in front a symbolic monument to Colonel Anderson's memory.

Andrew Protests

Andrew was enjoying a royal feast, when suddenly difficulties arose. Col. Anderson's generosity proved so successful that he decided to enlarge the work, visiting New York and making additions to his literary store, until his library comprised eighteen hundred volumes. With these he established "The Mechanics' and Apprentices' Library" as a gift to Allegheny, requesting the Council to establish quarters for their housing. This Allegheny gladly did, providing a neat room on Federal street, placing a librarian in charge, and adopting a bookplate that enshrined the inscription from Proverbs, "Take fast hold of Instruction, let her not go, for she is thy life." For boys in Andrew's station the new institution proved a drawback; it was free to apprentices but cost two dollars a year to others. The word "apprentice" had a precise and restricted meaning, for it signified a boy articled to a master for a stipulated period. But was a telegraph operator an apprentice? The new librarian decided this momentous question adversely and consequently Andrew and his companions suddenly found themselves shut out from a favorite pasturing ground. But Carnegie was never one to surrender easily an advantage, and now he seized his pen, and soon the following piece of literature his first published writing, for the Dewdrop contribution came a year afterward—found its way into the Pittsburgh Dispatch:

Allegheny, May 9th, 1853.
Mr. Editor:

Believing that you take a deep interest in whatever tends to elevate, instruct and improve the youth of this country, I am induced to call your attention to the following. You will remember that some time ago Mr. Anderson (a gentleman of this city) bequested a large sum of money to establish and support a Library for working boys and apprentices residing here. It has been in successful operation for over a year, scattering precious seeds among us, and although fallen "by the wayside and in stony places," not a few have found good ground. Every working boy has been freely admitted only requiring his parents or guardian to become surety. But its means of doing good have recently been greatly circumscribed by new directors who refuse to allow any boy who is not learning a trade and bound for a stated time to become a member. I rather think that the new directors have misunderstood the generous donor's intentions. It can hardly be thought that he meant to exclude boys employed in stores merely because they are not bound.

A Working Boy
though not bound.

Letters to the Press

At this meeting Andrew and the librarian amicably settled their differences, with the result that the word "apprentice" was stretched sufficiently to comprehend "working boys though not bound." Naturally Andrew's success gave him a reputation in his circle, and he was so exhilarated that then and there he decided to become a journalist. As telegrapher he had seen much of Pittsburgh reporters and had developed a great liking for them and their craft. The hankering for a newspaper career was not a temporary inspiration, for it recurred several times in succeeding years and the failure to realize these early hopes was frequently a cause of regret. Afterward Carnegie seldom met a newspaper man without confiding the secret yearning that still filled his breast. "The only reason I am not one of you," he would say, "is because no Pittsburgh paper, in those days, would give me a job."

Andrew began writing other letters to the press, his greatest triumph being one concerning the slavery issue in the New York Tribune, efforts which naturally enhanced his local standing and made him more than ever a leader of his crowd. These letters probably reflect the discussions that were now taking place in the first academic club of Pittsburgh, the Webster Literary Society, of which Andrew and his group were members. The earliest of these oratorical performances took place in Henry Phipps' shoe shop. Thomas N. Miller—Carnegie's early partner in the iron business—was president.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

Saves $2. So Easy! No Cooking!

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in more homes than any other cough remedy, because it gives more prompt, positive relief. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Syrup is easily made with 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes fine.

Instantly you feel its penetrating effect. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm, clears the air passages, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief in severe coughs.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, used for generations for its healing effect on throat membranes. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

CREEK BLAMED FOR TAX LOSS

Stewart Cunningham, North Versailles Township Solicitor, announced yesterday that he would file a petition in Common Pleas Court detailing the claim of the township that it was losing $20,000 in taxes annually because of a shift in the course of Turtle Creek where it borders North Braddock Borough.

According to residents, the shifting of the stream was caused by the dumping of slag by the Carnegie Steel Company which owns the land on both sides of the creek. Eight open hearth furnaces have been constructed by the steel company on the land moved into North Braddock, according to Cunningham. He says that the township should receive the taxes on these furnaces.

J. F. Mayhugh, solicitor for North Braddock Borough, said that he planned to fight any such move made by the township.

A Thousand Yous

WHEN you pick up your newspaper and glance over the advertising, you quite unconsciously multiply yourself a thousand times.

In half or three-quarters of an hour you can, figuratively speaking, visit every progressive store in town. You virtually poke your head into every department of every department store. You run into the florist's, the confectioner's, the oculist's, the leading groceries, banks, theaters, all the various places that supply the things that make this the twentieth century and life worth the living. Here is a greater choice in clothing, food, furniture, books, pictures, musical instruments, travel, entertainment, opportunities for investment, the service of public utility corporations than any monarch of old could command.

It would easily take a thousand yous, traveling hard all day, to find out for yourself what the advertisements tell you in a few minutes morning or evening.

Advertisements deserve your attention. They deserve your confidence. Without advertising, the prices you would have to pay for many of the necessities you now buy for small change would make a dollar look like a snowball on the kitchen range.

TELL IT TO ELSIE

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Children Shouldn't Always Depend on Parents

If mon and dad choose to live in a dump, and refuse to move, saying "What's good enough for us is good enough for you—"

What should the youngsters do?

Battle? Sulk? Sit around weeping big, wet tears of self-pity? Cut out all their friends, because they are ashamed to bring them home?

Dear Elsie:

I've just read Mig's letter about "dumps" and I'd like to say a few words, because that's just the kind of place I am living in now, and the cause isn't lack of finances, either. It's just plain stubbornness on the part of my dad.

I'm not a High School kid. I've been working for six years. I am the oldest of a family of seven children. Four of us, besides my father, are working. We all make decent salaries, and we all contribute to the support of the home.

But we live in a "cold water flat" of four rooms. We can barely move without falling over one another. Still, my father will not move into a better place.

I am the only girl, and my brothers and myself have gotten into many an argument, trying to convince Dad that it is not only necessary, but essential, that he give us a better home.

But he insists that he was born in this place, and that since it has been good enough for him all these years, it is good enough for us. He never stops to think that when he was a boy this house was new and up-to-date, but that now it is almost ready to fall apart, besides being too small.

ASHAMED OF HOME

Honestly, I'd rather spend all my time at the office than go home nights, because I am so disgusted with the stuffy, ill-lighted rooms we have. Even my brothers won't bring any friends here, and when a boy is ashamed of his home it must be pretty bad.

Do parents sometimes wonder why children are discontented and leave home? Such homes are a reason. I'd leave myself if it weren't for my mother. Parents cry around that their children leave them, and they don't know whom they're associating with.

Well why don't they give the children a break? Children have pride. They don't like to be humiliated. They hate places like we live in. How can you blame them for leaving such a place, or wanting something better?

Ask any of your readers if they ever tried to crowd seven youngsters and two parents into a four-room flat, with kitchen, dining room and parlor in one? It is terrible—but what can we do when Dad won't give us a break? RED.

FIND NEW LODGINGS

Yes, Red, that's a pretty tough break—

But why blame it all on Dad?

Ten years ago he might have been responsible for your miseries. But you are no longer babies. You are self-supporting young men and women, and it's up to you to look out for your own rights.

Yes, I know, "children must obey their parents." But there's a time limit to everything, and when obedience comes to the point where it wrecks normal development and sours family life, then it's time to quit and act your age.

So stop being sorry for yourself and trying to pour your father into your mold. Let him live as and where he pleases—and go out and find lodgings for yourself.

Chances are that the prospect of separation may make Dad act a little more human.

Also, a few nights in a bleak lodging house may make you realize that home wasn't such a bad place after all—and that if you'd spent as much time tidying it up as you spent in self-pity, you might have made it into a real home.

At any rate, a little spunk all around won't hurt any of you. So wipe your chin and get busy, Red. If you want other people to respect your rights, show some respect for them yourself.

Originator Is Key Man in Art's Triumvirate—Fay King

WHERE WOULD YOU BE WITHOUT THE SONGS HE WRITES?

FAY KING

By FAY KING

Some persons are originators. More persons are interpreters. Most persons are appreciators.

Originators are sources. Like bubbling brooks they are forever overflowing with new ideas and inspirations. They never miss what imitators may take from them, for nothing diminishes their supply from within.

Interpreters express for originators what they cannot express themselves. They sing for the song writers, and act out the author's play.

Appreciators patronize, praise and applaud what pleases them. The originator, interpreter and appreciator form the eternal triangle in the success of the world of talents. Interpreters and appreciators often have more money than originators.

Alas, some originators who were also their on interpreters died poor and had few appreciators. But we know now that they were really geniuses!

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Helena Brixton Has a Complete Nervous Collapse

While I hesitated before Helena Brixton's door, undecided whether I ought to go in and risk intrusion upon her agony even to deliver my message to Harry Underwood, the door opened suddenly and the physician who had attended Mrs. Brixton the day before stood in the doorway. His face, sober and worried, lightened as he saw me, and he beckoned me inside, closing the door quickly.

I soon realized the reason for that action. With that door opened, even though the one into the bedroom was nearly closed, the low, pitiful but indistinct moans I had heard became intelligible, and would have been interesting and highly illuminative to possible curious listeners from the corridor.

"Oh! My child and my husband! My baby and my man! Carolyn! Sam! Where have you gone? Have they killed you, those cruel men? Oh! I know they have, or you would come back to me. They might keep Carol, for she's not strong enough to fight them, but Sam! Nobody could keep you from me if you were alive. Oh! My husband and my baby!"

"I am glad you came just as you did," the physician went on. "I must do some necessary telephoning if I stay here for awhile, and until the nurse comes they need someone like you in readiness to do little necessary things. You see, she will not let her son or Mr. and Mrs. Underwood stir from her side, even to do anything for her, and your niece has gone after the nurse. So if you can stay in this room until the nurse comes?"

MADGE STAYS NEAR

"Of course," I said, as he looked at me inquiringly. "But Mrs. Brixton is quite capricious. She was extremely nervous when I last saw her, and requested Mrs. Underwood to send me away."

He nodded gravely.

"Yes, I should expect her to do something like that," he said, "so be careful that she does not see or hear you. I will go back in and slip Mr. Underwood a short note, saying that you are out here at hand if they need anyone. That is all that anyone can do just now."

I nodded my acquiescence, and he scribbled a few lines on the face of a prescription pad, tore off the page, folded it into small compass and went back into Helena's room. He came out a few seconds later, and nodded significantly to me, and went hurriedly away.

It seemed hours until the doctor returned, although he was gone only 20 minutes. When he came in a capable, sweet-faced woman in the garb of a nurse was with him, and he looked inquiringly at me.

"No change," I told him in a low murmur. "Mr. Underwood came to the door once, and signaled me for a glass of water, which I brought him, but there was nothing else. I am sure she does not know I am here."

HELENA PROTESTS

The physician stood still for a few seconds, listening to that incoherent moaning which seemed to have grown louder, more excited, then he started for the door resolutely.

"It must be the hypodermic, then," he said. "Get everything ready, Miss Bates, so that we need not startle her any more than necessary. She is going to fight it, I am certain."

His words were prophetic, for, after the entrance of the nurse into the room, Helena's moans changed to a shrill, horrified wailing.

"You've not going to put me to sleep when my baby or Sam may need me," she cried. "I won't have it! I must be ready to go to them. Lillian, tell them they shan't. Tell them—"

"Helena, dearest, look at me! Listen to me!" Lillian's voice, firm, commanding, insistent, sounded through the door, and I knew that she had caught Helena's frightened eyes with her own, and was holding them steadily. "Did you ever know me to tell you an untruth in your life?"

The moaning ceased, and then Helena's husky voice murmured, "No."

"Then believe me when I tell you that this is the only thing that will enable you to help Carolyn and Sam. You may die, if you do not take it. Please, for me, dearest!"

"Will you promise me—" the husky voice died away as if from weariness, and Lillian said quietly:

"What is it you want me to promise you?"

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Stick to one perfume, it is an economical measure. If possible have powder, bath salts, talcum and soap all the same scent. Cosmetic chemists are making a point of matching toiletries up that way.

Tiny red veins in the skin—they come oftenest on the cheeks and nose—are ruptured capillaries. They can be removed by means of the electric needle, but only on the advice of a physician. No application will have any effect upon them, as they are under the lowest layer of skin. Physicians who specialize in diseases of skin and scalp, have several other methods of removing them.

Sachets cost less than perfumes and are satisfactory for giving to the wardrobe a sweet and subtle fragrance. Place them in handkerchief and glove boxes, in hat linings and coat pockets. Make a pad for the upper dresser drawer of silk and cotton, sprinkling the powder between the cotton layers. Marvelous how long a good sachet powder will last, how it will impregnate garments with delicious woodsy odors.

How to Keep Well -:-

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Aiding Sick to Combat Weakness

Recently I visited a newly opened hospital. While walking through the immaculately-tiled corridors, I looked into the operating room and observed that a blood transfusion was being made. I entered and was pleased to witness the simplicity with which this formerly dreaded operation was performed.

Dr. Copeland

The patient was comfortable, unalarmed and talked to the physician who was doing the work. The apparatus or transfusion instrument of today differs greatly from that in use when I was a young doctor. I suppose the instruments we used for transfusions are now looked upon as antiques and will be stored as relics in medical museums.

A transfusion consists in the pumping of healthy, normal blood into the blood vessels of a person who lacks a supply of good blood. This procedure may be required because of prolonged illness, severe anemia, or following a severe hemorrhage. This hemorrhage may have been caused by an accidental injury or have occurred in the course of a severe operation.

The blood obtained from the healthy individual replaces the weakened blood of the patient. It gives the sufferer strength and energy to combat disease. It stimulates the bone marrow, liver, spleen and other organs concerned with the manufacture of new and healthy blood cells.

There are four types of blood, which are commonly spoken of as groups one, two, three and four. An individual of one type can only receive blood from another of the same type. By means of a simple test called "typing," this peculiarity is determined before the transfusion is made.

Individuals who give their blood are called "donors." Those who make a practice of doing this are known as "professional donors." Every hospital has a list of professional donors including persons with different types of blood. Of course, in an emergency, a parent, brother, sister or other relative may supply the necessary blood if it meets the requirements of the sufferer.

Recently a law was passed in New York, providing for the establishment of certain rules and regulations for the control and supervision of blood donors. This law requires that all donors register at the Department of Health. They must give satisfactory evidence of perfect health. This is confirmed by repeated blood tests and physical examinations.

If the donor satisfactorily passes the examinations he is given a certificate. No person can give blood unless he has this certificate.

I regard this as an excellent law. It guards and protects the health of the public. It is characteristic of the many modern advances advocated by public officials who are interested in community health and welfare.

Contract Bridge -:-

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

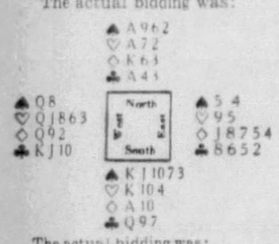
By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Unquestionably an Overbid

When a player needs not only a break in trumps but a favorable choice of an Opening lead, as well as an unexpectedly favorable distribution of the cards to make a Slam contract, it is no strong statement to say that the Slam should never have been bid. However, overbidding at Contract is not a deadly vice, and, in fact, is much more profitable in the long run than underbidding, which takes a heavy toll in games and Slams lost by timidity.

There is nothing timid about the North and South bidding on the hand below:

South Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
The actual bidding was:



The actual bidding was:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	3 ♣ (1)	Pass
3 ♠ (2)	Pass	4 NT (3)	Pass
5 ♠ (4)	Pass	6 ♠ (5)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—Using the new convention of forcing in a three-card suit. The hand, however, while it contains 3½ honor-tricks, is not of such distribution nor general strength as to make it a good example of the use of such a bid.

2—Perhaps South here should have bid three notrump, but if he had, this story would not have been written.

3—Using the new Slam bidding convention, which shows two Aces and a King of a bid suit or three Aces.

4—South endeavors to sign-off.

5—North decides that, having once started something, he will continue it to the bitter end.

With clubs bid by North, West's choice of an Opening lead was greatly restricted, and, having an aversion to a lead of an honor from his heart combination, he decided on the lead of his fourth best heart. This was the first lucky break in the play for the Declarer, who won the trick with the Ten in his own hand. Two rounds of trumps were taken, the adverse trumps fortunately breaking 2-2. The Declarer then cashed the Ace and King of diamonds and ruffed a small diamond in his own hand.

He then followed with the King of hearts, and the third round of hearts was taken with the Ace in Dummy. Thus the stage was set for the final play. The trey of clubs was led from Dummy with the hope that East held the King and would play it. However, when he played the 5, South played the 7, and West won with the Ten. He returned a club, which was his only chance, but South played the 4 from Dummy and won with the Queen in his own hand, thereby fulfilling the contract, which, no doubt, was too high.

TODAY'S QUESTION

North — South vulnerable. South, the Dealer, opens with a bid of one spade and West overcalls with a bid of two diamonds. What should North bid, holding the following hand?

♠ Q 8 6 5 ♡ K J 3 2 ◇ A ♣ A Q 6 4

Answer — Three diamonds—an Overcall of the opponents' bid suit and a Slam suggestion. This bid infers strong trump support, more than 3 honor-tricks and no losers in the adversely bid suit or at least control of the first lead.

Correct Manners

Proper Time for Showers

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—Will you kindly tell me if it is considered good form to sing community songs at a wedding?

2—When is the proper time for showers? No date has been set. (In fact the engagement has not been announced, owing to the fact that the girl's fiance is unfortunate in not obtaining employment.)

I think that showers should be given only after the date has been set, as many things can happen, and gifts becomes passe, if it is a long engagement.

I am the mother of the girl. Some of her friends have approached me on the matter of showers. W.

1—It would seem best form to choose the songs that have been considered conventional and appropriate to be sung for a wedding.

2—I agree with you that having a shower now would certainly be ill-advised and inappropriate. There isn't any point in giving a shower now, and it would I should think, cause "wondering" comment if it is given now. It seems especially inappropriate to give the shower before the engagement is announced.

Correct Invitation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it correct to invite my boy friend's mother and father to tea some Sunday afternoon at my home? My parents and his know each other slightly. Friends tell me that they should not be invited until we are engaged. I am not yet engaged to him, but will be on my birthday. My mother would like to invite them next month, and would like to know whether or not this is correct. R.

By all means have your mother invite your fiance's parents to tea on the first Sunday afternoon that it will be convenient. This is a charming and most hospitable gesture. It doesn't make any difference whether or not your engagement has been announced—the invitation is as correct for you and your mother are simply "extending the hospitality" of your home, and extending a very delightful hospitality. Too Sunday tea time is, I think, one of the most lovely hours of the week, and I am sure that his father and mother will love spending it with you and your mother in your home.

SEIGEL TO HELP PITT AGAINST DUKES

THE RETURN OF Francis (Cowboy) Seigel, captain of the Pitt boxing team, to action tomorrow night in the meet with Duquesne University at the Stadium, will boost the stock of the Panthers no little. So far this season, Seigel has been on the sidelines. Returning from the trip to the coast with the football team, of which he was a valuable member all last season, he found himself behind in his school work, and as he is a senior he decided to put in plenty of time on his books. With the start of a new semester he was able to resume boxing.

Francis Seigel

Weighing 168, Seigel can go into the ring in either the 165 or 175-pound class, but Coach Joe Orsini has not decided just where to use him. If he assigns the Iowa puncher to the 165-pound division he will be forced to bench Charley Gongloff, while in the 175-pound class Seigel would have to give away weight. Chances are Orsini finally will decide to send Seigel in at 165 pounds against the Dukes.

WHEN TWO SHREWD traders like Max Carey and Branch Rickey get together the deal is likely to be very much on the Scotch order, with neither side getting the better of it. So there is little, if anything, to choose in the swap closed last night, which sends Dazzy Vance and Gordon Slade from the Dodgers to the Cardinals in exchange for Owen Carroll and Jake Flowers.

Vance will be 40 on March 4 and is near the end of his rope. He pitched only nine complete games last year. Carroll never has been a major league success, though he showed improved form toward the close of last year. The Cards get a good fielding shortstop in Slade to replace the crippled Charley Gelbert, but Slade is a woefully weak hitter who batted only .240 last year. Flowers is only a sub infielder and hit but .255. It's about even, with no excitement due.

CONTINUED REPORTS THAT Johnny Frederick is to figure in a late trade are denied by Max Carey. The Dodger pilot says he intends to keep that outfielder and pinch hitter.

Carey may alternate Frederick and Danny Taylor in center field, or use Johnny as a part-time performer in right field. Max thinks Hack Wilson may need some help now and then.

VARIED REPLIES ARE reported by Henry Edwards, of the American League, as having been received from a score of players, managers and baseball writers asked to express an opinion as to whether Babe Ruth or Jimmy Foxx hits the harder ball. "If you ask just the infielders," said Oscar Melillo, Brown second baseman, "they will tell you that no other batter can handcuff a second sacker with his line drives and wicked grounders as Ruth does. It was Babe who drove the infielders back on the grass when he came to bat. We do not play him as deeply now as we formerly did, but if Ruth tried for singles and doubles more than for homers we probably would."

Jimmy Foxx

OUTFIELDER GOOSE GOSLIN voted for Foxx, and says Jimmy has hit many a ball on a line over his head in left field. He mentioned in particular one instance at Shibe Park, when Bump Hadley was pitching and gave Foxx a fast ball.

"Jimmy turned it into an even faster one," Goslin related. "It not only cleared that two-decker stand in left, but Somerset avenue as well, and finally came down on the roof of a house on the opposite side of the street. I never saw a ball hit so far by a right-hand batter."

MANAGER ROGER PECKINPAUGH, of the Indians, said it was folly to try to make a choice. He suggested that the argument be ended by giving the crown of the left-hand hitters to Ruth and conceding that Foxx hits harder than any other right-hand batter.

Some impressive figures were dug up in support of Ruth. In Florida last March the Babe hit a homer that traveled 549 feet. He has hit out of American League parks several that carried 500 feet.

THE BUSIEST GUY in the world has been located. His name is Howard H. Hill, and here are some of the jobs he holds at York College in York, Neb.: Director of athletics, publicity director, intramural sports director, football coach, basketball coach, golf coach, track coach, tennis coach and cross-country coach. To keep himself occupied during his spare time, he probably doubles on the big horn in the college band.

BILLIARD FOLLOWERS ARE awaiting with interest the effect of Welker Cochran's capture of the world three-cushion championship on other balkline stars. Now that it has been shown a balkliner can leave his field and reach the peak in the angle game, they expect to see Jake Schaefer Eric Hagenlacher and more drawn into the fold.

Cochran's feat of winning eight out of nine games in the tournament, and bagging the title over the field of old-school angle shooters, opened a new era in the three-cushion game. It is the first time the world championship at that style of play has been held by a balkline specialist. Willie Hoppe tried for it twice, but failed both times.

AFTER THEIR GAME with the Paterson basketball pros in Motor Square Garden tonight, the Rosenblum Celtics will remain in this territory to play in Steubenville, Youngstown, Wheeling, Altoona, Johnstown and Cumberland.

Then they will perform in Central and Eastern Pennsylvania until February 27, when they will end the tour in Gettysburg. Applications for games have been received also from McKeesport, Charleroi, Beaver Falls, Ellwood City, Meyersdale, Connellsville and Punxsutawney, and Johnny Freund, booking agent, says later dates will be offered for their consideration.

Sir Malcolm Campbell

ONLY FIVE MEN ever have driven an automobile at a speed greater than 200 miles an hour. Four of them found death the penalty of their repeated daring dashes against time—Maj. H. O. D. Seagrave, Frank Lockhart, Ray Keech and Lee Bible, though the drive that killed Seagrave was made in a motor boat. Only one is left, Sir Malcolm Campbell, and today finds the steel-nerved Englishman making final preparations for another gamble with death on the hard sands of Daytona Beach, Fla. With his 12-cylinder Bluebird carrying added weight and length, and its horsepower increased from 1,450 to 2,600, Sir Malcolm tomorrow will start a series of trials in an attempt to smash the world record of 253 968 miles an hour which he set last year on the same course. They thought the limit had been reached when he attained that astounding speed of practically 254 miles an hour in 1932. But they thought the same when he made 206 9 miles in 1928, and again when he raised it to 248.8 in 1931. So perhaps the daring Britisher will come through with new staggering figures at some stage of the series of trials starting tomorrow. He has expressed the belief that in his reconstructed car he can make 265 miles an hour, or almost 4½ miles a minute.

CARROLL, SLADE AND FLOWERS IN DEAL

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—While most of the major league baseball clubs were apparently content to concentrate on the contract situation, the Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals have broken loose with one of the season's most startling player trades.

The deal, announced somewhat unexpectedly last night, sent Dazzy Vance, Brooklyn's veteran fireball pitcher, and Gordon Slade, infielder, to the St. Louis Cardinals for Owen Carroll, right-hand hurler, who came to the Cards in the deal for Jim Bottomley and Jake Flowers, utility infielder, whom the Dodgers sold to St. Louis in 1931.

It was known that Brooklyn was willing to listen to offers for Vance, who has been slipping from his once great form in the past couple of seasons. But only a short time ago the Cards refused a trade for Tex Carleton or Paul Derringer, and then Max Carey, Brooklyn manager, said he would be satisfied if the Dazzler turned in one good game a week.

CONTRACT NOT SIGNED

Vance was not listed as a holdout, but he had not signed the contract Brooklyn offered, which was understood to be considerably below last year's $15,000 figure. Some of Dazzy's poor work last season was attributed to the fact that he was believed to be resentful over the salary reduction he had to take then.

Carroll, a former Holy Cross star who had played with the Detroit Tigers and New York Yankees, won 10 games and lost 19, with the last-place Cincinnati club last season. In Flowers the Dodgers get a veteran, but useful infielder who can fill in at any position. The Cards, it is understood, sought Slade to fill in for Charley Gelbert, as the St. Louis management is not yet convinced that Gelbert will recover from his hunting accident in time to do much playing.

Baseball Briefs

Taking second place among the Dodger news today was the announcement that William Watson (Lefty) Clark one of two National League pitchers to win 20 or more games last season and the only left-hander to accomplish that feat, had signed his 1933 contract.

Ready to leave for the South, Babe Ruth made it clear that he will sign with the Yankees before he takes part in any exhibition games.

The Giants listed the name of Byrne James, young second baseman from Dallas, among those who have come to terms.

Rob Kline, high right-hand pitcher of the Boston Red Sox, also joined the ranks of the ball players who are satisfied with the salaries offered.

Washington has sold two "farmhands," Alvin Powell, outfielder, and Lynn Griffith, pitcher, to the Albany International League Club.

Brand new 1933 contracts were in the mails today en route to Connie Mack's two star pitchers, George Earnshaw and George Walberg. Contracts were enroute to the other Athletic players some time ago.

Vangs	3	1	.750
Shady Side Academy	3	1	.750
Artillery	2	2	.500
South Park	1	3	.250
Cavalry	1	3	.250

Polo enthusiasts are in for an exciting contest Saturday night, when the Vangs meet Shady Side Academy in what probably will be the turning point of the current Pittsburgh Polo League tourney.

With three victories and one defeat apiece, the Vangs are tied in first place with their prep school opponents.

The Vangs got away to a poor start at the beginning of the season, by dropping their initial encounter to Shady Side, but they have been gaining momentum in successive wins over the Artillery, the Cavalry, and South Park, running the whole gamut of the loop from the cellar position to the top. Paul Mazuzan, capable No. 2 stroker, registered a new high score in league competition against South Park, slipping 11 tallies apast the alert Bill Ackerman.

The A. J. Sunstein water polo'sts won the Irene Kaufmann Settlement championship last evening, defeating the Majestics, 8 to 8.

LA BARBA HERE FOR BATTLE

Fidel LaBarba, former world flyweight champion, now a leading featherweight contender, arrived in Pittsburgh this morning accompanied by his manager, George Blake, the famous referee, and received a chilly reception (joke—the weather, of course).

Fiddle the Barber is here to fight Mose Butch, rugged Oaklander, in the 10-round main bout at Motor Square Garden next Monday night. Meanwhile he has been contacted by Joe Orsini, the Pitt coach, and may attend the Pitt-Duquesne boxing matches at the Stadium Pavilion tomorrow night. Fiddle is a collegian himself, having attended Stanford University for a time. He plans to return for his degree when he quits boxing.

The visit here is a stop-off en route from New York to California. With LaBarba is Pete Sanstol, who may box in the eight-round semi-final at the Garden. The card is complete with the exception of this bout. Tony Constantino is in the second bout with Ray Winbush, and Tony Dipierro meets Chuck Mullins in the opener.

Koubek and Wallace In Handball Final

Frank Koubek and Regis Wallace, unattached, won their way to the final round of the A. M. A. novice doubles handball tourney, defeating H. Miller and E. Roche, of P. A. A., 21-16, 21-14, in the semi-finals on the Keystone Athletic Club courts today.

Koubek and Wallace will meet Patrick Marcin and E. Y. Poling, of the Y. M. C. A., in the final tomorrow at 12:30 p. m.

W. D. Bickle advanced to the class A squash racquets final by defeating Chip Kennedy, 15-18, 15-10, 15-12, 15-11.

Giants File Early Order For Camp Sliding Pit

The management of the Wrigley Field baseball park, where the Giants will train this spring, has been informed one of the things most desired is a sliding pit. Oscar Reichow, business manager, ordered it put in immediately. The Giants trained here without one last year.

TOURNEY PLANS HELD UP

By JULIUS LEVIN

It will take another meeting or two of the basketball committee of the W. P. I. A. L. before definite dates for the annual championship elimination tournament will be set—another meeting of the committee and the settling of some of the sectional championships.

The committee met last night at the Fort Pitt Hotel, with Edmund Wicht, secretary of the P. I. A. A. present, but only tentative arrangements for the annual tournament were made. Information as to the number of champions in outlying sections able to play off their games in their own sections was lacking, which handicapped the committee in agreeing on an opening date. February 24, however, was set as a tentative date.

A movement also has been started to reduce admission prices for the games, but nothing definite was accomplished at last night's gathering. This matter will be taken up at the next meeting, which will be held either Wednesday or Thursday of next week.

W. H. Crane, of Monongahela, W. P. I. A. L. president, also was in attendance. The meeting was presided over by George Cassler, of Coraopolis, chairman of the basketball committee.

TENNIS CONFAB SOUGHT HERE

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

The Pittsburgh Tennis Association will make a definite bid to bring the national meeting of the United States Lawn Tennis Association here during the winter of 1934. Final decision to embark upon this ambitious enterprise was arrived at yesterday when officials of the local net body convened with represetatives of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce and all hands agreed upon plans for top grade handling of the nationwide conclave in the event that it can be secured for the up-and-coming West Penn territory.

According to the dope P. T. A. President J. Phillips Davis will attend the 1933 U. S. L. T. A. gathering in New York next Saturday and there, through the Middle States Sectional group, extend formal invitation to the racquet moguls of the country to place a year hence.

Davis will journey to Gotham armed with letters from officials of the city, county and the Chamber of Commerce. He will also carry voting proxies from his district association.

Pittsburgh has never been the sponsor of a U. S. L. T. A. conference. As a matter of fact, it has been pretty generally the custom to stage such pow-wows in New York. In recent years, however, there has been a disposition to fare farther afield with result that Chicago and New Orleans have enjoyed opportunity to play host to the court powers in the past few winters. President Davis said:

"We are extremely eager to bring the national meeting to Pittsburgh. Tennis has grown tremendously in favor and importance here the last two seasons or more and we feel that the impetus to be lent by a U. S. L. T. A. meeting in this city would be felt over a very wide area—in fact, through all of Western and Northwestern Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia."

Professional basketball makes its 1933 bow in Pittsburgh tonight at Motor Square Garden, where, under the promotorial direction of John J. Freund, Jr., the famous Rosenbaum-Celtics, of Cleveland and the crack Paterson, N. J. stars are scheduled to clash.

If it were merely that two professional basketball teams were billed for a meeting, Mr. John J. Fan might be pardoned for disposing of the game with a "Oh hum!" But not this game now when the famous Celtics with only the great Nat Holman of the original brilliant combination missing are hooked to perform and perform against one another's opposition as could be hooped [illegible]

The old trig-and tried combination of Davie Banks, Pe[illegible] Barry, Joe Lapchick, Nat Hickey and Dutch Dehnert will be in there for the Celtics—a quintet of stars who've gone many places and done many things during the years they have been playing together. And how they've done 'em. There is Barry, the oldest player in the pro ranks—still as good a money player as you'll lay your peepers on. Then there is little Davie Banks—small in size, but what a ball player. Joe Lapchick, the six foot, five and one-half inch center, who has been starring on the hardwood of the country—manager, center and coach of the team.

And how about Dehnert, master of the famous pivot play—the gent the American Professional Basketball League was aiming at when it passed its now famous "five second" rule. And Nat Hickey, a dead shot, possibly the fastest cutting player in the game and a pip of a defense man.

But there are no weak sisters in this Paterson lineup. All are veteran pro league stars, and one of the starting array, Carl Husta, was a former star with the Rosenblooms and what a star he was! He can still go—still pop 'em from that foul circle, and still make it plenty tough for any and all brands of defense.

HEARN AT CENTER

At center, the Jerseyites will have the tallest man in the game today—Tiny Hearn, who goes six feet, nine and one half inches in his socks . . . former Southern Intercollegiate star. What a swell time he and Lapchick will have tonight.

Husta will have either Borgeman or Saunders with him at a forward, and the guard jobs will be held down by Kintzing and Shuchman, the latter a former St. John's college star, the former a big powerful chap, rated the most promising player to break into the American League in two seasons.

The Celtics have been here before and they are welcomed back. There never is any stalling or tincanning about the Celtics. They go out there to win and to give the folks their moneys worth.

In the preliminary tonight, the Goldenson Vanities, star girls' team of the South Side, and the Riggs-LaMar lassies, of Akron, will meet under boys' rules. This game will get under way at 7 o'clock, with the main game scheduled for an hour later.

Seven For Pitt

Pitt's Golden Panthers had nothing more than a second half rally to be proud of as they annexed their seventh triumph in succession and their twelfth in 14 starts for the season last night in the Stadium Pavilion. They beat the Western Reserve University Red Cats after having lost to them two years in a row, but by a far from decisive score and in far from impressive fashion. The score favored Pitt by 27 to 22.

The Red Cats got away to a fine start and at the half, enjoyed an 11-to-8 lead and the distinction of having limited the Pitts to two field goals. The 1,500 fans who braved the blizzard and the chilly Stadium Pavilion to take in the game were not long in forming the opinion that the Panthers had left their "point-a-minute" form in New York.

PANTHERS STALE

The team appeared stale and put up a generally sloppy display of basketball. Dr. Carlson had other words with which to describe it to his lads between halves.

It was a somewhat different story in the second half. The Panthers lost little time in gaining the lead and despite a brave Red Cat rally late in the period, they managed to hold to it—giving the new mustn't-stall-in-the-back court rule a kicking around as they successfully froze the ball in Reserve territory for fully three

REITER, BIRCH AND FELDMAN TO BE OUT

GAMES TONIGHT

Juniata vs. Waynesburg at Waynesburg, West Va., vs. Temple at Philadelphia. Morris Harvey vs. Glenville at Glenville.

Duquesne University's varsity basketballers may be expected to beat West Virginia here Saturday night as the Dukes and Mountaineers go it in the Bluff gymnasium, but the home boys could go into the game in better physical condition than it appears likely they will.

Coach Chick Davies is not a brother to that famous lad who yelped wolf once too often, but the Duquesne mentor has the right to take a rather dismal view of things. Marty Reiter is confined to his home with his sore throat; Art Feldman is in really poor shape with a bum side and Paul Birch has a badly wrenched ankle.

McGEEVER TO START

Capt. Bunk McGeever, who has been a resident of the bench since the game with Westminster, broke into the lineup against Geneva Tuesday and looked very good. He is to start at forward against the Mountaineers, with MacDougal at the other position. Len Brenner at center and Dudey Moore and Frank Serany at the guards.

Tomorrow night the Pitt and Duquesne boxers are to go it in an Intercollegiate Conference match in the Stadium Pavilion. Coach Joe Orsini, of the Panthers, is busy shaking up his lineup, and will present at least two new faces tomorrow, one of those being the stern visage of the team captain, Francis (Cowboy) Seigal, who has been busy in the classroom and in getting into condition since returning from California with the football team. Marius Santicola figures to replace Red Speigel in the 145-pound division.

Tonight, a double attraction is listed for Waynesburg fans as the Yellow Jacket basketball and wrestling teams see action. The basketballers meet Juniata, while the matmen have a dual match booked with Wash-Jeff.

TRACK LINEUP

Coach Carl Olson, of the Panther track and field squad, has announced his list of entries for the annual West Virginia University indoor meet at Morgantown Saturday night. The following will carry the local colors against the crack field entered in the Mountaineer games:

WASHINGTON, Pa., Feb. 9.—After holding a 20-to-17 lead at the half, Wash-Jeff's varsity basketball team was made the victim of a brilliant rally by the Juniata College five here last night and dropped another basketball game, 43 to 42.

LOCAL BOOTERS LIKELY FOES

By TOM BIRKS

With the Castle Shannon McKnights and the Moon Run eleven representing Western Pennsylvania in the National amateur cup competition, it appears reasonable that the two outstanding junior clubs will be drawn together in the next round of the competition and that one of them is sure to appear in the Western final.

Only two teams outside of those named are still in the Western end of the tourney, one from Chicago and one from Detroit.

A meeting between Moon Run and the McKnights, played at Greenlee Field, should draw a capacity crowd. The McKnights had a brilliant season in the Panhandle League, during which they outclassed every other club in the circuit.

The McKnights are one of the most powerful clubs to be banded together locally since the days of the Heidelberg team. The club walked through the Panhadle League schedule, walloped the Goodyears at Akron, a feat that few senior clubs in this district could accomplish, and then last Sunday scored 10 goals against the Valley Athletics at Springdale.

Moon Run forced itself into the limelight last Sunday by defeating Curry in the amateur tourney. In that particular game, it flashed a brand of soccer that Curry could not match.

The Cleveland Slavias will arrive in Pittsburgh Saturday night for the National open cup game with Curry on Sunday. This game will start at 2:30 sharp.

Corbett Shows Slight Improvement

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(INS.)—James J. Corbett, former heavyweight champion of the world, was somewhat improved today, although no definite report could be obtained until after Dr. G. Williard Dickie made his daily examination.

Corbett was said to have spent a comfortable night.

SANDLOT CLUBS MEET

Leading sandlot baseball teams of the district will meet tonight at 701 Sixth avenue for the purpose of organizing leagues. The meeting is open to all teams desiring to enroll in leagues.

SHAUGHNESSY TO COACH AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Clark Daniel (Shag) Shaughnessy, former Minnesota grid star and now coach at Loyola of New Orleans, today was recommended the man to pick up where Amos Alonzo Stagg left off on the University of Chicago football field.

Shaughnessy's appointment as gridiron coach on Chicago's Midway needed only the approval of the University's board of trustees at its meeting this afternoon.

While not mandatory, the trustees were expected to follow the recommendation of Thomas Nelson Metcalf, new athletic director, that Shaughnessy is the best man on the long list of applicants for the job which the 70-year-old Stagg was forced to relinquish.

Chicago returned the compliment to the University of Minnesota, which now has two alumni as gridiron coaches in the Western Conference.

STARRED AT MINNESOTA

In 1930, Minnesota took Stagg's star pupil and first assistant, Fritz Crisler, as its gridiron coach.

Shaughnessy, who starred as tackle, end and fullback at Minnesota from 1911 to 1913, becomes head man for the Maroons, who for 41 years were sent into the gridiron wars by Stagg.

Crisler has moved on to Princeton, and Minnesota's coach is Bernie Bierman, another Gopher star of the old days.

Like Minnesota, Chicago's choice made his reputation as a grid tutor at New Orleans, Shaughnessy and Bierman were contemporaries there, at Loyola and Tulane.

RECORD IMPRESSIVE

Nearly 30 years Stagg's junior, Shaughnessy has held only two jobs. From 1915 to 1926, inclusive, he was athletic director and coach at Tulane. Then he transferred to Loyola of the South.

His records are impressive. At Tulane his teams won 58 games, tied six and lost 27. Loyola squads under his tutelage won 38, tied 5, and lost 16.

STUPPLE WINS GOLF EVENT

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Bob Stupple, unassuming young professional from the Skokie Country Club at Glencoe, Ill., played the dark horse role in the third annual St. Petersburg open championship here yesterday, putting together cards of 73 and 71 for a total of 144 to take first money.

Al Watrous, veteran campaigner from Detroit, and Denny Shute, of Cleveland, finished in a tie for second place, one stroke behind the winner. John Golden, of Noroton, Conn., and Joe Kirkwood, trick shot artist from Philadelphia, were bracketed at 146, one stroke ahead of Craig Wood, of Deal, N. J.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Will the Pittsburgh district provide the successor to Miss Helene Madison as the world's greatest feminine swimmer? . . . Leading authorities on the subject seem to think so . . . For instance, here's what Lewis Burton has to say about the chances of Miss Lenore Kight, of the Homestead Library Club, in the current issue of The Amateur Athlete:

"Did you ever try to cover up a sneeze—and find that your hand got there too late?

"If so, you have an idea of how close to international fame Lenore Kight came one sizzling summer's day in 1932. By the scant margin of a hand—she lost the Olympic 400-meter swimming championship. Helene Madison won the title.

Lenore Kight touching first, by. Not only Miss Kight, but Alice Bridges, of the Whitin Community Association, Whitinsville, Mass.; Dorothea Smithson, of the Los Angeles A. C., and Olive McKean, of the Washington A. C., Seattle, are already making menacing gestures at the Madison-made records."

"Now, with Miss Madison's defection from amateurism, the path to championships and records would seem without obstacle for the Kight girl from Homestead, Pa. Miss Madison held 16 of the 17 world free style records officially recognized by the International Amateur Athletic Federation, but hardly had she turned her back on her amateur career than Miss Kight successfully began an assault on these sacred 16.

"A few days after she had reduced Miss Madison's 500-meter record from 7 minutes 12 seconds to 7:02 3-5 at Coral Gables, Fla., Miss Kight was asked if she would seek to erase every one of Miss Madison's records.

"'That's a large order,' she chuckled. 'I'd like to. But there are other girls around.'

"Other girls? To many people the thought never occurred. Miss Madison was so far ahead of the rest that her competition, except at rare intervals, seemed hopelessly outclassed till Lenore Kight came along with a whirlwind finish at the Olympic tryouts, and then, at the Olympics, Josephine McKim, of the Los Angeles A. C. (formerly of Homestead) was the only other girl who had come close to Helene in two years.

"Nevertheless, there is reason to believe that many of Helene Madison's records will be shattered before another year passes

Lou Palmer, the blind former boxer, of Louisville, is in town for a visit and would welcome a chance to give his bag-punching and shadow-boxing exhibition for any worthy charity . . . He formerly was in vaudeville with the performance . . . Lou is a gritty and optimistic young man for one of his affliction, and he wanders on from town to town and meets the best people . . . He carries credentials from President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt and other big men, and he rides on the bus lines or hitch-hikes his way . . . He claims to be the only blind man who ever hitch-hiked his way from California to New York and back again . . . He can tell when he enters a gymnasium if a boxer is punching the bag properly just by the sound of it, and he has given many youngsters valuable coaching along these lines.

Palmer boxed from 1920 to 1927 while blind in his right eye, the result of an injury while drilling with a rifle in the R. O. T. C., back in 1918. . . . In 1927, he stepped into an open manhole in Louisville and suffered skull injuries which made him totally blind. . . . Undismayed, he worked up his act and has carried on since, cheerful and helpful to others in distress. . .

He actually boxed an exhibition bout while totally blind with Jimmy Goodrich in Buffalo, when the latter was the lightweight champion. . . . He is convinced boxing played no part in his loss of vision and is a booster for the sport. Philosophically, he says: "I do not burden people with a tale of woe about my lost sight. I don't ask anyone to be sorry for me. But, if I had a million dollars, I'd be willing to part with all of it just to be able to see out of even one eye again." —HARRY KECK.

JEAN SHILEY MAY QUIT AMATEURS

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Jean Shiley, holder of the world high-jump record for women, and Olympic and national indoor champion, will not defend her United States title this year, and may never compete as an amateur again.

She announced that she had notified the A. A. U. last night, of her intention not to enter the national indoor meet in New York February 25, and added that after her graduation from Temple University she intends following the profession of physical education.

EDWARDS ENTERS RACE

W. VA. CARNIVAL ENTRY HEAVY

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Feb. 9.—More than 300 college, prep and high school track and field stars will be represented in the fifth annual West Virginia indoor track and field meet in the Mountaineer Field House here Saturday night. Last minute entries may swell this list considerable.

So far, athletes from Pitt, Geneva, Lafayette, Marshall, Michigan State, Ohio Wesleyan, Penn State, Princeton, Michigan, Waynesburg, Villanova and Marquette have been entered. By late tonight or early tomorrow, definite word on Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette's Negro sprint star and Olympic team ace, is expected. Weather conditions in the mid-West will have much to do with Metcalfe's appearance.

Among the star entries will be Ed Turner, of Michigan, who won the 800 meter run in the Millrose games in New York last week.

Trials will be run off in all events Saturday afternoon, with the finals listed for the evening.

Mrs. Hill Attains Tourney Semi-Finals

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Mrs. Opal S. Hill, of Kansas City, coasting along through the Bayshore-La Gorce woman's golf championship, encountered Miss Kathryn Braggaw, of East Orange, N. J., in the semi-finals today.

The Kansas city woman, tournament medalist, defeated Mrs. Jack Hagen, of Salisbury, N. Y., 6 and 5, yesterday in her steady advance, although a sharp wind across the course made the going somewhat tricky. Miss Braggaw won 1 up, from Mrs. John Arends, of Detroit.

Banks, a forward, is a member of the all-star cast of the Cleveland Rosenblum-Celtics professional basketball team, which meets the Paterson (N. J.) Pros in a game at Motor Square Garden tonight. Incidentally, he is quite a favorite with the local fans, who have seen him perform several times.

Women Favorites Gain Quarter-Finals

HAVERFORD, Pa., Feb. 9.—(AP.)—America's four top-seeded squash racquets stars and England's ranking quartet have advanced to the quarter-final bracket of the women's national championship tourney.

Sharkey Extends Garden Contract

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(INS.)—Jack Sharkey, heavyweight champion, has resumed his contract with Madison Square Garden from next June until September, according to a report in Cauliflower Alley today.

This gives the Garden the whip hand over Promoter Jack Dempsey for a bout between Sharkey and the winner of the June match between Max Schmeling, former champion, and Max Baer, of California. Dempsey is promoting the latter match.

The Garden may cancel its proposed June match for Sharkey and wait to sign him with Dempsey's winner.

KEED TO RETURN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(INS.)—The Cuban boxer, Kid Chocolate, and his manager, Luis F. Gutierrez, who were barred by immigration authorities some time ago from entering the United States, have been granted permission to re-apply for admission, it was stated at the Labor Department today. The order, usually a preliminary to favorable action by the department.

ZIVICS SCORE KNOCKOUTS

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

The Zivic brothers, Eddie and Fritzie—carrying on the family tradition set by Pete and Jack—clicked last night in the feature bouts at the Moose Temple Arena.

Eddie, in the scheduled eight-round main bout, punished Don Asto, of Uniontown, so badly that Referee Al Grayber had to step in and call a halt with only four seconds to go in the third round, after Asto had taken counts of nine, four and three, and had been knocked into the ropes several times in the round. The loser was outclassed by the local man, who again showed promise of future greatness.

Fritzie knocked out his old rival, Steve Senich, of Homestead, after two minutes, two seconds of the second round with a left hook to the body that doubled up Senich, who went wincing to the floor for the full count. It was one of the cleanest body blow knockouts scored here in some time.

SIX KAYOS REGISTERED

Only four of the 10 bouts went the limit and the small turnout of fans that braved the cold night was rewarded with the usual rapid-fire action provided by the small ring in use. With the exception of the windup, each battle was scheduled for four rounds.

George Pirrung, Homestead 217½-pounder, floored Ray Jennings, Negro fellow-townsman, three times before the referee stopped their bout after less than two minutes of the first round. Mike Barto, Bunny Buntach's new lightweight, a well-balanced southpaw from New Kensington, dropped tough and willing Johnny Birek three times for no count in the second round and won all of the way to make an auspicious professional debut.

BILLICK NAMED LOSER

Dan Billick, of Duquesne, bested Jimmy Gilligan, of Lawrenceville, but the latter got the referee's decision, and Walter Ketchel, local middleweight, really outscored Red Bruce, Hill Negro, but the latter got the judges' award.

In the other bouts, Sammy Burns bested Jimmy Loizes, Joey Bazzone won by a technical knockout over Patsy Wallace, Hill Negro; Frankie Portland lost by a knockout to Elmer Wilson in the fourth round, after being floored several times before, and Jackie McGann won by a technical knockout over Young Pace late in the third round.

Between Rounds

Jimmy Sawyer, of Lafayette, Ind., who boxes Jimmy Thomas in the 10-round first half of the double windup at the Arena, on the North Side tomorrow night, has met Willie Davies, Hippo Atherton, Louis Carpentero, Frankie Jarr and other good little fellows and comes highly recommended. The pair will box under a Charley Baxter-Willard Brewer pairing, Brown being the claimant of the Indiana State welterweight title.

Manuel Quintero and his manager left this morning for Hot Springs, Ark., where the Spanish southpaw welterweight boxes Tommy Freeman again on February 23. Quintero canceled his match with Ray Lyle at East Liverpool, O., last night when the latter scaled more than 10 pounds too much in the afternoon.

Y. M. H. A. FIVE PLAYS

The Y. M. H. A. will have the North Siders as their basketball attraction at the Y. M. H. A. tonight. In the leading independent game last night, the Golden Vanities defeated the Canonsburg Colts, 20-9.

BUCS PREPARE FOR TRAINING SEASON

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The spotless mantle of snow covering the Oakland Orchard is beautiful to behold, yet only a few steps away one may hear the noise of big trunks sliding over the clubhouse floor, not to mention the rattle of bats and other sounds suggestive of the pleasurable summer sport.

George (Chauff) Asten has just about completed his task of packing the uniforms, shoes, bats, balls and kindred articles essential to a baseball training camp. The vanguard of Buccos is slated to pull out of the Pennsylvania station one week from Sunday morning and a few days later the pitchers and catchers will be doing their stuff in far-off Paso Robles, weather permitting. And the weather does permit as a rule.

HONUS SPARKLES ON AIR

Among those who are quite "het up" over the approaching season is Honus Wagner. The famous "Flying Dutchman" was in his best voice and humor last night on WCAE, the voice of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Wagner reviewed the Buccaneer craft from bow to stern during the weekly sports program of the Trained Seals, Jess Carver, the Sun-Tele's college sports chronicler, and Chick Davies, clever coach of the Duquesne basketeers, also furnished high spots on the program.

Wagner would not make any pennant prediction concerning George Gibson's attractive club; he is too cautious and practical for any such prophecy. Answering a question in connection with the flag, Honus said:

"You cannot win pennants on blackboards or any other place but out there on the field."

MAKES 'EM LAUGH

The spark of humor which has ever been alive in the lovable character of the diamond caused a laugh among those in the studio when Wagner dwelt upon coaching duty. It appears that among the many letters of congratulation he has received since he rejoined the Pirates were quite a few that asked whether he would coach at first or third base. The writers apparently wished to be close to the famous shortstop. Said Honus:

"I think I'll write and tell them that I'll coach at second so I won't be playing any favorites.

MANNY KESTNER MOURNED

The many friends of Charles Kesner, once a brilliant catcher of the oldtime Beltzhoover A. C., are saddened over the passing of this beloved South Hills citizen, who died as a result of a fall.

Manny Kestner, as he was known to the baseball fans of 30 years ago, was a member of the same Beltzhoover team that brought out and developed Otto Knabe, Hans Lobert, Elmer Knetzer and many other diamond luminaries.

There are few places that have produced as many good baseball players as have the South Hills district, and Kestner in his day was a topnotcher. A son, Elmer, is a crack shortstop who spent some time in the Southern Association. His widow and a daughter, Miss Laverne Kestner, are the other members of the family, which resides at 243 Climax street, Beltzhoover.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at St. George's Catholic Church, Allentown, where a high mass will be sung.

RALLY CARRIES STOCKS UP 1 TO 3

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Best rally in nearly a month developed in today's stock market, carrying many issues 1 to more than 3 points higher.

The list eased off a little in the middle of the day, but trading slackened on the decline, and recessions from the best were largely limited to fractions. Persistent firmness of the market in recent sessions, and a series of regular dividends, evidently sent shorts to cover.

Rails were prominent in the advance. Union Pacific ordered its regular quarterly dividend of $1.50, and brokerage gossip mentioned the forthcoming report of the National Transportation Committee as a constructive factor. The report is expected within the next fortnight. The series of regular dividends this week prompted shorts to cover in American Telephone, whose directors are scheduled to meet next Wednesday.

What was probably an important factor in prompting the shorts to cover was refusal of the market to break through the lower resistance level of the past four months, in its recent reaction. The market approximated that level, as measured by price averages, at the end of last week. It had been creeping slowly higher this week, until the advance became rapid in the early hours of trading today.

The somewhat better action of the commodity markets this week has also made shorts in stocks a little uneasy. The wheat market again acted well today, although there was some reaction in hogs at Chicago, after the recent upswing. The Bureau of Labor's wholesale commodity index as announced for February 4 stood at 60.0, against 60.4 a week previously. In the light of recent developments, the next week's showing is expected to be better.

Steel Equipment Orders Increasing

YOUNGSTOWN, Feb. 9.—Steel plant equipment makers in the Youngstown district report heavier orders and more inquiries for machinery to replace equipment worn out or becoming obsolete.

The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company has opened its Brier Hill Plate Mill for a short turn after a long suspension, and shortly will resume production on a part-time basis at its Brier Hill Sheet Works.

Baldwin Bookings Lower Last Month

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 9.—Business booked by the Baldwin Locomotive Works and affiliated companies in January totaled $517,000 as against $859,000 in January, 1932, and $468,000 in December, 1932. Shipments for the month were $662,000 compared to $877,000 in January last year and $769,000 in December, 1932. Unfilled orders on January 31 amounted to $2,482,000.

Universal Pictures Planning Shut-Down

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9.—The Universal Pictures Corporation will discontinue operations at its Universal City studio February 11. Officials announced that production is now ahead of schedule and a temporary shut-down is unavoidable. Production will be resumed in about eight weeks.

Duquesne Club Wins Over Bridge Rival

The Duquesne Club, by winning from the Pittsburgh Athletic Association by a narrow margin, was in the lead in the inter-club duplicate contract bridge tournament today.

The Duquesne Club won by using the match point by pair system, which resulted in 275 for it and 265 for its rival. The Engineers Society won from the Harvard-Yale-Princeton Club and the Keystone Athletic Club from the University Club.

Kelly Urges Cut In Airmail Rates

BANKER SEES PRICE BOOM THIS YEAR

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—If President-elect Roosevelt demonstrates during his first four months in office an ability to hold Congress in check, the country is within six months of a boom in commodity prices, followed by a rise in security prices, according to George L. Browning, president of the Seaboard National Bank, of Los Angeles, who is visiting in New York.

Mr. Rukeyser

Mr. Browning told me that he gathered from talking to keymen in Wall street banks that New York would be ready to go forward if it felt that business would get co-operative action from Washington.

Mr. Browning expressed the opinion that the present low level of commodity prices constitute the safest basis for making loans in 25 years.

CONFIDENCE NEEDED

He thinks that confidence is the one ingredient needed to start a spiral of recovery, pointing out that the great deterrent is not a scarcity of gold or credit, but rather an indisposition on the part of those with bank deposits to turn them over at anything approaching the normal rate. He expressed the opinion that settlement of the debts would constitute the spark which would set off the flames of confidence.

In connection with the question of a compensatory tariff to offset exchange depreciation, which Congress is considering, the spokesman for one of the most important industrial organizations in the country told me:

"We earnestly believe that it is to the advantage of American labor, as well as of American industry in general, to have some compensating tariff legislation passed against those countries whose currency is heavily depreciated.

'HIDDEN' TARIFF

"One of the chief reasons alleged by foreign countries for allowing their currencies to depreciate, is that they thereby secure a 'concealed' tariff on their imports, as well as an advantage in their exports because costs are lowered in terms of the currency of the purchasing country. This entire problem is clearly stated by Sir Arthur Salter, the well known British economist.

"It should be obvious that relative costs can in general be lowered only at the expense of labor in those countries having depreciated currency. That is, the apparent advantage would be lost if wages were advanced to an amount commensurate with the depreciation in the currency. This means that ultimately every country with depreciated currency tends to exploit its own labor and beat down the standard of living. To the extent that each country tries to secure for itself this supposed 'advantage,' each one in principal merely attempts to outdo the other in beating down the standard of living of its own workers, until a point is ultimately reached when all are 'in the soup altogether,' all having lost their temporary comparative advantage over one another—and in the meantime having utterly demoralized their labor forces in their mad attempts to get something for nothing. Also, such a process could well lead to so great a depreciation of currencies that they would become virtually valueless, with a corresponding destruction of the entire business and social organization of the respective countries."

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Twenty two thousand tons of Argentine wheat have been sold to Shanghai millers and will be shipped before the end of the month. NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Bonds continued to work toward higher levels today, influenced by a well maintained demand for rail loans and high grade utilities. U. S. Governments rallied from yesterday's low levels. The foreign division, uniformly strong during the past few sessions, was irregular with some issues reactionary.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows (000 omitted in sales column; United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

Need Change to Protect Depositors

—By B. C. FORBES—

ALBERT H. WIGGIN, when he was relinquishing the helm of the world's largest bank, the Chase National of New York, last month made almost exactly the same remark as Frank A. Vanderlip made to me 14 years ago when he gave up the presidency of the National City Bank of New York, then America's largest financial institution:

B. C. Forbes

"It's an indescribable relief not to have responsibility for a billion or more debts payable mostly on demand, but not all collectable on demand."

C. B. AXFORD, editor of the American Banker, tells the New York American:

"Segregation is needed of all deposits into separate institutions or departments, in which the contractual relation between banker and depositor-creditor will include a restriction on withdrawals which will protect the slow, interest bearing assets of the bank and the country's capital securities from overpaid and deflationary liquidations. Demand deposits to be segregated and invested only in quick, self-liquidating credits."

OBVIOUSLY, THERE is something wrong with an arrangement which permits any and every bank depositor to step up to the window and demand that there be immediately handed to him all the money he has deposited when equally obviously, no bank could exist if it kept in its vaults every dollar which had been deposited in it.

A bank which simply put into its vaults every dollar of deposits couldn't pay for the services of even one office boy, to say nothing of rent, etc.

Banking, as we know it, is feasible only because deposits can be and are put to work and made to earn wages.

AT PRESENT, any and every depositor can, theoretically walk up to a paying teller and receive every penny of his deposit.

This plan works all right in normal times because not too many depositors demand their money all at once. But we have learned from costly experience that this plan breaks down when, from one cause or another, too many depositors rush up and demand that their funds be immediately handed over to them.

In other words, as Messrs. Wiggin and Vanderlip observed, bankers have debts, meaning deposits, payable on demand whereas they have invested a considerable part of the money in such forms that the funds cannot be immediately collected.

FOR HIS OWN protection, is it not desirable that the bank depositor should not have the right to demand repayment without a month's notice?

This theoretical right, as we have seen, has contributed to drastic losses by depositors through the closing of more than 5,000 banks since financial trouble broke loose.

Manifestly, it is in the interest of the depositor, no less than in the interest of the banker, that the latter be not legally obligated to perform the impossible. As anyone can see, and as many unfortunates have learned, it is impossible for every bank to pay every dollar of deposit at any and every moment.

A banking system which works effectively only in fair weather is not enough. Mr. Roosevelt would do well to appoint a thoroughly competent body to delve deeply into this whole subject for the purpose of formulating reforms calculated to enable our banking system to stand up under all conditions.

THE FINANCIAL world is neither enthusiastic nor alarmed over the list of prospective selections for the Roosevelt cabinet. Thus far, there is a dearth of names of men of very large affairs, a plethora of purely political names.

THE SECURITY markets, all things considered, are behaving well.

Match to Get Bonds Pledged by Kreuger

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—The International Match Corporation will regain possession of German bonds with a face value of $21,000,000 under an agreement approved today at a special meeting of creditors.

Godfrey Goldmark, of counsel for the trustee, of the bankrupt match company, said the bonds were part of $50,000,000 face value securities pledged with five Swedish banks in 1931 by Ivar Kreuger as collateral on loans. The Swedish banks will retain $29,000,000 of the bonds.

Receiver Appointed For Dupont Motors

WILMINGTON, Del., Feb. 9.—(INS.)—S. Scott Baker, of Wilmington, today took up his duties as receiver for DuPont Motors, Inc., of Wilmington, following his appointment by Chancellor Josiah O. Wolcott, in Chancery Court.

The receiver was named upon petition of the Indu Corporation and Seaburg and Black, both local concerns, who claimed the motor firm was unable to meet maturing obligations.

Corn Exchange Bank Establishes New Precedent

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

THE CORN EXCHANGE Bank Trust Company of New York has taken an unprecedented step. In observance of its eightieth anniversary it sent its stockholders a statement of condition in which it published a complete list of its investments.

The universal practice of banks has been to publish only the total value at which investments are carried. This leaves the public entirely in the dark as to the character of the holdings in which the bank has placed its investment funds. Uncertainty regarding the true value of the investment accounts of banks has been one of the factors which has made it difficult to estimate their strength from statements.

The break with tradition made by the Corn Exchange is of particular interest in financial circles because of the possibility that other institutions may follow its example.

Would Mark New Era in Publicity

IF OTHER outstanding banks follow the lead of the Corn Exchange in its policy of frankness regarding its holdings, a new era will be started in the relations of banks with their customers.

Such a move would constitute a step of the utmost importance toward giving some real significance to the statements published periodically by banks. It would make it possible for the individual to form a more nearly accurate estimate of the resources of banks and of the policies being pursued by their managements.

As matters stand today, half the items on bank statements are meaningless because it is impossible for an outsider to know the true character of the assets.

Most Banks Are Found Evasive

THE ATTITUDE of the Corn Exchange Bank Trust Company offers a sharp contrast to that of most of the other outstanding New York banks.

At their recent annual meetings the officials of a majority of the institutions gave only guarded or evasive answers when stockholders questioned them regarding their investment holdings.

The Corn Exchange did not state whether or not the publication of such complete information is to become general practice. If it is adopted as a permanent policy, it will be an influence of major importance in bringing other banks into line.

REDHEAD

By SAMUEL MERWIN

CHAPTER X.

"First let's get this straight—if you've got any notion that I've carried you off to make love to you, forget it. This cruise isn't going to be a joyride, believe me!"

She sniffed again.

"Nothing like that. Now let's talk sense. I'm going to tell you exactly what I'm up to. And after that you can decide for yourself what you're going to do about it. You've been making an awful darn fool of yourself . . . Now, listen! I intend to do the talking for the present. I always supposed you had sense. You've shown that you haven't. I don't know what your mother's been thinking of. You're just an idiot. And I'm afraid she's another. You've let some gay Johnny or other fill your head with a lot of fool ideas about freedom and living your own life—"

"What is it you're up to?" she interrupted, savagely.

"I'm going right straight on out to sea until I'm satified that you've come to your senses. I shall be busy, remember that. It's no joke sailing a boat of this size single-handed. And we shan't always have this soft weather."

Sue gave a little groan and rolled her head weakly away from his quietly blazing gaze.

"You don't want any advice from me, but I'm going to give you some just the same."

"Oh, shut up!" She was reduced to childish rudeness.

REFUSES TO HELP

But he went straight on with it. "The wisest course for you is to make up your mind to help with the work. There's plenty of housekeeping on a boat. For instance, the cooking."

"I won't!" she groaned.

"Oh, you won't?"

"Certainly not!"

"Very well. I'll have to do the best I can alone. But it may mean pretty irregular meals. I'm going to give you the forward stateroom. You can shut yourself in. Lock yourself in, if you want to. I'll get my things out now."

He proceeded to do this, emptying the drawers beneath the berths, carrying his extra clothing back into the cabin and dumping it on the opposite berth.

"I've laid out a sailor suit for you," he said, crisply. "Blouse and pants. And a pair of sneakers. Better get out of those fancy clothes. Now come forward here and I'll show you how the lavatory works."

She sat motionless.

"May as well come," he called back. "You'll have to know."

For a long time she sat without a sound or a movement. He simply waited. But he was right. She would have to know. So at last she got up, and weakly, steadying herself, came forward. But she wouldn't look at him or speak while he explained the operation of pedal and pump.

"Now," said he, "I'm going back on deck. You can do as you like. But I'd say you might as well make yourself comfortable. And you'd better do a little thinking about that matter of the cooking. You may come to the conclusion that you might as well tackle it."

"I won't!" she gasped angrily.

"Very well. It's up to you. I'll leave you."

He had turned to go when Sue clapped a hand over a blue, trembling mouth and leaned, really almost fell, against the door.

For the first time, then—he'd been too intent on his own thoughts to observe her closely—he caught the situation. She was seasick. And he had to nurse her as if she were a child through the first paroxysms. Afterward he lifted her into one of the forward berths. She was too far gone to resist.

"You'll be all right in a day or two," he said.

She felt a little better lying down. She was crying again. And, at last, talking. "Charlie Janes, you're a beast!" she sobbed. "What right have you to put me into this position. The worst sort of scandal! It's—it's unspeakable. I'll hate you all my life! And when I tell the world what you've done——"

"Better keep quiet now," said he. "As soon as you feel up to it you'd better get your clothes off. A little sleep won't hurt you. And neither will the scandal. You were heading straight into that anyway, with your trick aviator."

He closed the door on her wailings and went up into the cockpit. The Sue was still bounding merrily along, right on her course. A grand little ship! She'd carry you anywhere. Looking about, eyeing the set of full canvas and the trim deck, he slammed a fist into a firm palm, exultantly. His heart was beating like mad. He'd done it!

Before changing his clothes and settling down at the wheel, he went forward and opened the hatch. She'd need all the fresh air she was likely to get.

While the good weather held, he decided, he'd sleep in the cockpit. Sleep with an eye open. There was sure to be some bad going outside.

He spent the night rounding Cape Cod, snatching a little sleep as he could. Off Highland Light he had to close the forward hatch. But the wind wasn't as high as the sea. At intervals he dodged down into the cabin, switched on a light, studied the chart, and wrote neat entries in his log. If he'd been alone in the boat he'd have preferred heading west through Nantucket Sound, rounding Martha's Vineyard and thence south or southeast. But it would have to be a daytime run through the Sound. There'd be any number of steamers and yachts. Sue might come to and call for help.

BECOMES STERN

One rather striking change had come over him; so strangely that he sensed it himself. The tremendous concentration on his love, which for a year or more had colored his every thought and every act, was giving way to an exaltation of a wholly different sort. He was becoming a determined, stern navigator. He couldn't, with the blood that was in him, fall short in that. And, as he had said to Sue, he was going to be busy at it. Very busy.

Handling the big mainsail, alone, called for all the strength and activity of an able-bodied man. There were simply endless little things to be done. Below decks, there'd be cleaning and a lot of cooking and washing up. Navigation took time. And there were things to do with motor and generator; tinkering. Deck swabbing, too; and brightwork to clean. Toward Sue (however defensive a tinge may have colored this mood), he was beginning to feel an angry contempt. She had lost her head over the money. And she'd lose it again. She simply wasn't stable. Nothing there but emotion. That would be why she gave up so completely to whatever environment might surround her at the moment. Any fresh atmosphere could sweep her clean off her pretty feet. Lucky he'd caught the truth in time. If they'd married he'd have had just as much trouble. She took after her mother, evidently. Or perhaps women were that way, all women. Just impulsive, changeable creatures, with no real moorings in the shape of character.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER JUNIOR COMIC CLUB

Next Tuesday is Valentine Day!

All of the theaters where the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club meetings are held will feature Valentine parties this week. Prizes which are awarded to the contestants in the many games and contests which are held for the members, will have the Valentine theme.

Manager Frank Roberts, of the Enright, has several big red heart-shaped boxes of candy which will be awarded and it is expected that many valentines, both comical and sentimental, will change hands at these meetings.

At the Ambridge Theater, in addition to the Valentine party, the children will be entertained with four acts from the Mann School of Dancing. They are: Dorothy McCarthy in a clever acrobatic dance, Phillis Caputo in a tap dance and a difficult toe tap strut, Jean Knause in a novelty acrobatic dance and Mary Ross in a fast and snappy tap.

Another great show is promised to the members who attend the meeting at the Memorial Theater, McKeesport, Last week so many "kiddies" wanted to sing and dance that Manager Louis Gilbert was unable to find time for them on the program. However, this Saturday, the first youngsters to appear will be those who were disappointed last week.

Ten Cents a Date

Impossible to believe Ohio news that a college boy spends average of 10 cents on a date with a co-ed.

Where could they go for that sum in simple squanderation?

Movies are a dime. But that means Freddie would have to check Elsie with his hat and umbrella. Coming out again he would have to forget where he left the bumbershoot.

Two fares on the street car are the same shining dime. It should be sparkling like a short circuit by now. Of course, Freddie could say:

And Elsie could respond, "I don't want to be selfish about the air, Freddie, my boy. I'm going to give it all to you."

A soda is a nickel. With two Siamese straws it is the same price. If Elsie sat in the sophomore's lap they might sell the other park bench to a ticket speculator.

And even a park bench isn't so economical when the budget is skeletonized to a thin dime. There are ice cream cones, peanuts and popcorn salesmen waiting to pounce on a dime like a boy on a turtle.

How about the hot dog stands? Could you buy one for yourself and send Elsie home to the folks?

No, it can't be done. Either the girl eats at home or you take your dime into Wall street and run it up into two telephone calls.

A Yale man or a refugee from the Harvard huddles will spend $10 on a date, subject to borrowing without notice. He may not always pay it back. But he spends it.

We're sorry we heard about this kind of finance at all. We get the nightmares thinking about losing our last dime in the uncharted wilderness of a raccoon coat.

It won't do at all. The greatest authorities on silver demand the ratio of 16-to-1. They wouldn't stand for one-to-two.

Still, going out with the dime boy must give the girl a contented feeling of security and honesty. She doesn't have to worry about him having robbed a bank.

A Japanese Menace

Pittsburgh Must Be Protected Against the Competition Of Low Cost Iron and Steel.

The Pittsburgh office of the United States Department of Commerce issued yesterday a press memorandum which contains a warning for the United States in general and the Pittsburgh district in particular.

The memorandum comes from W. S. Dowd, assistant commercial attache in Tokio, and warns that Japan is producing the cheapest pig iron in the world, that its output of iron and steel has increased enormously during the past year, that it is exporting iron now to our Pacific coast states and many other parts of the world, and expects to find outlets for its iron in the eastern part of the United States, also.

In other words, Japanese iron and steel manufacturers are confidently looking forward to underselling Pittsburgh producers right here in our own territory.

The lowest world cost of pig iron production is claimed by the Japanese plant at Anshan, Manchuria, Mr. Dowd reports. Because of this fact and the depreciation in exchange value of the yen, the Anshan plant is now able to export to all parts of the world. It has received orders from the South Sea area, the American Pacific coast and South America, he continues, and the producers feel encouraged by prospects for outlets on the United States Atlantic coast and in South Africa.

"The Japanese state," Mr. Dowd reports, "that as present world-wide conditions indicate that they will exist for some time longer, they believe that they will be able to develop this general distribution."

He reports, further, that Japanese production in all iron and steel categories showed greatly increased schedules in October, 1932, the latest month for which figures are available. Ingot steel in October, 1932, rose to 209,745 tons from a total of 37,934 tons in October, 1931. Rolled steel last October amounted to 172,994 tons, compared with 34,713 tons in October, 1931.

Here is a threat that calls for action.

The Chamber of Commerce and our other civic and trade bodies should rally to the protection of Pittsburgh's chief industry by using their utmost efforts to rouse Congress.

A Lady Said Something

No Other Lame Duck Did.

Ruth Bryan Owen, daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan, an able Congressman, defeated and included among the "lame ducks" that will no longer return after defeat, celebrates her going with suitable verses which she calls "her will."

Of all the retiring members, Mrs. Owen contributes to the break up of the "lame duck" session, and system, the only good-natured comment in her will that follows:

MRS. OWEN'S 'WILL'

To members in the coming session
We leave what's left of the depression.
With fifty thousand tomes appended
Telling just how it can be ended.
To Congressmen who'll draw our salary
We leave all gunmen in the gallery.
All Communists who march and fight
And threaten us with dynamite.
Those stalwart ones may have the onus
Of laying hands upon the bonus.
The currency—to them we hand it—
To shrink, contract it, or expand it.
We'll let them exercise their talents
On making that thar budget balance
And, pointing out, with no delaying,
A tax the public won't mind paying.
To make this simple as can be
We leave to them technocracy.
To them we're leaving the analysis
Of beer producing no paralysis.
To them we leave, with stifled sobs,
All persons who are seeking jobs.
Our pangs of exile 'twill assuage
To know we have no patronage.
To you, dear ladies of the press
We leave unfeigned thankfulness.
All you have done to give us pleasure
Are memories we will always treasure.
While we roam that vast expanse
Where lame ducks seek their sustenance.
When happy days are here again
Please let us know just where and when.

Mrs. Owen will return to Congress later, you may be sure. She has brains and her state, Florida, is intelligent.

Mrs. Pinchot, wife of the Governor of Pennsylvania, gave a dinner for Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and showed what could be done with wise buying in a "community market."

The food for 75 people at the dinner cost two dollars and seventy-one cents, and included corn bread, cabbage rolls stuffed with salmon and rice, whole wheat bread, hamburger steak, spinach, and apple and orange salad. A good dinner in a depression. But it is not what Americans want as a general thing, and it wouldn't be good for the country if it became universal.

No Longer a Harbinger

Robins Have Been With Us All Winter—What Is the Explanation?

The presence of a flock of robins at Gayly, a village on the Steubenville Pike, not far from Crafton, was reported yesterday.

But robins have been with us all winter—and not just a few isolated specimens, but flocks of them, large flocks.

Naturalists are agog over the phenomenon. What is the explanation?

It has generally been possible to find a solitary robin, during the course of the winter, that had failed to migrate. But not in years, if ever, has so large a part of our robin "population" remained with us through the cold weather.

It may be that the mildness of the winter has had something to do with it, but it is not to be forgotten that we had zero temperatures last autumn.

The average date of the appearance of the first robin returning from the South is February 22.

But the robin, as a permanent resident, is no longer a harbinger of spring.

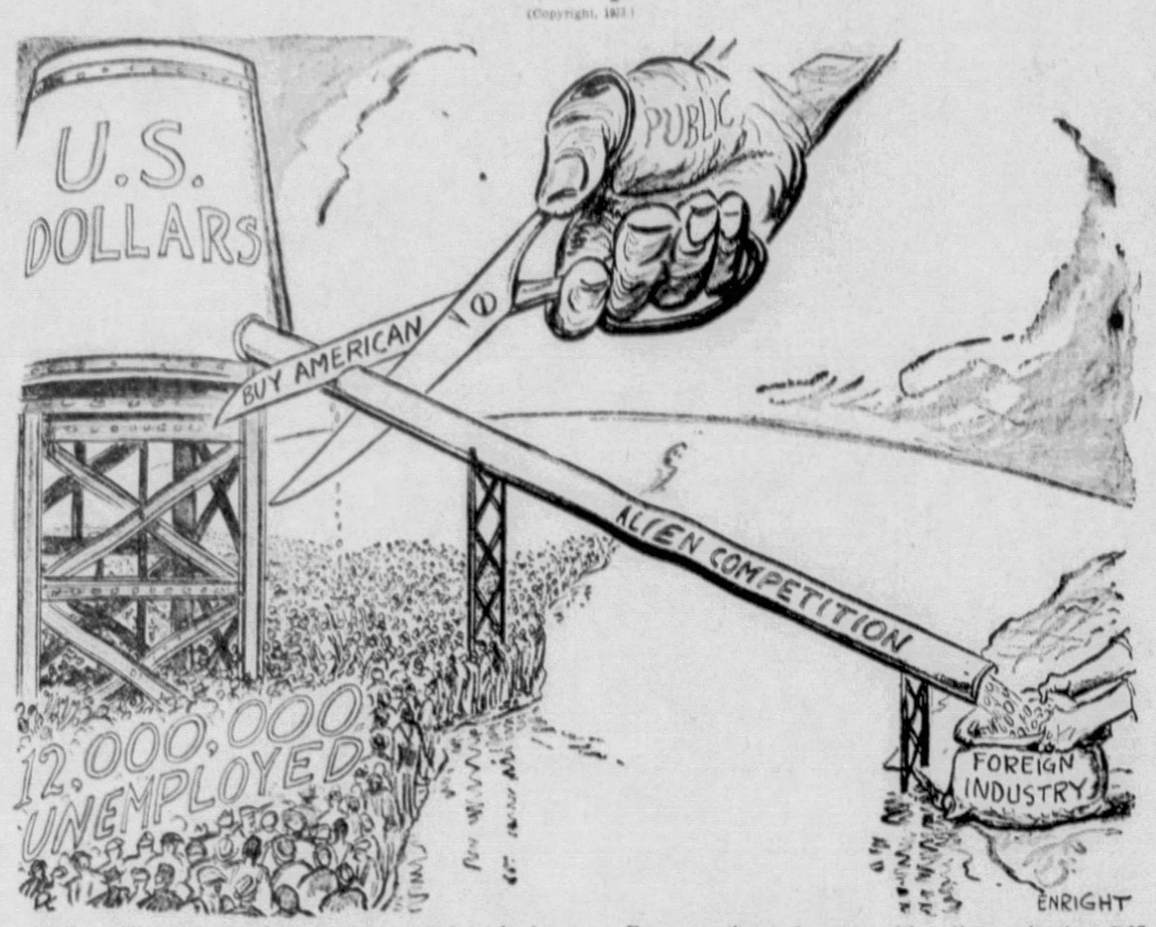
Cut the Pipe Line!

(Copyright, 1933.)



While millions of American workers seek in vain for jobs, foreign countries—with their pauperized labor and their depreciated currencies—flood the American market with cheap goods.

They stifle our industries and drain away our profits, compelling factories to shut down and bread lines to increase.

Marry-Go-Round

Women—and Other Women

There are few things as rare as an inferiority complex in a woman who has just walked out of a beauty parlor.

* * *

The average woman does not care much, these days, what her husband's creed, philosophy of life or politics may be, if he'll just lapse into being a Human Being, now and then.

A professor of psychology airily cheers all modern spinsters by announcing that ANY girl can marry the man she wants. But, what most women want to know is how to get the man some OTHER woman wants.

Most of the trouble the average married woman suffers from on this earth springs out of her husband's determination to let his conscience be her guide.

Many a man who smiles indulgently at his children for writing to Santa Claus for impossible gifts, will sit down and write a letter to his Congressman in the naive faith that he'll get "Repeal."

* * *

So long as marriage is regarded as a prison, says Reno Ruth, why blame a "trusty" for occasionally dreaming about a jail-break?

A loving husband will do almost anything reasonable to make his wife happy; but what she secretly wishes he would do is some of the rash, UNreasonable things he used to do before they were married.

Statisticians are always checking up on women. Once it was the amount they spent for cosmetics, then the number of cigarets they smoked. Now they claim that women drink more coffee than ever before. And a cynic suggests that probably women do that, trying to keep awake while the men talk about themselves.

* * *

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—The stage recruited a featured comic from the ranks of the lowly stooges this season. The particular princeling, who excited critics to trade-lasts, was Sid Silvers, who once operated from an upper tier box for Phil Baker. Stooging, I am told, is one of the most difficult stage tricks.

The delineators must have uncanny sense of timing. A reply which is made the shade of a second late falls with the dull ploy of a sack of sawdust. Outside of Baker, the two most successful stooge exploiters have been Lou Holz and Ted Healy, the latter teaming up with a half dozen.

It is the ability to express the gar-mouthed vacuity of a flea-scratching dog, along with a glorious bump of self-assurance, which makes the stooge so hilarious. What appears to be the unbelievable stupidity of a dead-panned oaf becomes, in reality, a shaft of caustic wit.

In the same fashion, it requires a forthright comedian's skill not to be smothered out of the picture by a stooge. He can become only a "feeder," and the best quips not only are at his expense but the biggest laughs and heartiest applause go to the stooge.

Among disciples of unfinished business are those established husbands, puffing well-stained briars, casually ambling through quiet streets at sundown, airing Pekes, Poms and an occasional Borzia. They seem to shrink from being conspicuous.

The most devout airer-of-dogs was the sculptor, Prince Paul Troubetzkoy. He kept four pure white Samoyed sledge dogs, imported from Russia, in his apartment in the West 70's. Accustomed to the open, the dogs continually whimpered when confined to the limited space of their New York quarters. So, the Prince could be seen about every three hours, day and night, with his picturesque quartet on leash.

The Prince once joined our rowdy group of poker players, convening weekly in an uptown inn. He was an inveterate pokerist, and our low-staked game, with its barrage of sarcasms, doubtless was boring. But there was one rather exciting tilt among the Prince, Dr. George A. Dorsey and Clare Briggs, now gone. Dorsey had a straight and Briggs, a queen-high full. The Prince laid down four shining aces. "So that's why they call you, Your Highness," sneered Briggs.

Someone tells me that Beatrice Lillie, in the wake of enthusiastic applause as honor guest of the Dutch Treat Club, tra-laed: "I wish O. O. McIntyre could hear this!" I wish so, too. It would be different, for most of the applause which I have heard for Miss Lillie has come from a first night claque.

Yet, I am not entirely cold to Miss Lillie's charms. With the exception of Frances White—and where is she these days—no one has been able to achieve such a magnificent hair-slick. A certain brand of table water invariably makes me think of Rock and White, in the flush of their Broadway popularity. Billy Rock was a dancer, who had no equal in his time or now. He had a way of exploiting his partner that entirely effaced his own grace, which should be the goal of every professional male dancer.

Frances White once told me that all she ever learned of stage technique was taught by Rock. His methods were vicious. He harangued her between clenched teeth while they danced. As they took bows smilingly, he would heckle her with epithets. After every performance, she would rush to the wings in tears. After about two years of this, he said to her: "You may never forgive me, but you'll never forget the things I tried to teach." And she never did.

New York's staunchest clubman probably is Gene Buck. In 15 years, when in the city, he has not missed a week-day lunch at the Lambs.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Are wives workers—or martyrs?

Is housekeeping a job—or a big favor?

Should the Missis pay her way, as she did before marriage—

Or is a man a Big Brute if he expects the Little Woman to do her share?

If you like a sixteen cylinder Brawl, there are all the makings. Just cut them out, mail them to any wife—then wait and see what happens.

If she's the average married female, you won't have to wait long! For it's dollars to doughnuts that she has been nursing a Number One Grudge since she laid down the orange blossoms and took up the dish mop.

However, now and then you run across a lady who considers housekeeping a regular business, and isn't sorry for herself because expected to be a 50-50 partner. Mrs. O. T. C., for example:

Dear Miss Robinson:

I have never seen a subject like this in an editorial, but I think somebody ought to write about it. It's about the way so many wives regard housework.

When a man marries he expects to work for the new home, and unless he is a regular tramp he never complains about the extra hardships and sacrifices he must face. All that, he takes for granted as part of marriage.

But a young wife acts as if everything she did were a personal favor, for which her husband should be everlastingly grateful. If he isn't, she flies into a tantrum. It never seems to occur to her that it is as much up to her to pay her own way after marriage as it was before, or that housekeeping is as much of a job as her office position was.

I myself have been a housewife for 19 years, after serving eight years in a business office before marriage. During that time I had plenty of chance to study unhappy homes, and it seemed to me that most of it was caused by the fact that the wife wouldn't accept her position as a job, but wanted to prolong the honeymoon indefinitely. So, when I married, I went into it as I would have gone into any other career.

I BEGAN BY MAKING UP A BUDGET AND A SYSTEMATIC PROGRAM, AS I WOULD HAVE DONE IF I HAD GONE INTO A NEW OFFICE. I FELT THAT I HAD NO MORE RIGHT TO PLAY ON THE JOB OF HOUSEKEEPING THAN I DID ON MY EMPLOYER'S TIME. IT SEEMED TO ME THAT IF MY EMPLOYER'S MONEY AND TIME WERE VALUABLE, MY HUSBAND'S MUST BE MORE SO.

So right at the start I cut out all the usual time wasters, such as gossiping over the telephone, or reading magazines and giving myself beauty treatments while the dishes waited. "Work comes first" was my motto. And even though it offended gossiping neighbors, I stuck to it.

In less than five years we had three babies. I've always done all of my own work, with the exception of washing and extra help for cleaning now and then. That seems and is a great amount of work, but I was able to do it because I went at it systematically. My husband has yet to come home and find me other than clean and in a good humor, children clean and happy, house tidy and a good meal cooked. Besides this, I have found time to have an outside hobby—one that rested and fed my soul—also time to play with my children.

With each year I grow healthier and happier. I can truthfully say I have never considered myself overworked. I'm sure if housewives would drop their self-pitying attitude and get to work on their job, we would have very few divorces.

IF WE HAD AS MANY HUSBANDS PLAYING ON THEIR JOBS AND PUTTING AS LITTLE INTO IT AS THE AVERAGE HOUSEWIFE, WHERE WOULD WE BE?

Mrs. O. T. C.
Fort Worth, Texas.

So there is one woman's attitude toward the job of marriage. Is it YOURS?

Once Overs

By J. J. Mundy

At times you feel that you have reached your limit in controlling outbursts of wrath.

Your angry emotions have seethed for days and kept you stirred up most of the time and you'd like to have an outburst yourself, and be relieved.

That, too, might act as a relief vent.

If you can't get rid of your anger any other way, let there be a vocal explosion, a good rousing one that will rid you of the pent-up feelings.

Of course it would be wise to choose a suitable time and place.

And it might be very unwise to visit the full volume of your ill feeling upon someone who is in no way to blame for it.

It is always unwise to give way to anger before children, especially your own children.

And you shouldn't make your family uncomfortable just because you are out of sorts.

It might be better to say to yourself "what do I care?"

'Augur' Explains: Domestic Debts

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The Senate has acted with becoming spirit in calling David S. Barry, its sergeant-at-arms, to account, for a signed article which, intentionally or not, reflects upon the common honesty of members. The clear implication of the article is that members of the Senate and House sell their votes for money, though Mr. Barry says that only a few are so base.

But coming from an attache of the Senate, it is serious; and without a specification of the members charged, all members are left under a cloud. The charge fits in with the active conspiracy to discredit a representative, democratic form of government which is blatant and insolent. If Mr. Barry knows any member of Congress who has sold himself for money, he should name him that Congress may act; if not, he should apologize.

There are men in Congress who represent selfish interests, we are sure, but these men are not bribe-takers. There was a short time following the war between the states when the moral fiber of the entire nation became so flabby that there were men, and not a few, in Congress, who lined their pockets with the proceeds of their betrayal of the public interest. For generations this has not been true. And this is not the time for an attache of the Senate to become a party to the plan to undermine public confidence in the common honesty of their officials.

England's Position Intolerable to U. S.

Mr. Roosevelt has made it clear that he has no thought of seeking to commit the nation to any agreement regarding the debts without consultation with the members of the Committee on Foreign Relations. The function of the executive is to negotiate treaties; that of Congress to pass upon them. Since Congress must pass upon them favorably to make them effective, it follows that its leaders should be consulted before any agreement is made. That Mr. Roosevelt proposes to do.

Meanwhile, English publicists, realizing a little tardily, that the ex cathedra manner in which Neville Chamberlain has flecked away all thought of any concessions to us in return for possible concessions to her on the debt, as though it were ashes from his cigaret, has been a blunder, are trying laboriously to explain it away.

There is nothing to be explained away as far as Mr. Chamberlain's speeches go. They have the virtue of being understandable. They merely serve notice that England will condescend to permit us to take the debt burden off her back and put it on our own, only on condition that England be asked nothing in return. That is an impossible, an intolerable position which will never be accepted by the American Congress.

Would Saddle Debts on America

But "Augur," writing from London, tries to smooth things over. He does it by admitting that we have a right to expect compensating concessions, and he adds:

"Just because for practical reasons the British point of view is that war debts must disappear, similar considerations of a practical nature must make it impossible for the United States to set free its greatest competitor in the world markets without obtaining security against unfair exploitation of the advantage conceded."

That is a fair statement.

Of course, it is not quite clear in one point. It is not proposed that "the war debts must disappear." They can't. Everyone knows that. They can merely be transferred from one nation to another. "Augur" means that England holds that "the war debts must disappear" as far as she is concerned. They would not disappear for us. In fact, they would appear enormously magnified.

Seek to Handicap American Industry

They appear here enormously magnified because "Augur" explains that, of course, England must make common cause with the European debtors in any settlement she makes with us. So the English point of view is that the "war debts must disappear" for Europe only. We are to take them all.

And for all this we are to get nothing in return.

It is interesting to note that "Augur" admits that when we assume the burden of all the debts of Europe we give our competitors an advantage "in the world markets." A former premier of France amplified on this when he said that if France has to pay she will have to tax her industries to get the money; and if she taxes her industries these will have to add that much more to the cost of production; and that would mean an increase in prices asked in the world markets; and that would be unfortunate for France in the struggle for the markets of the world.

By the same token, if we pay not only the debts or a large part of the debts, not only of France, but of all the other debtor nations, we shall have to raise the money by taxing our industries at a much greater rate; and thus we would be handicapped in the fight for the world markets.

Has it not occurred to you that the real explanation of the debt propaganda is to handicap our industries to the limit in the fight for trade?

U. S. Must Form 'United Front'

Now, the only way to prevent the imposing of this burden on our industries is to get concessions relating to trade from the debtor nations when we assume any portion of their debts. This is the position taken by Mr. Roosevelt some time ago. And this is the position that Mr. Chamberlain tells us is unacceptable to England. And "Augur's" explanation that England just must make common cause with the European debtor nations — against the United States—may make England's position clear, but it does more than that—it makes England's position impossible of acceptance here.

A "united front" of the debtor nations against the United States calls for a "united front" among real Americans for the United States.

Mortgage Holders Must Be Lenient

But always, after sympathizing with the plight of Europe, grim reality yanks us back to American problems and America's plight. That at least is of interest to the groundlings. And here we are beginning to face realities and to understand that in the case of private debts we cannot insist too rigidly on what is stipulated in the bond. The insurance companies have blazed the path in the matter of farm foreclosures, and interest rates, and moratoriums. The effect has been good in agricultural sections. Before we get through this is going to be extended to mortgages on homes in towns. Thus from Gov. Horner, of Illinois, an able, humane realist of conservative temperament, we have this appeal:

"I appeal in this emergency to all holders of mortgages in Illinois real estate and personal property, whether residents of Illinois or elsewhere, whether corporations or individuals, to use the utmost forbearance in foreclosing on mortgages upon farms, homes and chattels when the farm or home owner is in such desperate financial circumstances that he is actually unable to pay."

It is no longer what is "stipulated in the bond"—it is what can possibly be done; and both debtors and creditors are victims, and there is no escape. This is a time for forbearance, for reasonable concessions, for co-operation between the debtor and the creditor with the view to doing the best that can be done. In the long run that will be best for all.

Congress now has a measure of relief pending which conditions justify; but the law and government aside, much can be done to revive confidence and courage if debtors and creditors can sit down across the table and seek ways to solve their common problem that neither will be ruined.

Isn't It So?

Flatterers are like cats that lick and then scratch.

Calvin Coolidge's Advice

Only a few days before his death, Calvin Coolidge penned what proved to be his last message to the American people when inditing a letter to Bradley Kelley, of the American Radio News Corporation, director of Hearst station WINS, New York. The former President's farewell counsel was read over the radio by Claude G. Bowers, special writer for Hearst newspapers, as a part of a New Year's broadcast. Looking prophetically to the present day, it said:

"For the year 1933 it seems to me that we need co-operation and charity. The resources of our country are sufficient to meet our requirements if we can use them to help each other. We should co-operate to promote all kinds of business activity. We should do what we can in the way of charity. If all that is implied in these two words could be put into operation, not only would our economic condition begin steadily to improve, but our destitute would secure ample relief. I can think of no better resolution for the new year than to work in these directions."
